U. S. Housing And Gasoline Prices Face Probes Here

Clark Authorizes 2 Grand Juries To Hunt Violations Of Antitrust Laws

Price-fixing of gasoline and monopolistic practices within the Nation's housing industry were under Justice Department scrutiny here yesterday before two Federal grand juries.

One jury, the April panel, was recalled to begin intensive investigation of alleged price-fixing and other antitrust law violations in the sale and distribution of gasoline in the Greater Washington area.

The second jury, the current July grand jury, now probing real estate operations for restrictive trade practices, has been authorized to investigate the entire housing industry in its search for violations of the antitrust laws.

Hear Two Witnesses

Letters of authority filed by Attorney General Tom Clark revealed the extended scope of the two jury sessions.

Specifically cited in the Attorney General's letter of authority instituting the gasoline price-fixing probe were the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and the Retail Gasoline Dealers, Inc., local trade association for independent gasoline dealers.

The held-over April Federal Grand Jury swung into immediate action yesterday. Two unidentified witnesses were heard by the jurors, presumably in a Justice Department attempt to law the groundwork for an investigation expected to last two to three weeks.

Cites Two Firms

Authorized to direct the gasoline probe are W. B. Watson Snyder, special assistant to the Attorney General, and Willard R. Memler, Justice Department attorney.

A large number of persons engaged in sale and distribution of gasoline in the area have been subpenaed to appear before the inquiry body, along with business records of their operations, it was learned.

Attorney General Clark, in his letter of authority filed with the District Court's criminal division, declared:

"The Department is informed that the Retail Gasoline Dealers, Inc., the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, and other firms, corporations, companies and associations known to the department, engaged in the distribution and sale of petroleum, have violated in the District of Columbia and other

Man Collapses As Thermometer Hits 92 Degrees

A 63-year-old Washington man collapsed from heat prostration in the 400 block of M st. nw., yesterday as the thermometer here hit 92.

The weatherman, meanwhile, warned the District of another "hot and humid" day again today.

A few degrees relief may come tomorrow, he said. Yesterday's high at 2:40 p. m. was two degrees higher than Sunday's 90. A mercury drop back into the 80s may come tomorrow.

Today's high is contingent, the forecaster said, on partly cloudy skies and scattered thundershowers expected in the Washington area.

The District's latest heat victim, Albert Singleton, no fixed address, was admitted to Freedmen's Hospital. He was found about 4 p. m. and was taken to the hospital by a Public Health Department ambulance.

His condition was described as "undetermined" last night.

Documentary Films Conclude Tonight With "True Glory"

Col. Peyton G. Nevitt and Miss Helen O'Leary at signing of the contract for the George Washington University Homecoming dance, to be held at the National Guard Armory, November 1

The George Washington University student body may have free use of the National Guard Armory for its homecoming dance if it can produce 500 recruits for the D. C. National Guard.

If the students are unable to find the needed recruits by December 1, they will have to fork over $900 to be "donated" to the fund of one or more national guard units here.

Those are the main points of an unusual contract signed yesterday afternoon by Colonel Peyton G. Nevitt, adjutant general of the D. C. National Guard, and Fred James, co-chairman of the Homecoming dance.

Colonel Nevitt's signature was authorized by Brig. Gen. Albert L. Cox, commanding general of the D. C. National Guard, the contract states. The University's signature is still needed to clinch the deal. James said university approval would be given today.

Colonel Peyton, who said the contract was the first to be signed for use of the huge drill hall by "outside organizations," termed it a "purely cooperative effort between the university and the Guard."

"The $900," he said, is in no way a criterion as to the worth of the hall."

Moreover, he explained, there is to be a recruiting booth in operation at the November 1 dance, an dthe Guard is to present entertainment at intermission time, thus making the affair a "joint undertaking." Dance tickets are to cost $2.40 a person, according to James Day, cocchairman of the GWU group.

The contract reads in part:

"It will be understood that, failing to produce 500 recruits for National Guard, you will donate to the unit fund of one or more units

Trial Ordered For First Gun Law Suspect

New D. C. Statute Tested by Finding of Pistol in Man's Room

The first man arrested under the District's new gun-toting law was held on $1000 bond yesterday for a Municipal Court jury trial October 16.

Under the amended dangerous weapons law, police may search a person suspected of having firearms in his possession.

George Washington Hawkins, 29, of 1327 10th st. nw., was arrested early Sunday morning after No. 2 Precinct Station had received an anonymous telephone call that Hawkins was armed and threatening to "kill every —— cop I see."

Precinct Detectives George Prather, Paul Hutsler and Summerfield Tillett went to Hawkins' address, saw him leaning out a second-story window and heard him shout, they said, "Here they come again!"

When he entered the room, Prather said he saw Hawkins hand two Spanish pistols to a woman. Search of the room revealed a .45-caliber Colt automatic.

On arraignment yesterday, Attorney James K. Hughes asked dismissal of the case on the grounds of illegal arrest; that police did not know how reliable the information was and that the arrest was made without warrants.

Judge George D. Neilson overruled the motion and Hawkins was held on two counts for carrying a deadly weapon.

Assistant United States Attorney John B. Diamond 3d said that without the new law, "it would have been useless to take the case into court."

Hawkins had been arrested Saturday midnight, charged with driving his trailer truck off a truck route.

Grand Jury Inquiry Asked In Clegg Case

Attorney Urges Sifting Of 'Outrageous' Charge In Behalf of Detectives

By Robert Bruskin
Post Reporter

A grand jury investigation of charges made by Julius Willie Clegg, 26, that he was beaten by police was asked yesterday by Attorney Charles E. Ford.

Ford made his request in a letter to Police Supt. Robert J. Barrett "on behalf of the officers alleged to be involved."

Clegg, a Negro was veteran and employe of The Washington Post, accused police through his attorney Roger Robb, of holding him without charges for 84 hours and beating him at Detective Bureau headquarters.

He identified two detectives as his assailants, but their names have not been disclosed by police.

Ford, who vacationed last week in Atlantic City, praised Police Barrett, who has just returned from a vacation at Atlantic City. The letter declared:

"Believe me, the good citizens of the District of Columbia continue to admire you and your department in the fine and honest services you are rendering them."

Ford's letter added: "For not unknown and obvious reasons (not civic-minded), certain persons have been engaged in aiding and assisting Clegg in his outrageous and unfounded complaint."

There was no explanation of what Ford meant. He is still out of the city.

He declared the detectives involved "ask the opportunity to appear before a grand jury and will gladly sign a waiver of immunity."

Barrett said he planned to do nothing until he receives a report from Chief of Detectives Floyd A. Truscott Wednesday morning.

With Legal Weapons

Rep. Dirksen Promises Help In Curbing City's Sex Offenses

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

House District Chairman Everett M. Dirksen (R., Ill.) said yesterday he will cooperate fully to give District officials whatever new legal weapons they fell the needed to deal with sex offenders.

Dirksen's committee would be the first congressional group to pass on proposals for strengthening present local laws on sex crimes.

Details of how the present laws should be reinforced will be discussed at 3 p. m. today in a conference at the office of United Fay.

States Attorney George Morris

Dr. Winfred Overholser, superintendent of St. Elizabeths Hospital; James V. Bennett, Federal prison director; Capt. Rhoda Milliken, head of the Metropolitan Police Women's Bureau; and Lieut. William T. Murphy, head of the Police Juvenile Bureau.

Dirksen voiced strong interest in the move to strengthen the city's sex-control laws.

"Obviously we must leave nothing undone to cope with so monstrous a thing as sex crimes in the District," said Dirksen. "The strnogest kinds of deterrents, and the maximum penalties must be provided so that local law enforcement officials may have whatever weapons they feel are needed to handle the progrem."

Dirksen said he would seek prompt action in his committee after Congress reconvenes for whatever legislation Fay and the other officials may recommend.

Fay emphasized he has reached no final decision on what the new legislation should say. From his

Test Looms On Anti-Red Labor Rules

NLRB Decision On Fur Workers Offers Clear-Cut Case for Court

By The Associated Press

The possibility of a quick Supreme Court test of the Taft-Hartley Labor Law anti-Communist provisions arose yesterday in a National Labor Relations Board decision.

The board ruled, 2 to 1, that the Geraldine Novelty Co., Inc., of Gloversville, N. Y., must reinstate eight employes who were members of the CIO Fur and Leather Workers, and to cease and desist from discriminating against them.

The decision was handed down August 21, the day before the Taft-Hartley Act became fully operative in its new provisions affecting the National Labor Relations Board. The head of the Fur and Leather Workers is Ben Gold, an avowed Communist.

Crucial Question Faced

The Taft-Hartley law bars NLRB aid to unions, unless their officers file affidavits disavowing Communist affiliations.

The crucial question presented in this case now is whether the board will enforce its decision in the event the company refuses to put it into effect. In the absence of an affidavit declaring the union officers are not Communists, the board might take the view that the union has no standing under the Taft-Hartley Act and therefore might decline to press for enforcement.

If the board decided that the union did have standing on August 21 when the decision was handed down, and prior to that when the offenses took place, then the company might appeal.

Issue Clearly Drawn

The board is in a similar position on hundreds of cases decided before August 22, but in this one, the Communist issue is more clearly drawn because of Gold's outspoken affiliation.

A complaint was issued by the Buffalo regional director for NLRB March 29, 1948 alleging the company engaged in unfair labor practices by discharging eight employes because of their membership in the CIO and their activity in its behalf. The rival union was the AFL International Ladies Handbag, Luggage and Novelty Workers Union.

Marine Ace Ups Air Speed Mark To 650.6 MPH

Muroc, Calif., Aug. 25 (AP).—The Navy's jet-propelled Douglas Skystreak boosted its own world air speed record to 650.6 miles an hour today.

Marine Maj. Marion Carl of Hubbard, Oreg., and Patuxent River, Md., who shot down 18 Jap planes in the Pacific, piloted the tiny, scarlet plane four times over the 3-kilometer course at the Army air base here, where only last Wednesday the same plane set a mark of 640.7 miles an hour.

Comdr. Turner F. Caldwell of Arlington, Va., who set Wednesday's mark, was present to see his record bettered.

Liberal Chief Asked to Aid Greek Unity

Griswold Urges Sophoulis to Help Tsaldaris Solve Cabinet Problem

Athens, Aug. 25 (AP).Dwight P. Griswold, administrator of the United States aid program, visited the aged Themistokles Sophouli at his home in Kiphissia tonight and stressed the need for political unity if the American mission is going to succeed, an authoritative source said.

The source said no "pressure was put on Sophoulis, 87-year-old leader of the main branch of the Greek Liberal Party, who early today refused to join a coalition government under Premier-Designate Constantin Tsaldaris, chosen by King Paul to form a new cabinet after the government of Premier Demetrios Maximos fell last Saturday.

Griswold urged Sophoulis to aid in achieving some sort of solution to Tsaldaris' problem to expedite the mission's work. His visit came as Tsaldaris appeared stymied in his efforts to bring Liberal Party representation into a new cabinet.

Sophoulis Wants Premiership

Sophoulis indicated, the source said, that he was willing that Tsaldaris' Populist Party should receive most of the cabinet appointments if he, Sophoulis, is named Premier.

Some circles said such an attitude expressed openly by Sophoulis might result in the union of the two parties in a coalition cabinet. It is known that Tsaldaris would be reluctant to surrender the premiership, but it was pointed out that he previously had offered Sophoulis the presidency of the ministerial council, while he held the top post. These circles said Tsaldaris might agree to reverse the two posts.

Sophoulis was said to have told Griswold that he was the only person in Greece whose name and influence could persuade a majority of Greek guerillas to surrender under amnesty terms.

Choice Narrows Down

Prior to Griswold's visit Tsaldaris' choice appeared to be narrowing down to selecting a cabinet made up exclusively from the right wing or of attempting to create a coalition group headed by a non-parliamentary figure.

For, like Sophoulis, Sophocles Venizelos, head of the Venizelist Liberals, also announced he would not participate in a government under Tsaldaris, who is the leader of the Populist or Royalist Party.

Venizelo's decision was a complete surprise to the Americans here. He had been expected to offer a broadening influence in Tsaldaris' efforts to form a new government which would be more representative of the Greek people than the one which fell Saturday. The United States, which has pledged 300 million dollars to aid the Greek government as part of President Truman's policy to stop the spread of totaliarianism, wanted such a cabinet.

A Venizelist spokesman had announced earlier they would participate in any new government dedicated to the national interests.

But Guns Were Faulty

Author of Quoddy DP Plan Boasts of Firms' War Record

By Marshall Andrews
Copyright, 1947, by The Washington Post

With the prospectus on taking over Quoddy Village, Me., for a displaced persons training camp distributed last week by Frank Cohen of New York was another document pertinent to the case.

This was the photostat of a lengthy article in the magazine Time, dated November 3, 1941, on Cohen's Empire Ordnance Corp. The article describes in enthusiastic language Cohen's venture into munitions making, describes him as "one of the men the U. S. needed" and declared his 14 corporations were then delivering "every month one million dollars worth of guns, gun mounts, recoils and tank armor to the British." It quotes Cohen as saying "proudly" that "Empire has never had a reject" from Aberdeen Proving Ground.

Actually, Empire did not produce a single gun in conformity with the British contract until December 26, 1941, 53 days after Time's story and 13 months after the contract was signed. In August, 1941, three months before the Time story, the War Department was so disturbed over Empire's failure to produce for the British that Undersecretary Robert P. Patterson and Assistant Secretary John J. McCloy took time for a conference on Empire's plight, which resulted in efforts to change the firm's management.

By July, 1941, Empire had produced only two of the 850 guns it had contracted to deliver by that date. And in December, 1941, the month after Time's article, the British in desperation took whatever substandard guns were on hand at Empire and shipped them to North Africa, making up part of the deficit from United States weapons at Watervliet Arsenal. It was not until June, 1942, after the War Department had taken over and retooled much of Empire's plant that a daily production of 16 guns was reached.

As for rejects, only 27 guns were built at Empire in September, 1941, two months before Time's article. Four were rejected by Aberdeen. Even more were rejected in October, and on October 7 a gun was returned because of a cracked breechblock and because

Deadline for Quoddy Village Bids Extended

Final date for acceptance of bids on Quoddy Village, originally set for today, has been extended at the request of Senator Brewster (R., Me.) and the City of Eastport, Me., in order that War Assets Administration and the city may confer further, WAA announced yesterday.

Thomas E. Drumm, deputy administrator of Zone 1 in New York, and Robert Whittet, director of the nonindustrial division of the Office of Real Property Disposal, acting as representative of WAA Administrator Litlejohn, are due in Eastport today to confer with the city officials. A new deadline for bids will be established upon their return. They expect to be back in Washington before the end of the week.

Longshoremen End Strike In New York

AFL Union Votes To Go Back to Work In the Morning

New York, Aug. 25 (AP).—A six-day wildcat longshoremen's strike which has tied up several vessels on New York's waterfront, including the luxury liner America, ended late today.

Local 791 of the ALF International Longshoremen's Association voted 427 to 177 to resume work and members will go back to their jobs at 7 a. m. (EST) tomorrow.

John J. Sampson, the local's business agent, said other units which had struck in sympathy with his men also would resume work.

Sailing of the America, originally scheduled to depart last Wednesday with 936 passengers, was canceled Friday and officials of the U. S. Lines said then the big vessel would be laid up until her next scheduled sailing for Europe September 10.

There was no immediate word from the line as to whether the end of the walkout would result in a decision to sail the liner this week.

Didn't Like Contract

Local 791 walked out because of dissatisfaction with terms of a new contract negotiated by I.L.A. officers and signed late Thursday night after the strike had begun.

The I.L.A. had sought a 25-cent increase in the basic hourly wage of $1.65, a guaranteed eight-hour work day, two-week vacations and smaller sling loads.

However, the new agreement contained only a 10-cent wage boost and none of the other contract improvements.

The CIO National Maritime Union supported the strike. Members of the union declined to sail the America unless the longshoremen handled their regular departure duties.

The Grace Line passenger vessels and a number of freighters also were affected by the walkout.

New Austerity Plans Mapped For British

Attlee Is Expected To Announce Program Later This Week

London, Aug. 25 (AP).—Britain's cabinet today held its second "crisis" meeting in eight days to draft a new austerity program expected to be announced later this week by Prime Minister Attlee.

Reliable informants said the meeting was called to discuss emergency plans for curtailed food rations, increased hours for miners and reactions to Britain's sudden sterling "freeze" last week.

Silent cabinet ministers waved to crowds of curious spectators as they left No. 10 Downing Street, but brushed aside questions about the meeting. There was speculation that Parliament might be called into special session.

The British Press Association reported a "new austerity plan" would be announced later this week. This was an apparent move to lay the crisis program before next week's annual convention of the Trades Union Congress, a powerful force in the ruling Labor Party.

Government leaders have warned that some reduction in food supplies can be expected as a result of the decision to ban sterling convertibility into dollars.

Sir Wilfrid Eady, leader of the treasury mission to Washington that resulted in the sterling freeze, was summoned to No. 10 Downng st. shortly before the cabinet meeting broke up.

Latest move to boost the working hours of workers in Britain's nationalized coal mines came from a delegaton meeting of Scottish miners, which voted to support a union offer to work six days weekly until next May.

Britain Draws 150 Million

By the United Press

Britain withdrew 150 million dollars of its American loan yesterday, in keeping with a prearranged schedule that will reduce the loan balance to only 400 million by the end of this month.

The latest withdrawal brought the cash balance of the loan, deposited in the United States Treasury, down to $700,000,000. But two additional British "checks" of $150,000,000 each are due for cashing by August 29.

Cleaning Girl Puzzled

Absent Birthday Party Guests Held Key to Raedy Mystery

By Sam Zagoria
Post Reporter

Who were at Jimmy Frisby's thirteenth birthday party last Tuesday night and where are they now?—that is the question hindering the unraveling of the "Raedy mystery," according to the police.

A group of relatives and "two ladies," one of whom may have been Municipal Court Judge Ellen K. Raedy, were said to have attended, but now they are conspicuous by their absence.

Another puzzled person yesterday was a cleaning girl, who left a penciled note at 909 1st st. nw. on the front door of one of the missing guests:

"Mrs. Hayes,

"I was here early and also phone but couldn't get in. Will be back later on this evening.

"MARIE."

District police, acting at the direction of Assistant Corporation Counsel Clark F. King, have been trying unsuccessfully to serve subpenas on:

1. Jimmy Frisby, a son of a vacationing Municipal Court clerk.

2. Mrs. Mary E. Hayes, the hostess at the 909 1st st. nw. party.

3. Mrs. Mamie T. Hayes of 62 1 st. nw., 78-year-old sister-in-law of the hostess.

King has heard from Mrs. Louise McDonald that her tenant, Mrs. Mamie Hayes, attended the party and saw Judge Raedy there. The party was held a few hundred feet from where a parked vehicle was struck and damaged to the extent of $29 by a hit-and-run driver.

Lieut. William J. Liverman of the Police Accident Investigation Unit said his aides have been trying since Friday to deliver the subpenas, but with no success. At one point his men talked to Mrs. Mamie

French Veto U. N. Probe Of Fighting In Indonesia

Security Council Calls for Report, And Offers Good Offices in Dispute

Lake Success, Aug. 25 (AP).—France today vetoed a Russian effore to set up an 11-nation truce commission to check on the Security Council's violated cease-fire order in the Dutch-Indonesian conflict.

The Council then went ahead and took two alternative steps aimed at settling the dispute:

1. The Council tendered its good offices to both sides and stood ready, if asked, to assist in a settlement through a council committee of three members acceptable to the disputants.

2. The delegates called on career consuls in Batavia to report directly to them on what has happened since the cease-fire order was issued here August 1.

Former Premier Agreeable

Former Premier Sutan Sjahrir, representing the Indonesian Republic, said "certainly" the republic would accept the offer of good offices.

Dutch Ambassador Eelco N. Van Kleffens said he would ask his government for instructions.

Alexandre Parodi of France told newsmen he vetoed the Russian proposal because it was a question of "competence." The Council still has to decide finally on the controversial point whether it has jurisdiction in the dispute.

It was the second French veto in United Nations history and the twentieth veto in all. Soviet Russia has invoked the big power veto 18 times. The first French veto was cast June 26, 1946, in the Spanish case.

The Council quickly approved a joint Australian-Chinese resolution which called on career consuls of Security Council governments to report on the Indonesian situation since the Council called for the cease-fire 24 days ago.

Gromyko With Majority

This means that the consular officers of Australia, Belgium, China, France, Britain and the United States will prepare joint reports for the Council on what has happened recently in the conflict area.

The Council voted after Sutan Sjahrir pleaded for action now to halt threatened resumption of hostilities between Dutch and the Indonesians.

Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet delegate, offered his proposal for inquiry by representatives of all 11 governments on the Council without forewarning, and for one of the few times in Council history he found himself on the side of the majority.

Belgium Joins France

The vote was 7 to 2, a bare majority of the 11-member Council.

When the negative vote was called France's Paradi, whose country has colonial problems in North Africa and Indochina, raised his hand.

Belgium, also a colonial power, joined France. Britain and China abstained. Those joining Russia in backing the commission idea were the United States, Australia, Brazil, Colombia, Syria and Poland.

The vote on the Australian-Chi-

Abandoned Mines Offered to Army As Storage Areas

Miami, Okla., Aug. 25 (U.P.).—The Army today was reported considering the conversion of abandoned lead and zinc mines in northeastern Oklahoma into huge underground storage areas.

Officials of the Miami Chamber of Commerce said they already had exchanged correspondence with Lieut. Gen. Raymond K. Wheeler, Chief of Army engineers, about turning over the non-producing mines to the army as vast subsurface warehouse facilities.

(On July 24, in a joint Army and Navy press release dealing with a program of operations for the Armed Forces Special Weapons Project the principal field installation was located at Sandia Base, at Albuquerque, N. M., under the command of Brig. Gen. Robert M. Montague, former Assistant Commander of the Antiaircraft and Guided Missiles Center at Fort Bliss, Tex. This is the installation described yesterday in a dispatch from Denver telling of the digging of caverns in the mountains near Albuquerque, N. M. A further statement is expected from the War Department today.)

Author of 'Quoddy' DP Plan Boasts of Firms' War Record

it was so out of alignment it could not be mounted. On October 16, 1941, Aberdeen complained about firing mechanisms, breechblocks, operating cams, sears, and firing pin steps on Empire guns. On October 22, the Army's chief inspector at Empire complained to the Philadelphia Ordnance District that undue pressure was being brought on him and his men to accept substandard parts in order to gain production.

Associate Convicted

Altogether in October, 1941, 62 guns were built, of which 13 were rejected by Aberdeen.

Finally, on November 5, 1941, Aberdeen advised the Philadelphia Ordnance District that Empire gun parts were not interchangeable as required and that certain welds and designs were faulty or basically wrong.

These facts were brought out from Army Ordnance records and from testimony under oath during one of the most unusual investigations conducted by this Government during the war. Until now no part of the report resulting from this investigation has been published nor has any intimation of its existence been made public.

It began when President Roosevelt, on May 25, 1942, directed the Securities and Exchange Commission to make an audit and investigation of Empire Ordnance and its affiliates. The SEC set up a staff of 50 lawyers and accountants, who took 10,000 typewritten pages of sworn testimony and in July, 1943, rendered a 550-page report to the President. Interim reports had been made, one of which resulted in the conviction for perjury of Jacob Perlman, one of Cohen's associates.

Started on Shoestring

Distribution of the report, by White House order, was restricted to some 20 copies to agencies of the Government directly concerned in the Empire case. When the Truman Committee learned of its existence and asked the White House for a copy, it was denied as contrary to public policy.

This report, after tracing Cohen's business and financial life from 1922 until he formed Empire Ordnance in 1940, goes into great detail in outlining the operations of Empire and its affiliates.

The report shows that Empire was formed with no funds except 200,000 shares of Willys stock borrowed through a friend for the occasion, $5000 borrowed by Cohen from a brokerage account over which he had power of attorney, and $25,000 Cohen acquired with a post-dated check and then paid off by successive borrowings which cancelled each other until British money paid them all.

Obtains No Contract

Empire, the report says, hired Frank McHale, Democratic national committeeman from Indiana, as an attorney and began seeking contracts from the War Department. Army Ordnance advised against doing business with Cohen or Empire, and Empire was unable to secure a Government contract.

As its representatives before the War Department, the report says Empire employed McHale, Charles West, former Democratic Representative from Ohio and former White House liaison man with Congress; Dan Duffy, Ohio lawyer high in Democratic politics; Democratic State Senator Joe Hill of Texas, and the late Matthew J. Merritt, Representative-at-large from New York and then a member of the House Military Affairs Committee.

Merritt's part in these attempts to get a Government contract was shown by the report to have been expensive but of no avail. The report reveals on pages 335-341 that Merrittt was paid $1500 for telephone calls and visits to the War Department and Empire paid his bills at the Mayflower Hotel totaling $2177.11, which included cash drawn at the desk.

Empire Pays Difference

During this time Merritt was shown to have reported $500 worth of clothing stolen from his room, which he demanded the hotel make good. When the hotel demurred, insisting that the clothing could not have been taken except by someone to whom Merritt had given a key, he bought $500 of new cloths in New York anyway. Finally the hotel settled for $400 and Merritt made up the difference by drawing $100 at the desk and charging it to his account, which was paid by Empire.

Empire's opportunity for a war contract appeared when Michael V. Dewar was sent to the United States in July, 1940, as head of the British Tank Purchasing Commission with 200 million dollars to spend. Although the War Department was unwilling to give Empire a contract, pressure on it had become so great that something had to be done for Cohen's firm. So, on October 18, 1940, an officer of the ordnance department called Dewar and told him Empire was in position to make 75-millimeter guns.

The SEC report shows on pages 84-86 that Dewar was then visited by one Charles B. McDaniels, who had been introduced to him in a telephone conversation by Emil Schram, then of the RFC. Dewar testified that Schram told him McDaniels and Jesse Jones, RFC head, were good friends, and Dewar made it plain that he felt giving Empire a contract would help in making RFC loans, on which the British depended.

Advanced 4½ Millions

Dewar kept a diary during this time, which was obtained by SEC and made part of its official records. This diary shows that it had been represented to Dewar that Cohen would make a substantial contribution to the Democratic campaign fund if Empire got a contract. The suggestion impressed him greatly, since he felt it vital to continued American support that Mr. Roosevelt be re-elected.

In the end, Dewar gave Empire a contract by letter of intent for $5,037,500 for guns, $1,259,375 to be advanced within 40 days. The contract called for a unit price of $3250, whereas Empire had bid as low as $2300 before the War Department and this bid was considered high.

Other contracts were made in the ensuing months, each with a cash advance, so that by April 30, 1941, the British had advanced $4,531,250 to Empire, although nothing had been delivered in conformity with prior contracts.

Half Million Diverted

The SEC report says that a half-million dollars of this advance was diverted, some being used to pay Cohen's personal debts remaining from previous business ventures. It shows that Empire incorporated its shops and departments and then treated them as subcontractors.

In one case, for instance, Empire contracted to build gun mounts for $2800 each and subcontracted them to Wilkes-Barre Carriage Co., a subsidiary, for $2500 each, a differential of $300 each or $750,000 for the contract in favor of Empire. Yet, even with this reduction of $300 a unit, Wilkes-Barre on December 31, 1941, paid a dividend of $2000 a share on its common stock.

On January 10, 1941, Empire subcontracted its recoil mechanism contract to Wissahickon Tool Works, another subsidiary, at $1250 each, a differential of $250 each, or $500,000 on the contract in Empire's favor.

Sell Plant At Profit

Likewise, Empire subcontracted an armor plate contract to a subsidiary, West Pittston Iron Works, at a rate of 7 cents a pound profit against 10 cents a pound profit under the prime contract. Even with this reduction, West Pittston paid a dividend of $1000 a share on its common stock on December 31, 1941.

A similar method was shown by the report to have been employed in renting properties among the Empire subsidiaries. Cohen and an associate had taken a $30,000 option on the Pencoyd plant of Carnegie-Illinois Steel Co. After receipt of the British advances, they sold the plant to Pencoyd Realty Corp., at a personal profit of $100,000, which came out of the British advances.

The Vulcan Iron Works, another Empire subsidiary, owned two plants, one in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., and the other in West Pittston, Pa. The Wilkes-Barre plant was leased to Pencoyd at $12,000 a year and then rented by Pencoyd to Wilkes-Barre Carriage Co. for $180,000 a year.

The West Pittston plant was leased by Vulcan to Pencoyd at an annual rental of $15,000 and subleased by Pencoyd to West Pittston Iron Works for $180,000 a year.

Only Wants to Help

In addition to these transactions, the multitude of corporations spread the profits to an extent that materially lessened the drain of excess profits taxes and surtaxes on Empire. There also was a welfare organization, the Esco Corp., formed with Cohen's wife as president, to distribute "vitamins" to the British. This corporation owned 15 per cent of Empire stock and its relation to the Cohen empire in general remains nebulous, though it still exists.

As a final venture, the report shows Cohen to have used more than one million dollars of the British advances to finance Savannah Shipyards at Savannah, Ga., to build 12 Liberty ships for the Maritime Commission at a flat profit of $110,000 each. Cohen never did carry out this project and it was taken over eventually by other interests. It resulted, however, in a suit by Charles West for commissions which placed Cohen and Empire briefly under scrutiny by the Truman Committee.

Finally, upon the entrance of the United States into the war, the War Department forced a reorganization of Empire and changes in its management which eventually resulted in normal production at reasonable costs.

Cohen protested many times during the Empire Ordnance days that his only point in making munitions was to help win the war against nazism. He has let it be known that his only aim in acquiring Quoddy Village is to "be the first to do something about the DP problem."

jurisdictions the Federal anti-trust laws."

It directed Snyder and Memler to "commence prosecution" against the parties "and such other parties as may have participated in such sale and distribution."

In a statement to the press, the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey,, declared:

"It is our understanding that the grand jury is inquiring into the subject of gasoline prices but we have no idea what information it is trying to develop.

"The policy of Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey has been, and is today, to keep prices of petroleum products as low as possible. In this period of inflationary pressure we have tried to hold prices down, and we will of course be glad to give the District of Columbia grand jury, or any other official body, complete data on what we have done in this regard or on any other subject concerning which they may wish to inquire."

Retail Gasoline Dealers, Inc., with offices at 3708 New Hampshire ave. n.w., operates as a trade association for independent gasoline dealers in this area. It claims a membership of about 300 dealers.

R. A. Herrick of 2700 Q st. nw., executive director of the corporation, last night declined to discuss the investigation. He said there are many similar organizations throughout the country but no national, coorfdinating association for the organizations.

Another corporation member, however, verified that the local corporation is the one named in the grand jury proceeding.

Herrick was identified by court attaches as one of the two witnesses appearing yesterday. Identity of the second man did not immediately leak beyond the jury room. A report that Wallace S. Linfoot of Falls Church, Va., president of the dealers' organization also testified, was met with the remark:

"I haven't testified—yet."

In authorizing Victor H. Kramer to direct prosecution before the July Federal Grand Jury, the Attorney General declared the Justice Department is concerned not only with the "sale, exchange, financing or management of real property" but also the activities of "any branch of the construction of housing or allied industries."

The letter of authority instructed Kramer and Herbert Maletz, another attorney in the anti-trust division of the Justice Department, to direct:

"An investigation and prosecution of alleged violations of Federal anti-trust laws by certain persons, firms, corporations, associations and their members, or others engaged or having been engaged in the production, manufacture, distribution or use of materials which are or may be used in the construction and housing industries or in performing work or rendering professional services (a) in any branch of the construction or housing or allied industries, and (b) in connection with the sale, exchange, financing or management of real property and the improvements thereon."

The letter was the first public pronouncement that the grand jury inquiry was concerned with anything more than real estate dealings.

Its direction recalled public statements made by Attorney General Clark that the Justice Department would probe the housing shortage on a national scale for any evidence of antitrust dealings. He made the promise at adjournment of Congress late last month.

Woman Clerk Hurt Stepping Against Taxi

Miss Mary Gillespie, 1363 K st. se., a War Department clerk, received painful bruises, but otherwise was uninjured, yesterday when she walked against a taxi at Pennsylvani aave. and 13th st. nw.

Police said Miss Gillespie stepped from a curb as a traffic signal light changed. She was able to leave Emergency Hospital after treatment.

Meanwhile, E. Earl Atwood, 2000 D st. ne., received deep scalp wounds when an automobile struck a horse he was riding Sunday on United States Route No. 1 at Groveton, Va.

Virginia State Police said the car was driven by Navy CWO George Traver, attached to the U. S. S. Palao. Atwood, who owned the horse, had been riding with his wife and a friend, Stuart Watkins, of Groveton, and was crossing the highway at the time, police said.

The horse suffered a fractured leg and was shot by police. Atwod was admitted to Providence Hospital for observation, but was released yesterday.

of the National Guard of the District of Columbia as designated by this headquarters the sum of $900 or 15 per cent of the total revenue . . .

When asked about the contract, General Cox refused to acknowledge that the deal had been made. Examination of copies of the contract held by the armory and the students confirmed the language, however.

According to Miss Helen O'Leary, G. W. student and a co-chairman of the dance, negotiations for the use of the armory began around the "last of June."

At the time, General Cox said, it was "suggested to them that recruits are always acceptable."

"When anybody talks (about use of the Armory) to us, we start talking recruiting to them," he said.

Await Price Ruling

Meanwhile, the Homebuilders Association of Metropolitan Washington, it was learned, is awaiting General Cox's decision as to how much use of the Armory will cost for its planned "home show" there October 11-19.

A spokesman said negotiations for rental of the hall began last March, and added that "General Cox will decide the price this week."

The District Commissioners last month sent to Congress a bill to give themselves broader control of the new $2,700,000 armory.

Still in committee, the bill would authorize use of the armory for athletic events, conventions and other nonmilitary functions when it isn't needed by the National Guard.

General Cox has gone on record as stating that "As far as the Guard is concerned, we have not changed our opinion that we can run the armory for public use as well as anybody else, if not better."

3 Highway Police Resign in Probe Of N. C. Beating

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 25 (AP).—Gov. R. Gregg Cherry tonight announced three highway patrolmen had resigned in the alleged beating of a recaptured Halifax prison farm convict.

The governor said the three men, Corp. C. L. Teague, John W. Wilson and A. F. Fields, have been formerly charged with assault.

The convict, 45-year-old Claude Gregory of Cleveland County, said he was handcuffed to a tree and beaten by officers upon his recapture last Thursday. He said the officers used saplings and a cartridge to whip him.

study of State laws, he said, he had found many points on which he wants the views of the other officials.

Dr. Overholser said he agreed with Fay that the first objective of the proposed law should be to protect the public from dangerous sex offenders.

Calls Many "Hopeless"

He said the important thing in handling sex offenders it to have methods of control "that will retire these people from circulation" "until it is safe for them to return to society.

Overholser said that a large percentage of such individuals are "hopeless" and when they are "they should be put away." He said he had no estimate of how many individuals here would fall into the "hopeless" group.

Overholser said he would rather see persons who show unnatural sexual behavior confined in a place like St. Elizabeths than sent to jail for fixed terms.

"In a place like this they would realize that something more is needed to restore them to society than simply the passage of time," he said. "Here it would not be a question of getting out in so many days. It would be a question of how well they respond."

Overholser said a good many sex offenders "don't want to be helped and if they don't, I see no reason why they should be released to corrupt others."

Overholser suggested that the proposed new law set up this system for dealing with sex offenders.

Suggests 10 years

1. When first taken to court, the offender would be referred to a trained psychiatrist for examination.

2. The psychiatrist's report would guide the court in deciding whether the individual should stand trial, or be sent to St. Elizabeths.

3. Once in St. Elizabeths, the individual would be kept in a maximum security building. He would stay at the hospital until officials there decided it was safe to release him.

4: He would be referred back from St. Elizabeths to the U. S. Attorney's office for a decision on whether he should stand trial on the original charge, or be released on probation.

Fay pointed out that a tentative draft on the proposed new law called for a maximum penalty of $2000 fine and 10 years in jail.

Three Sex Cases

In Court in Day

Municipal Court Judge John P. McMahon yesterday ordered a U. S. Public Health Service clerk to pay $100 fine or serve 45 days in jail for conviction on an indecent exposure charge.

The defendant, James L. Tinsley, 31, of 1375 Monroe st. nw., chose to pay the fine. He had been found guilty of exposing himself at a window and making indecent gestures to a 21-year-old girl passing by on the street.

In another case Judge George D. Neilson put off for 90 days the trial of Oscar A. Aubin, 32, salesman, 1101 Euclid st. nw., on a charge of indecent exposure. Neilson granted the delay on defense counsel's assurance that Aubin would receive hospital treatment for a nervous condition arising from 900 hours of combat flying during the war.

Aubin was arrested Saturday night in Anacostia Park, near 13th st. se., by Park Policeman Edwin Sutley after a woman complained that he had exposed himself after clapping his hands to attract attention.

Judge Neilson also ordered John H. James, 22, of 304 G st. sw., held in $1000 bond for a jury trial, October 16 on a charge of simple assault. This charge was substituted for a carnal knowledge charge on the ground there was not enough evidence to prosecute on the more serious allegation. Police said James was arrested on the complaint of his 14-year-sister.

Committee Concurs With Argentine Idea

Attacks From Within the Americas Rate Different Handling, Unit Agrees

Petropolis, Brazil, Aug. 25 (U.P.).—A committee of the Inter-American Defense Conference agreed today to the principle, supported by Argentina, that a distinction should be drawn between attacks made by an outside power on an American country and attacks made by one American country against another.

Committee No. 3—with the United States supporting the Argentine idea—voted 14 to 0 to accept the principle that in consultation after an attack on an American country both interested parties should be deprived of a vote provided that it concerns a conflict between two American countries. But that the American party concerned should be permitted to vote if the conflict is with an outside country.

Warren R. Austin, United States delegate to the United Nations, represented his country in the committee.

Vandenberg Opposed

As he acceptd the Argentine proposal, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R., Mich.), chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, was fighting hard to sustain the principle that no difference be recognized between the two kinds of attacks.

Thus the singular position was presented of two key American delegates pursuing apparently opposite courses.

Vandenberg is the United States delegate on Committee No. 2, the most important in the conference, which deals with measures to be taken in the event of aggression or a threat of aggression.

Austin's Committee No. 3 is dealing with agencies and procedures for the execution of the defense treaty which is being written here.

14 Nations Abstain

The vote in Committee No. 3 today was the first recognition of the principle which Argentina is tenaciously supporting—despite several apparent withdrawals—that an attack on an American country by an outside one ought to be regarded differently than an attack by one American country on another.

Committee No. 2 has agreed on the basic principle that there should be no distinction.

In Committee No. 3 Brazil, Colombia, Mexico and Uruguay abstained from voting, holding that acceptance of the Argentina proposal might prejudice the decisions to be made by the more important Committee No. 2.

Peru, Venezuela Join

But Austin said in supporting Argentina's idea:

"If one of our states is attacked from outside the continent it is inconceivable that it should have its hands tied behind its back. That theory undermines the whole principle of solidarity. No good purpose would be served by delaying a vote to await action by committee No. 2. To delay a vote would be to repudiate the principle of solidarity we stand for."

Peru and Venezuela joined in upholding the principle Argentina supports.

Article Adopted

This principle was involved in the following proposed treaty article which the committee adopted:

"The governing board of the Pan-American Union will act as a liaison organization in matters relating to the present treaty. The resolutions of the governing board, in the exercise of its functions as such, on matters of administrative or procedural character, will be adopted by an absolute majority of those having the right to vote and excepting the representatives of parties involved in a situation or controversy among American nations which necessitated the consultation."

Argentine delegation sources claimed 10 votes—one-half of the total in the conference—in support of its demand that extra-continental aggression and intracontinental aggression be treated differently.

This is contrary to the belief of United States delegates for several days past that they had obtained agreement on the "basic" principle that there should be no distinction bewteen attacks.

Homeless Parents Abandon 3 Babies in Chicago Church

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

TRIO ABANDONED—Three small boys, identified only as Stephen, 3, left; John, 2, and Danny, 4, sit in a Chicago police station after they were found in a pew of Holy Name Cathedral, Chicago, with a note attached that "they have been living in hotels—a different one every night—or in parks for two years." Danny said his father was named Frank Gillespie. The boys have been taken to an orphanage

Chicago, Aug. 25 (U.P.).—Three little brothers lost in a world which hasn't enough homes to go around, were cared for by charitable institutions tonight while police searched for the disheartened parents who had abandoned them.

The unhappy kids, the eldest 4, were found crying in a front pew of Holy Name Cathedral. Danny, playing dad and mom to his younger brothers, Stephen, 3, and Johnny, 2, told police he didn't know where he lived.

"We don't live any place," he said, digging his eye with a chubby fist. "We live some place different every day."

Danny said his mother and father were Frank and Jerry Gillespie.

Police remembered the family then. Father, mother and their three toddlers had called at the station for help. It was easy to see they were not delinquent parents.

Gillespie told the police he and his wife had searched in vain for weeks for some place to call home. They spent each night in a different room. The desk sergeant offered the benches in a courtroom. It was so hot in there, the parents turned away.

"No, thank you," the father said, and they left.

Pinned to Danny's blouse was a note pleading with someone to "take care of our kids and give them a decent chance."

Danny and Stephen were housed tonight at the juvenile home, and little John was taken to St. Vincent Orphanage. Danny said it was fine to have a ride in a squad car "with cops and everything—but I do wish mommy and daddy could be with us."

Report Heavy Fighting

Batavia, Java, Aug. 25 (AP).—Indonesian and Dutch military headquarters tonight reported heavy fighting in the area south of Salatiga, 30 airline miles north of Jogjakarta and the closest Dutch approach to the Indonesian capital.

An Indonesian communique said the Dutch used tanks and armored cars in a two-sided attack on Patemon, a village in the area of Tengaran, 5 miles south of Salatiga. Two villages west of Patemon were occupied by Dutch troops.

A Netherlands communique announced forces were starting "strong clearing actions" on all sectors against the Indonesian. It said the Republicans suffered many casualties in heavy exchanges of gunfire south of Salatiga.

An Associated Press dispatch from Gombong, 100 miles northwest of Jogjakarta, said a powerful Dutch armored column was awaiting orders for a drive on the Indonesian capital.

The Dutch were halted at Gomberg by the three-week-old cease fire order of the United Nations Security Council, which both sides agreed to observe, but which brought no end to the hostilities.

Soviet Asks A-Bomb Data

Lake Success, Aug. 25 (AP).—Russia demanded today that any United Nations proposals to collect official data on troops and arms from the 55 member governments must include figures on atomic bomb stockpiles.

Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko said it would be "unrealistic" to gather military figures without listing the number of atomic bombs held by any country.

Gromyko took his stand as the 11-nation Commission on Conventional Armaments, now limited in its discussions on arms reduction to weapons outside the mass destruction category, failed to agree on a suggestion for collecting information.

The United States, Britain and France also opposed proposals to get the figures but their objections were on the grounds that the moves were premature.

The original data proposal, offered by Australia and Syria and supported only by Belgium, finally was dropped without a vote but Australia and China then submitted new plans along the same lines. These will be taken up in detail next Thursday.

Siamese Twins Given Slight Chance to Live

Rock Springs, Wyo., Aug. 25 (U.P.). Tiny Siamese twin girls were fighting tonight for their lives with the aid of an incubator, but their chances or surviving were termed slight.

The twins were born at Wyoming General Hospital at 6:10 a. m. yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. Harding Brown of Pinedale. Dr. K. E. Krueger said it would be "impossible" to separate the infants by surgery.

Holy Land Jews Fast in Protest

By Homer Bigart

Copyright, 1947, N. Y. Herald Tribune

Jerusalem, Aug. 25 (AP).—More than 600,000 Jews of Palestine fasted today in a gesture of solidarity with the Exodus refugees and all cafes, and amusement places, were closed. The only dissenters were members of Agudha Ierael, the extreme orthodox religious group, who are at odds with the chief rabbinate, and the terrorists who proclaimed: "don't fast—fight."

Meanwhile, U.N.S.C.O.P. has refused to intervene against Britain's decision to ship refugees back to Germany. Itbak Ben Zvi, president of the Jewish National Council, revealed a cable from Justice Emil Sandstrom, chairman of the U.N.S.C.O.P. saying the committee could not act because such intervention was not envisioned in the terms of reference.

The day of "moral identification" proclaimed by the Jewish National Council and the chief rabbinate passed quietly. Despite Irgun's dema d for stronger measures against the British, the underground remained idle. Tension eased somewhat as reports spread that the terrorists plan to wait several days before striking and that their retaliatory blows might conincide with the arrival of the exodus refugees at Hamburg.

A hint that the British mandate government was about to impose a ban on import of American tobacco, American canned fruits and Canadian apples was made tonight by Montague Brown, chief assistant secretary for economics, who called on Palestine to join Britain's austerity drive.

Brown asked Palestinians to give up smoking Virginia cigarettes and smoke only locally grown tobacco and eat locally produced citrus fruits, instead of canned fruits from the United States.

AMG Is Told Yugoslav Mob Beheaded Priest With Sickles

Trieste, Aug. 25 (AP).—The Allied Military Government was informed today that a sickle-wielding mob beheaded a Catholic priest and seriously wounded a prelate from the Vatican at a Sunday confirmation service in a village near Trieste in Yugoslav-occupied Venezia Giulia.

Msgr. Antonia Santin, Bishop of Trieste and Capodistra, identified the assailants as Yugoslavs.

The dead priest was the Rev. Miro Bulesich, and the wounded prelate the Msgr. Giacomo Ukmar.

The newspaper La Voce Libera in Trieste said the mutilated body of a third priest, missing for a week, was found in a woods. He was identified as Father Kristian, parish priest of Tolazzo in Istria. The body bore marks of "horrible torture," the newspaper said.

La Voce Libera said Father Bulesich was attacked by men wielding sickles and was "literally slaughtered," while Msgr. Ukmar, thrown down and trampled, suffered a skull fracture and kidney wounds.

The attack occurred at Lanische, near Pisino. Msgr. Ukmar was taken to a Fiume hospital by an Italian Red Cross ambulance when Yugoslav officials refused to let him go to Trieste, the newspaper said.

The newspaper said a band of men armed with hoes, picks, shovels and sickles attempted to break into the church while a confirmation ceremony was in progress, but was repulsed by a crowd guarding the door.

After 250 children had received the sacrament, Msgr. Ukmar, Father Bulesich, and another priest withdrew to the sacristy, where the attack occurred, the account said.

U. N. Food Body Hears Appeal for 'Drastic Action'

Geneva, Switzerland, Aug. 25 (AP).—The third session of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization opened here today with an appeal for "drastic action" to prevent further reductions in food rations in Europe and Asia in the next 12 months.

The main proposal before the session is creation of an 18-member world food council from among organization members which would take over from the emergency food council the job of international allocation of food an fertilizers and also organizing measures to protect consuming countres from the consequences of poor harvests and high prices and producing countries from possible unsaleable surpluses.

Largest Housing Project Mortgage Insured by FHA

The Federal Housing Administration announced last night that it has insured a $4,792,500 mortgage to finance the largest single project yet started under its program to provide rental housing for World War II veterans and their families.

The project is the Meadowbrook apartments in Indianapolis, comprising 640 dwelling units. They will contain one and two-bedroom apartments renting from $81 to $95 a month. Construction will start soon.

Le Vier First to Qualify For Thompson Air Race

Cleveland, Aug. 25 (AP).—Tony Le Vier today qualified for the Thompson Trophy Race, $40,000 main closed course event of the National Air Races, hurtling his red P-38 Lightning around the 15-mile course for a two-lap average of 366 miles an hour.

Le Vier was the first pilot to qualify for the Labor Day event.

Overell Defense Charges Victim Set Off Blast

Santa Ana, Calif., Aug. 25 (AP).—Attorneys for two lovers, charged with the yacht slayings of Financier and Mrs. Walter E. Overell, told th jury today that Overell himself was preparing to set off a dynamite blast which partially wrecked the 42-foot cabin cruiser.

"We will show," shouted S. B. Kaufman, chief counsel for George (Bud) Gollum, "that the Overells were killed by a premature explosion caused by Mr. Overrell himself."

The defense launched its case as the trial of Gollum and his girl friend, the Overells' 18-year-old heiress-daughter, Louise, went into its 14th week.

Mine Operators Asked to Confer On Ruhr Problem

A group of 15 to 20 American coal mine operators have been invited here Friday to confer with Anglo-American officials who are seeking means to boost German coal production in the Ruhr, the State Department said yesterday.

A spokesman said the operators were asked to give their views on technical points, particularly the mechanization of the German mines. Hesaid there are no plans at present to send the operators to Germany, although this step remains a possibility.

The Anglo-American conferees received preliminary reports from four subcommittees on such matters as housing and food for German miners.

Hayes. When it came time for her to talk to King, Mrs. Mary Hayes called to say her sister-in-law was ill, he said.

Saturday and yesterday, reporters were unable to find anyone at the 909 1st st. nw. house where Jimmy and Mrs. Mary Hayes are supposed to reside.

A Post reporter saw two telegram messages at the 1st st. door Saturday afternoon and a police sergeant saw milk bottles there later on, but over the weekend, both disappeared. Neighbors said no one was seen entering or leaving the three-story, brick-row house.

King said he would turn over a transcript of statements made in the case to Corporation Counsel Vernon O. West for action in the next few days.

Meanwhile, Judge Raedy continued her denial that she attended the birthday party and said she was still seeking Edward Emerson, whom she named as the driver of her car the night of the accident.

Her brother, Michael L. Raedy, who lives above the judge in the Dorchester House, 2480 16th st. nw., was questioned by Lieutenant Liverman yesterday morning, but "declined to make any statement," according to the police officer.

Emil Mazey, a top UAW official, and four other unionists, were arrested.

The injured union official was taken to the hospital as a police prisoner for treatment of skull lacerations. He was Peter Upper, vice president of striking Local 212, who was beaten, the UAW charged, "by a rookie cop who went blackjack happy."

Police said the fracas started when Louis C. Huck, president of the struck Huck Manufacturing Co., and Lester Wilson, an engineer, tried to pass through picket lines.

Mazey, his brother Ernest, who works at the Huck plant; Frank Virzi, and Russell Baril, all of Detroit, and George Schuster of Mount Clemens, Mich., were arrested on the scene.

They were later released in the custody of their attorneys with orders to report tomorrow to Inspector Joseph V. Krug, of the special investigation squad. Krug said he would seek warrants charging them with obstructing police, assault and battery or disorderly conduct.

Mazey, a UAW regional codirector, also was a key figure in a UAW strike against the Clinton Manufacturing Co., Clinton, Mich., to which Gov. Kim Sigler dispatched a contingent of State police two weeks ago with orders to smash so-called UAW "goon squads."

Bridegroom Admits Killing Tattooed Lady

Baltimore, Aug. 25 (U.P.).—A 53-year-old tattooed lady who gave up her sideshow career for romance four months ago was found strangled in her honeymood apartment today, and police said her 36-year-old bridegroom has confessed the slaying.

Arraigned in Homicide Court, the bridegromo, Lawrence Riemer, tried to plead guilty, but the court refused to entertain the plea pending appointment of counsel.

Police said Riemer first told them his tattooed bride, Agnes, had been attacked and killed by an early morning intruder.

Later, however, they said he signed a statement admitting he had choked her to death with a leather belt after a late-night round of partying in celebration of their four months of marriage.

Police said Mrs. Riemer's death occurred in the same apartment where her first husband hanged himself a year ago.

Pastor Arrested In 'Faith Proving' Poison Fatality

Summerville, Ga., Aug. 25 (AP).—The Rev. Gordon Miller was arrested on a murder warrant today at the graveside of a member of his church, who, Sheriff A. H. Glenn said, died from a "faith proving" poison draught swallowed at a religious service.

The dead man was Ernest Davis, 33-year-old farmer. A doctor reported Davis died of "strychnine and other poisoning" and added, "he never had a chance." The sheriff said Davis, exclaiming "I feel the power of my Boss (Lord)," gulped down the poison at services on August 17.

Glenn said a hearing tomorrow would attempt to determine what part the preacher had in Davis' swallowing the poison.

Miller said both he and Davis had swallowed poison before in "faith tests" but had never been seriously ill.

The minister announced he planned to resume his services Wednesday. He added, "I don't know whether anyone will drink strychnine or not, but if the Lord moves us and it's there, we'll drink it."

Two Unions File Affidavits

Meanwhile, two unions engaged in lively organizational drives were the first to file affidavits with the board yesterday, stating their officers are not Communists.

The unions are the AFL-Office Employes International Union and the Independent Communications Workers of America. Such affidavits are required by the Taft-Hartley Labor Act.

Paul Hutchings, persident of the Office Employes Union, presented the organization's affidavit personally and said the more than 200 locals, representing nearly 35,000 members, had been advised to file similar statements.

The communications workers, headed by Joseph A. Beirne, former president of the National Federation of Telephone Workers, which staged a Nationwide strike in April, sent its affidavits to the board in routine manner.

Robert N. Denham, NLRB general counsel, declined to comment on the International Typographical Union's new policy of signing no more contracts with employers and depending on memoranda stating conditions under which its members would work. He would only point to a Supreme Court ruling in January, 1941, that the H. J. Heinz Co. had to place its working agreements in writing.

Taft Law Onus Put on Truman By CIO Union

Special Dispatch to The Post

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 23.—Members of the CIO Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers were told today to hold both major political parties responsible for "reactionary legislation" passed by the last Congress.

The opening session of the union's international convention here also heard a warning that the organization faces the greatest fight in its history.

Congress didn't pass the Taft-Hartley Act" just because it liked the sound of the words," President Maurice Travis declared to more than 350 delegates. "Labor's enemies intend to use the law," he added, "and there is no organization they would rather use it on than ours."

Truman, Party Assailed

Stating Republicans could not have put through their legislative program without help from Democrats, Travis even assailed President Truman's veto of the Taft-Hartley bill as "weak, vaccillating" and as a "sham and a delusion." The President was charged with making no attempt to organize the Democratic Party behind the veto.

In his convention report, Travis cracked down hard on unions which have accepted and agreed to comply with the Taft-Hartley Law. He branded them "traitors and weaklings." Principal unions advising their members to obey the law are David Dubinsky's International Ladies Garment Workers and Emil Rieve's Textile Workers. Both Dubinsky and Rieve are strongly anti-communist and at odds ideoogically with leaders of the smelter workers.

On foreign policy, Travis charged that Big Three unity had been "effectively sabotaged" and that the United States was being "systematically undermined and disrupted. He did not specify who did the sabotage, but later attributed this country's foreign policy to the same ones who "transformed our domestic policy into one of deepest reaction."

Pleads for Unity in Union

Accompanying his report was a plea for unity in the trife-torn union which in the past year has undergone a secession move which originally stripped nearly a fourth of its 115,000 membership from its rolls and which still finds 12,000 outside its ranks.

The story of the secession and a report of a committee named by CIO President Philip Murray to investigate the conflict has been made a special order of business for Friday. At that time the executive board will recommend a special off-year election of officers in an effort to let time take some of the sting out of the CIO report, which will be laid before the National CIO Convention in Boston in October.

If the election is held, strong possibility is developing that Reid Robinson, who resigned the presidency in May and turned it over to Travis, will again be a candidate.

Rep. Hartley Says His Labor Act Needs Teeth

Chairman Hartley (R, N.D.) of the House Labor Committee said yesterday the Taft-Hartley Act "does not have enough teeth in it to give the public real protection against Nationwide strikes."

The co-author of the new labor measure said he will try to have Congress remedy the situation next year.

Hartley told reporters the measure of necessity was a compromise document, adding that its machinery to stop strikes "does not go far enough."

Wants Monopolistic Section

"At the very best," Hartley said, "This only stalls a strike off for 85 days. There may be some means of extending the injunctions for additional 85-day periods but even this is doubtful."

The Labor Committee head said he plans to press for enactment of the monopolistic strike section of the original Hartley bill.

This provision failed to win Senate approval and was descarded from the final draft of the act, which became law over President Truman's veto.

It defined as a monopolistic strike a walkout resulting from "any conspiracy, collusion or concerted plan of action between employes of competing employers" where the employes are not represented by the same union.

Concedes Difficulty

Union violating this section could have been sued by the Government under antitrust laws, sued by employers for civil damages, and could have been barred from making use of the National Labor Relations Board.

Hartley conceded it may be difficultto get this previously rejected provision through Congress but said "it is altogether likely that the pressure of events will force such legislative action." He did not elaborate.

The New Jersey Republican said he also is studying the possibility of writing a stronger ban against mass picketing.

Hatch Wants Congress To Return by Sept. 15

By The Associated Press

Senator Hatch (D., N. Mex.), citing what he termed a "most critical" foreign situation, said yesterday Congress should return to Washington by September 15 or October 1, at the latest.

Hatch told reporters that events abroad, highlighted by troubles in Greece, demand that the lawmakers return to work before next January.

He also stressed th eneed for clearing away "routine" legislation before the presidential campaign swings into high gear next summer.

Three Freed GIs Were Well Treated

But Russian Army Food Was Terrible, Trio Declares After Release in Korea

Seoul, Korea, Aug. 25 (AP).—Three teen-age American soldiers, freed after 12 days in Russian custody, said today they were well treated but were kept under tommy-gun guard and got such unappetizing meals that "we'll never gripe about GI chow again."

Their release followed two stiff protests from Lieut. Gen. John R. Hodge, commandant of the American zone of Southern Korea.

Soviet-American relations in Korea continued tense, as Maj. Gen. Albert E. Brown joined Hodge in a sharp reply to a Russian accusation that "mass arrests" of leftist leaders in the American zone were impeding the work of the deadlocked joint commission on a Korean government.

Soviet Charges Belittled

Brown, chief of the American delegation on the commission, issued a statement declaring the Russian charges were "pure fantasy" and "pure propaganda" intended to create "a smoke screen to obscure certain strategic blunders of the Soviet delegation."

Brown said the Russians were trying to defend the so-called "democratic peoples front of South Korea," which he described as a disloyal, subversive organization. He advised the Russians to "avoid entanglement in Korean politics, particularly in support of parties and organizations hostile to the United States."

Hodge said the arrests were necessary to control "seditious activities."

Col. Gen. Terenty F. Shtikov, chief of the Soviet delegation, said his charge on mass arrests was not propaganda but "fact." He said it was not for him to judge whether the North Korean (Russian zone) press and radio were encouraging South Korean activities as Hodge asserted.

The freed American soldiers, T/5 Tommy F. Pugsley, 19, of Renton, Wash.; Pfc. John D. Hopfe, 19, of Seattle, and Pfc. Gerald F. Geffen, 18, of Port Chester, N. Y., strayed across the thirty-eighth parallel dividing the occupation zones on August 12 and were released yesterday.

Unfamiliar With Region

They said they were unfamiliar with the region, where they were inspecting a telephone line. They theorized a Korean section hand on the adjoining railroad may have hidden the border post by hanging his coat on it.

"We could have run out when we saw two Russian soldiers and an officer approaching," said Geffen, "but we didn't know whether we were north or they were south of the line."

Geffen said an unidentified person on a telephone asked him in English how they happened to cross the border. When he explained, the voice said, "sorry this happened," and promised that an American officer would come for them that evening.

At that moment, however, a Korean brought in a cheap camera which Pugsley had dropped. This apparently caused the Russians to change their minds, for the Americans were taken north, held in barracks for four days and then moved to a Korean house occupied by Russians.

Taught to Play Chess

They were not closely questioned. Asked if they had ever heard of Stalin and Lenin, the Americans answered, "Yes." That was as near as they ever got to politics.

admiration for Joe Louis and offered to box any of the three. They fere dto box any of the three. They declined.

Hopfe described the food as fish stew. "Awfully greasy chunks of potatoes, with the fins still in the fish, bits of meat and lots of rice." He and the others said it appeared to be the regular Soviet army ration.

Geffen said that although under constant guard, they were taught to play chess, "and that was our only amusement."

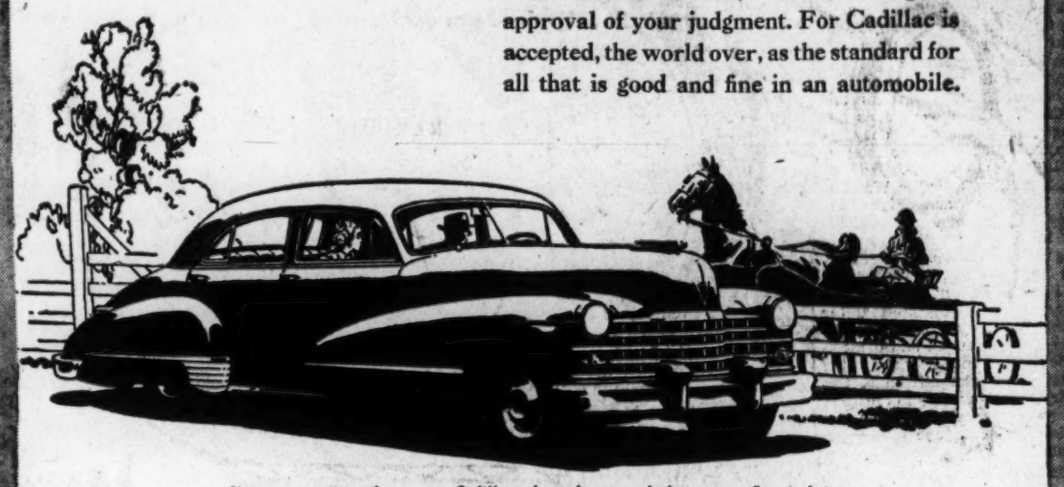
APPROVAL

It is a great satisfaction to drive a car that you know to be beyond question in every respect. And this you know to be true if you drive a Cadillac. Wherever you go, or whatever the occasion, there is nothing but approval of your judgment. For Cadillac is accepted, the world over, as the standard for all that is good and fine in an automobile.



If you are waiting for a new Cadillac—please be assured that every effort is being made to further production. Demand is so great, however, that some delay in delivery is still inevitable. But hold to your purpose! There is no substitute for a Cadillac.

CAMEL
CHOICE TOBACCOS

Yes, experience during the wartime shortage taught smokers the differences in cigarette quality!

DIVING Champion Mildred O'Donnell hasn't forgotten the wartime shortage of cigarettes. "I never realized there were such differences in cigarettes until the shortage," she recalls. "That's when I really learned what cigarette suits me best—Camel." Many a smoker had the same experience, and reached the same conclusion—with the result that more people are smoking Camels than ever before.

But, no matter how great the demand: We don't tamper with Camel quality: Only choice tobaccos, properly aged, and blended in the time-honored Camel way, are used in Camels.

Wedemeyer's Advice

General Wedemeyer's statement on the conclusion of his fact-finding mission in China gives pointed emphasis to the obvious. In visiting most of China's principal centers of population and interviewing individuals as well as the representatives of many groups, General Wedemeyer and his aides found a great yearning for peace. But apathy, defeatism, selfishness, inefficiency and corruption in her political circles are preventing China from the attainment of either the peace or the economic rehabilitation that the people so earnestly desire.

Of course, this was well known before General Wedemeyer went to China. We pointed out at the time the Wedemeyer mission was announced in Washington that China was going through one of her historic travails without leadership worthy of the name. General Marshall had turned the spotlight on the realities of the situation as long ago as last January. Still nothing effective had been done to relieve the monotony and hopelessness of the corruption at Nanking. Chiang Kai-shek was still surrounded by the noisome gang that had brought his long administration into disrepute. Hope of settling the civil war had petered out not only because of the obstinacy of the Communists but also because the central government could not command the respect of a great body of honest and long-suffering people.

General Wedemeyer now simply finds that the situation has not changed. "China," he writes, "still possesses most of the physical resources needed for her own rehabilitation. Recovery awaits inspirational leadership and moral and spiritual resurgence which can only come from within China." He exposes the Communists to scorn for their "employment of force in efforts to impose ideologies," but he is no less severe in condemning the "incompetent and/or corrupt people who now occupy many positions of responsibility" at Nanking. In order to regain and maintain the confidence of the people, he says, "the central government will have to effect immediate drastic, far-reaching political and economic reforms. Promises will no longer suffice . . ."

Unfortunately, there is not much hope that his words will be heeded. The men of Nanking, as we have previously pointed out, hang together for self-protection. To suppose that General Wedemeyer's criticism can now set the wheels of reform in motion after General Marshall failed to do so is asking too much of credulity. The chief effect of General Wedemeyer's forthcoming report to President Truman will doubtless be, therefore, to confirm the wisdom of the United States' hands-off policy.

There has been increasing pressure on the Administration in recent months to change its China policy in the direction of greater aid for Nanking. The Wedemeyer statement gives no warrant whatever for any such shift. On the contrary, it underlines the necessity of waiting for the Chinese to put their own house in order. Incidentally, that underlining comes at a moment when it is made even more emphatic by the obligations we have assumed in Greece and western Europe.

Fall Vs. Spring

These are the days when the side that likes fall best is triumphantly telling the votaries of summer, "It won't be long now!" They point happily to the occasional sere leaf on the sidewalk, to the dull, yellowish tops of trees, to the puffy clouds sailing low in the heavens. They cock their ears for the death cry of the locust, keep score on shortening sunsets, convince themselves nights are getting a little cooler, fancy they sense in late summer winds a chill, prophetic thread of fall. They are already exulting in the glories of October woods, feeling the bracing onslaught of west winds, revelling in a sense of impending adventure. They are vigorously planning to get at their desks, closets and wardrobes, at their capsule edition of Toynbee's histories, at a reorganization of their work and their lives.

But those who sadly watch summer die are thinking how they will miss swims and picnics, balmy outdoor days, mellow summer nights. They are already flinching from November's chill and December's bite. They are totally unmoved by scientists' graphs showing physiological vigor rising to its maximum in October and November. For they ask, don't May and June start the sap rising in farmers, poets, lovers? What is more, these people who hail fall definitely annoy them. They forget that a few months ago they were equally excited by the first swelling tree buds, the first delicate green shoots of grass on drab lawns.

There is no use trying to reconcile lovers of spring and lovers of fall. They are as different a species as those who rise early and those who rise late. Each secretly looks down on the other. Spring's adherents think autumn's addicts are hard, bustling, insensitive and unromantic. Fall's cohorts think of the spring crowd as rather trivial and artistically immature, as sentimental, mushy and lacking get-up. But the fact that this eternal argument goes on should cause all Americans to rejoice. It is proof of the importance of the changing seasons, which so largely explain American vigor and achievement. Much of the incentive for American progress has come from overhauling, reconditioning, and adaptation each new season demands of those who either enjoy it or endure it.

Impasse In Indonesia

The accused in the Indonesian dispute have turned accusers. And paradoxically it is now the Security Council of the United Nations, which but lately sat in judgment upon the clashing Dutch and Republican forces in the far Pacific, which is in a sense on trial before the bar of world opinion. The issue may be fateful for the future effectiveness as well as the prestige of the United Nations.

Dr. E. N. van Kleffens, speaking for the Netherlands, charged the Security Council the other day with "dismal failure" in its efforts to adjudicate the Indonesian conflict. "Never," he declared, "was there such killing on the part of the Republican troops and bands since your cease-fire order. It is a strange and dreadful paradox that your cease-fire order has had an effect diametrically opposed to your humane intentions." And yesterday, the spokesman of the Republican forces, Sutan Sjahrir, said much the same thing, charging the Dutch, of course, with taking advantage of the cease-fire order.

Both disputants have insisted, and with good reason, that in so tense a situation the edicts of the Security Council tend to be mischievous unless backed by an ability to put them into effect. A cease-fire order, unenforced, places an obvious premium upon irresponsibility. In the absence of an impartial investigating body, it is difficult to assess blame for the renewed outbreak of violence in Java. Perhaps both sides are responsible; the very weakness of the Security Council's position and especially the vagueness of its order, tempt both to seek such advantage as they can obtain through surreptitious violation of the fictitious truce.

It is altogether clear, in any case, that the Security Council must move forward to seize real control of the situation—or else beat an ignominious and ruinous retreat. For the one thing it cannot do is force time to stand still. If it is to be the arbiter in Indonesia, as indeed we think it should be, then it must do what it can to enforce its judgments. Enforcement is not easy in the absence of any semblance of the international police force prescribed by the United Nations Charter. As a first step, however, the Security Council ought, we think, to make much more definite the terms of its order and especially to determine the positions beyond which it forbids the contending troops to move. As a second step, it should dispatch without any more delay a fact-finding commission to report on the responsibility for disorders in Java. The action taken yesterday looking toward a report by the career consular agents of the Security Council members may meet this need; but if it is to do so the report must be prompt and forthright. As a final step, the Security Council must call upon member nations, the United States among them, to provide the force, if that be necessary, requisite to the maintenance of its authority. Less than this is likely to leave the Security Council with no authority at all.

Revolt In Ecuador

Dr. Jose M. Velasco Ibarra left the presidency of Ecuador the same way he came into it—as the result of a coup d'etat which is more the rule than the exception in Ecuador. From all indications the bloodless revolution engineered by Col. Carlos Mancheno was entirely a home-grown affair. Apparently it had roots in Dr. Velasco Ibarra's increasing tendency to surround himself with conservatives. Specifically it centered around his effort to transfer Colonel Mancheno away from his post as minister of defense. In the interim since seizing power Colonel Mancheno has made one significant move. He has requested Dr. Jose Vincente Trujillo to remain as foreign minister and Ecuador's delegate at the Rio de Janeiro conference. This should relieve some of the tension caused by the unfortunate timing of the coup to coincide with the hemisphere meeting at Rio.

The revolution again serves as a reminder that the electoral process is not viewed in many parts of Latin America as it is in the United States. Indeed, the forcible ouster of presidents seems to be regarded with no more seriousness than the changing of a Cabinet Secretary in this country. Dr. Velasco Ibarra himself seems to have been a force for stability in Ecuador. Elevated to the presidency from exile with Liberal support in 1944, he generally followed a policy of respect for essential liberties. He promoted a new constitution under which two constituent congresses and one regular congress were elected without incident. However, his swing to the right alienated many liberals and gave rise to considerable factionalism.

While the Ecuador coup probably means no substantial change in relations with the United States, it would be foolish to believe that such extra-legal means do not invite contempt for the constitutional process. It is precisely this sort of thing that we would be promoting by sending military equipment to Latin America as proposed under the hemisphere arms pact. Along with the case of General Somoza in Nicaragua, the Ecuador revolt may be regarded as object lesson of the political control wielded by the armies we would strengthen. Incidentally, as in the Nicaragua affair, our State Department appears to have again been caught off balance by lack of information. Adequate intelligence is the first requisite for being prepared to deal with such situations as they arise.

Hemisphere Security

Argentina has had to abandon the arbitrary stand she took a few days ago in trying to emasculate the Act of Chapultepec. Her representatives at the Rio Conference had come out for unity of action on the part of the republics of the Western Hemisphere in putting down aggression from the outside, but for lesser measures in the case of aggression within the hemisphere. Had the other delegations accepted this proposal the clock of Pan-American cooperation to keep the peace would have been turned back 14 years. For as early as 1933 the Americas had agreed, at the Montevideo conference, to regard an attack upon any one of them from the outside as an attack upon all. The great significance of the conference at Mexico City two years ago and of the present conference called to implement the agreement which took shape there is that the American republics are now setting up machinery to put down aggression among themselves.

The Argentine assault upon this idea could not have been permitted to succeed. It would have undermined the entire concept of a regional arrangement for the maintenance of peace. Senator Vandenberg was right in saying that acceptance of the Argentine proposal would have taken the Act of Chapultepec out of the category of regional arrangements within the United Nations peace system. We should have had, as the Senator said, a sort of "armed alliance against the rest of the world." No such scheme was contemplated when allowance for regional arrangements was made under the United Nations Charter. Rather the main objective of such arrangements is the settlement of international disputes within a given region by resort to regional machinery not inconsistent with U. N. principles and obligations. The U. N. itself may be expected to deal with disputes of a magnitude to threaten the peace of the Western Hemisphere. The special task of the Americas is to set up a system that will concentrate their united strength against any aggressor within the hemisphere.

It is good news that Argentina has given up the untenable position she first assumed. But there still seems to be some doubt that she is ready to join in an effective security system for this hemisphere. The dispatches speak of agreement by the Argentine to apply collective measures to stop aggression within the American continents, but only "after such steps are resolved by consultations." Does this mean an Argentine veto? A regional peace system built on such a foundation would dash the hopes for a warless hemisphere that have been nurtured by the Act of Chapultepec.

Investigation Tactics

Senator Brewster's announcement that there will be no effort to perpetuate the Senate War Investigating Committee beyond next January comes as welcome assurance that the special committee habit has suffered a critical blow. To be sure, Mr. Brewster says that is was never the intention that the committee continue to function beyond the current year, but this willingness to end the inquiry might have become very weak by next January if the investigation had not proved to be a boomerang. As matters stand, the congressional circus to which Mr. Brewster contributed has at least served the useful purpose of discrediting special committees which seek to take over the work of the reorganized standing committees of Congress.

Last week brought a fresh reminder, however, that confinement of investigations to standing committees is no guarantee of proper conduct on the part of the investigators. The counsel for a subcommittee of the House Committee on Education and Labor, Irving McCann, seized the general counsel of the American Federation of Labor by the throat during the course of a hearing and knocked him down. The same investigator used insulting language to another witness and had to apologize. We do not overlook the fact that the AFL counsel, Mr. Padway, had accused Mr. McCann of using "Gestapo tactics." But no set of epithets can justify an agent of Congress in resorting to physical violence. Mr. McCann has destroyed his usefulness as an investigator. We think that he should understand this and hand in his resignation. If he fails to do so, the committee should replace him for the sake of elevating its investigation from the level of a brawl to that of an impartial search for information.

THE GATHERING STORM

I still remember the on-come of that storm—
How the wind wound me in ropes,
Flapped me like a pole with flags.
The cloud-rack formed in dragon shapes.
Briefly, one spewed out the moon.
Down that faint corridor
Came all that was visible of sea.
Coil on coil, it came, like a serpent,
And frothing where it bit the land.
Antiphonal noise—
Deep-chorded roar of waters answering
The high-pitched wail of wind.
Then needles of first rain, wind-driven,
Pricked my face. The storm, attacking,
Lifted and tossed me like a leaf.

Hollywood Communists

By Kenneth Crawford

New Show In Making

Kenneth Crawford, associate editor of Newsweek, is a guest columnist for Ernest Lindley.

NEXT MONTH the House Committee on Un-American Activities will open its Hollywood investigation. The show promises to be as big as the Brewster-Hughes affair. And the outcome may well be as discrediting to the investigators. Although this committee has been studying organized communism, fellow travelerism and liberalism for about 15 years, it never seems to learn.

It is reliably reported that the committee will try to do two things: first, establish that Communists and their sympathizers are strategically scattered through the movie industry; second, that these Communists try and sometimes succeed in coloring American movies with CP doctrine.

Since motion pictures are an important educational or, if you will, propaganda medium within the United States and, at the same time, a show window of American civilization abroad, it would seem that Congress is entitled to inform itself about subversive infiltration of Hollywood. The committee doubtless can put its finger on some of the Communists and their policies without too much trouble but when it arrives at step No. 2—demonstrating that these movie makers color their product Red—it will run into complications and trouble.

One of the committee's targets is understood to be The Best Years of Our Lives, the heavily be-Oscared play about the troubles of returning war veterans. Committeemen seem to feel that the picture was critical of America to the point of being un-American in some of its implications: the hard-hearted banker insisted upon security for veterans' loans; the flying hero could get nothing better than a soda jerk's job upon his return to civilian life; a war profiteer had priority over a returning soldier for air travel. Actually, as every one who saw the picture knows, it was only mildly critical of post-war America and in the end everybody got squared around to live happily ever after.

MILLIONS OF movie goers will laugh as uproariously at the charge that this picture is tainted with Commie propaganda as they did some years ago at the same committee's revelation that Shirley Temple once sent a friendly message to Ce Soir, a prewar front publication in Paris. However, they will continue reserving the right to dislike the drama's stock banker, and its war profiteer. They will resent any suggestions that villains be edited from all movies on the ground that they misrepresent the genus homo Americanus.

Those who know something about the movie industry also will recognize Robert Sherwood, author of Best Years, as a New Dealer who used to write some of President Roosevelt's public statements. Sherwood has been one of the favorite targets of Communist critics ever since he wrote There Shall Be No Night, a play dramatizing democratic Finland's plight under attack by totalitarian Russia. Sherwood is the kind of liberal Communists hate more than they hate bankers. He worked closely with William Wyler, one of Hollywood's civilized directors, in the production of the movie.

Those who know something about left-of-center politics also will recognize Frederic March, one of the stars of Best Years, as a leading light in the Progressive Citizens of America, formerly the Independent Citizens Committee for the Arts, Sciences and Professions, plus the National Citizens Political Action Committee, which is now the Communists' principal front organization. But since March was good in the picture and spoke Sherwood's lines, the pertinence of his politics in this connection is questionable.

WHEN MARCH is being an actor his politics are immaterial. When he is being a politician, taking to radio or platform to use his movie-built prestige on behalf of PCA causes, his political affiliations do become a matter of proper public and congressional interest. Even then, however, he is within his rights. PCA is a legal organization.

If the American people are silly enough to think that talent for the stage necessarily endows an actor with political acumen, there is nothing much the House Un-American Activities Committee can do about it beyond exposing the character of the actor's affiliations. If the actor is a political illiterate, who thinks he is promoting democracy and justice by trailing along with the American agents of Russian totalitarianism, as many in Hollywood do, the committee has a legitimate job of educating to do. But if it is itself confused—mistaking the Sherwoods for the Marches, for example—it will do the cause of understanding more harm than good, as it so frequently has in the past.

Thinking of Communists, affiliated or ideological, as differing from liberals only in degree of radicalism or leftism, is no longer excusable, particularly not in Congressmen. Communists may be said to be left of liberals only if one thinks of the political line as a circle, like the equator, which meets at the point where fascism, the extreme right, joins communism on the extreme left. This is something the House committee should contrive to understand.

Lightning Hits Twice

I note in The Washington Post of August 21 that the barn of Col. E. Brooke Lee, Democratic boss of Montgomery County, Md., was struck by lightning yesterday That is the second time, including last election day, that something owned by the colonel was struck by lightning.

"They Went West"

In commenting in your editorial of August 19, on the recent population estimate of the Bureau of the Census, I'm afraid your writer has not kept up with the industrialization trends. In the first place, there was not, as he states, a "trend of population southward in the decade before the war" but a difference in the rate of population growth. And secondly, although he is correct in saying that "the South is urgently in need of industrial growth to raise its standard of living," the lag in population growth since 1940 in the South has not retarded the much needed industrialization of that region.

The South has had a surplus of labor, and still has, because of the displacement of farm labor resulting from the increased mechanization of agriculture, the lag in industrial employment opportunities up to the period of World War II, and because of the high birth rate in the South. This availability of labor has permitted an unprecedented industrialization to occur—as is happening in the postwar period without a corresponding need for an influx of population.

During 1946 over 40 per cent of the value of new industrial construction in the United States was accounted for by industrial expansion in the Southeast and Southwest, as computed from the Engineering News Record data on contracts awarded over $100,000. I am sure that the people of the South appreciate your sympathetic statement of their need for industrialization, but it is also important to correct a wrong impression.

The facts are that scores of industrialists, large and small alike, have recognized the South's valuable natural resources, expanding markets and available human resources and are locating new plants of all types throughout the South. And surprising as it may seem, the preliminary results of a field study now being made by the National Planning Association's Committee of the South, indicate that the companies who selected the South because of labor were primarily influenced by the available supply of labor rather than by lower wage rates.

British Resources

Your paper reported that Viscount Hall, First Lord of the Admiralty, warned that recent anti-Semitic demonstrations in Britain are a "danger signal which cannot be ignored." His point is well taken, for the demonstrations bespeak the seriousness of Britan's economic plight. Only the desperate economic conditions can explain these riots. A study of British newspapers in the last few weeks will show how well pent-up emotions engendered by the economic situation have been diverted. The anti-Semitic riots in England were preceded by prominent coverage of the hanging of the two British soldiers in Palestine, with little mention of the events which led up to or followed it.

It is to be hoped that events of recent date are not permitted to further impair the British economic position during the present conversations on the amelioration or even abrogation of the terms of the recent loan, or when they ask for a further loan. It would be unfair to England to weigh her moral responsibilities when considering further aid for her shaking economic structure.

Rather let us, as advised by some of our business-minded statesmen when supporting the loan before the Congress, look at it as a banking proposition. Let the British representatives put their cards on the table and let us decide bearing in mind all the elements involved. There is the possibility that some of the debt can be charged off against our obligations to Britain in the form of our corporate or governmental securities. Wealthy Britons would no doubt be glad to exchange American stocks and bonds for British government bonds.

The British should therefore submit a list of the holdings of their citizens and subjects in securities of foreign governments and in foreign corporate securities. With full knowledge of the extent of the depletion of British resources in the days before lend-lease, we will be in a position to consider the loan from a banking point of view.

Daylight Saving

On August 18, under the heading "Daylight Saving," you printed a very peculiar letter from a correspondent who asks how the advocates of daylight saving feel about it now, as if the passage of time had anything to do with it.

I am very glad to answer the question: Daylight saving is one of the finest things ever invented. That is the way I felt about it yesterday, today and how I will feel about it tomorrow.

Tonight, for example, there was not only time enough after dinner to clean the spark plugs of the car, but also to fix a window in the house. Last week I cut the grass before dark. Over the weekend there was time to get back from a trip to the beach before dark.

It's wonderful.

Hull To Trujillo

"Gen. Rafael L. Trujillo, President of the Dominican Republic:

"My warmest congratulations and heartiest expressions of gratification in your marvelous achievement in paying off the total foreign debt. My enthusiastic felicitations also to the people of the Dominican Republic upon their remarkable good fortune. Your services will long be remembered in the history of your historic country

CORDELL HULL."

To us Dominicans Mr. Hull's attitude toward Trujillo is inexplicable and unbefitting a man who held the office of Secretary of State of this great country. Does Mr. Hull pretend to ignore that Trujillo gained control of the Dominican government in 1930 through an act of treason and keeps his power through murder and terror?

The Dominican people in their present tragic circumstances should be helped by all democratic and decent men and governments to regain their freedom and democracy; and if not helped, alas!, at least not harmed, especially by a distinguished statesman whose moral responsibility to the world as a long time champion of democracy of law and order is so great.

Sloppy Skirts

I don't know a woman who admires the long skirts and coats. They really add years to any woman's looks. What woman wants to carry around yards and yards of unnecessary weight? We want smart dresses with buttons, zippers and such, and perhaps an added inch or so but absolutely no long sloppy garments. They may be fine in Hollywood but we working gals don't want them falling around our ankles when we are in a rush to catch a bus.

No, we certainly don't admire them. We want youthful, cheery garments, not horse-and-buggy stuff.

"Basing Point"

In discussing the basing point controversy in the editorial of August 21, The Washington Post has inadvertently accepted at face value a rather serious error of fact first recited by Columnist J. A. Livingston on August 19.

At that time, Mr. Livingston said: "Price identicality, all by itself does not demonstrate conspiracy. Camels, Chesterfields, and Lucky Strikes all sell for the same price. Yet will anyone say that American Tobacco, Liggett & Myers, and R. J. Reynolds are noncompetitive?"

The answer to that one is yes, the United States Supreme Court said so 7-0 as recently as June 10, 1946, when it affirmed a U. S. District Court judgment convicting American Tobacco Co., Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co., and R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. of: (1) Conspiracy in restraint of trade; (2) monopolize (3), attempts to monopolize, and (4) conspiracy to monopolize.

Each count related to interstate and foreign commerce in tobacco, total fines levied being $255,000.

If further evidence is needed, the court backed up the following lower court judgment, weighing the effects of the monopoly:

"Said unlawful monopolization has permitted a few companies to attain control of a bottleneck in a great industry and to abuse their resulting strategic and dominant position . . . by keeping from all other groups in the industry, and from consumers, the benefits which otherwise would flow from free, vigorous and normal competition."

If Mr. Livingston and The Washington Post want to stand by the basing point system in steel and other industries they would be on more solid ground if they looked elsewhere than to the cigarette industry for evidence on competition and price conformity.

LLOYD M. SCHWARTZ.
Washington.

The complaint against American Tobacco, R. J. Reynolds, and Liggett & Myers was that they conspired to fight off the competition of other cigarette companies, especially makers of the 10-cent brands, during the depression. With one another, however, they were competitive to the point of timidity.

On June 23, 1931, Reynolds raised the wholesale price of Camels, and Lucky Strikes and Chesterfields promptly followed. Officials of Liggett & Myers (Chesterfields) thought the increase a "mistake," yet they feared if they didn't follow the leader the other companies would have "greater resources to spend in advertising" and so put Chesterfields "at a competitive disadvantage."

Because the "big three" don't charge different prices does not mean they don't compete in other ways—through advertising, through trying to get stores to display their cigarettes advantageously, through type of wrapping, etc. Price differentials are conclusive evidence of competition. But price identicality is not evidence of noncompetition.

Nevertheless touche for Mr. Schwartz.

J. A. LIVINGSTON.

Russian Showdown

By Sumner Welles

Cheap Solutions May Be Costly

THE UNITED STATES and the Soviet Union are rapidly moving toward some kind of a showdown. That does not mean that war is either imminent or inevitable. Yet at best we face a period during which there can be no real advance toward world reconstruction or strengthening the United Nations. If the American people are to pass through this period safely their national policy must envisage all future contingencies.

Our immediate program is designed to check Soviet imperialism. We hope that the Russian people will eventually learn that their security and progress will be assured by international collaboration through the United Nations and not by aggressive expansion.

But it would be fatally short-sighted for us not to allow for the possibility that the Soviet dictatorship may persist upon the course on which it has now embarked, and continue to reject every fair and reasonable opportunity to cooperate in the establishment of a free and peaceful world order.

UNLIKE THE peoples of the Old World, we have never before been confronted with the need to formulate a long-range foreign policy upon whose success the future safety of the Nation may depend.

We tend to forget that a German-Russian alliance was the foundation of Bismarck's foreign policy. But the Germans have not forgotten that it was his policy that enabled them to become a united people and a great military power, and that it was only after his policy had been discarded, first by Wilhelm II and again by Hitler, that Germany suffered defeat.

We seem no longer to remember that Japan would never have dared to attack Pearl Harbor had it not been for her pact with Russia.

If the members of the Politbureau are bent upon global dominion they will try by every available means to obtain control of Germany and of Japan. They cannot dominate Europe unless the German people and their resources are within the Soviet system, nor can they dominate Asia unless Japan acquiesces.

WE ARE about to begin the preliminary negotiations for a peace treaty with Japan. If we conclude a peace in which Russia refuses to participate, we will be exposed to the danger that the Japanese nationalists will again align themselves with Moscow as a means of rebuilding a powerful Japan. No matter how many Pacific islands we may retain, once a peace treaty terminates the present American occupation of Japan, what leverage can this country, in the face of Russian hostility, expect to use in continental Asia? What chance would we then have of facilitating a desirable solution of the civil war in China or of helping the Koreans to obtain any real independence?

The strategy of the Soviet counterattack to the Marshall Plan is plain. In eastern Europe, the remnants of the democratic parties have been liquidated and the political and economic systems of those countries are being quickly amalgamated within those of the Soviet Union. In western Europe the Kremlin is banking upon our help being too little and too late to prevent economic and political disintegration. It is making good use of the poisonous diatribes against France that have been voiced by our military authorities in Germany to arouse public opinion against the United States. It believes that by next spring the progressive deterioration of the situation will have measurably increased Communist influence throughout western and central Europe.

NOTHING COULD better suit the Kremlin's present plans than the speedy termination of our occupation of Japan. And should the American economic depression, for which Moscow has so long been hoping, actually materialize, it expects us to pull out of Germany as well.

In the contest of sheer power politics into which our country has unwillingly been forced, we can do no other than adhere to these cardinal principles: First, patiently and persistently to hold the door open for Russian cooperation through the United Nations. Second, to take no step that would jeopardize our future safety by enabling the Soviet Union later on to secure Germany and Japan as her allies. Third, to render the assistance needed to tide the European democracies over the present crisis, and steadfastly to avoid those penny-wise, pound-foolish measures that must inevitably destroy our influence in the rest of the world.

The expense of such a policy is not pleasant to contemplate. But our present willingness to assume these burdens will insure this country's survival.

As a nation we have as yet shown little sign of any "enlightened or continuous will for power," not the power derived from selfish aggrandizement, but the power needed to build a world in which free peoples can safely live.

Just now the cheapest and easiest solutions seem to be to clear out of Japan, to return the Ruhr to German management and to restore German industry to its earlier levels, so that we can save ourselves many headaches and cut our costs.

But what seem today to be the cheap and easy solutions of our international problems may well prove tomorrow to have been the most costly and the most dangerous.

Col. Mancheno Announces New Cabinet for Eucador

Quito, Ecuador, Aug. 25 (AP).—Carlos Mancheno, self-proclaimed "chief of the government" of Ecuador since the overthrow yesterday of President Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra, announced his cabinet today in a swift move to consolidate his regime.

Mancheno said that Ecuador's international relations would not be changed.

"I shall see," he said in an official statement, "that international treaties will be honored and that the splendid relations with the United States I was able to begin in my capacity as defense minister will be maintained and even strengthened."

(In Washington a United States State Department spokesman said it was "too early to say" whether the United States would recognize the new government in Ecuador.)

The following cabinet appointments were announced by Mancheno after conferences with Liberal, Socialist and Revolutionary Vanguard Party representatives.

Julio Moreno Espinoza, minister of the interior; Alfonso Larrea Alba, education; Jeronimo Aviles Alfaro, treasury; Luis Maldonado Tamayo, social welfare; Julio Espinoza Zaldumbide, public works, and Jose Vincente Trujillo, foreign relations, a post he held under Velasco Ibarra.

Mancheno retained the post of minister of national defense. Apparently, Velasco Ibarra's attempt to remove Mancheno from this position precipitated yesterday's events.

The Communists announced they were attending the discussions only as observers. The Conservatives declined to participate.

Ecuador Ambassador To U. S. Resigns

Ecuador's Ambassador to the United States, Dr. L. Neftali Ponce, resigned yesterday in the wake of the revolution which overthrew President Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra.

A career diplomat, Dr. Ponce said his resignation was "a matter or routine," necessitated by the fact that the government which appointed him is no longer in power.

Earlier, the embassy received an unofficial report that all ambassadors would be asked to remain at their posts.

Straight Talk From Wedemeyer

THE BLUNT statement issued by Lieut. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer on the eve of his departure from China will come as a severe shock to the Nanking government. But whether it will achieve its intended purpose of bringing about a wholesale housecleaning in China is far from certain.

NOVER

The news that President Truman was sending a new mission to China had been greeted with enthusiasm by minions of the Chiang regime.

They were convinced that it foreshadowed a new flood of American dollars in China. The line of reasoning behind this belief was that since the United States is now pursuing an anti-Communist foreign policy and since the Nanking government is fighting the Chinese Communists, this country had no choice but to help Nanking.

So Chinese stocks went up and the Chinese dollar, a very sick currency, indeed, began to show signs of improvement.

TO SAY THE LEAST, Wedemeyer's statement is a grievous disappointment to the Nanking overlords.

Nowhere in it does he hold out any conditional or unconditional promise of American aid. On the contrary, his contention is that despite years of war and revolution, "China still possesses most of the physical resources needed for her own rehabilitation.

"China's recovery," he added, "awaits inspirational leadership and moral and spiritual resurgence which can only come from within China."

That leadership, the Wedemeyer statement indicates, is lamentably lacking in China.

The Chinese Communists appear to be far more interested in imposing their ideology by force than in the well-being of their country.

On the other hand, many of those who occupy positions of responsibility in the central government and even more in the provinces and municipalities are only too often greedy, corrupt and incompetent individuals.

As a parting shot, Wedemeyer has this to say:

"To regain and maintain the confidence of the people, the Central Government will have to put into effect immediately drastic and far-reaching political and economic reforms. Promises will no longer suffice. Performance is absolutely necessary. It should be accepted that military force in itself will not eliminate communism."

THE VERY CIRCUMSTANCE that General Wedemeyer took the trouble to speak so bluntly of conditions he found in China shows the enormous interest and the grave concern we have in what is happening in that country.

There is no possible way in which the United States can safely wash its hands of China. We can no more afford to do it there than we can afford to do it in Greece. In both cases, however, reform must come from within before it can be fostered from without. In the absence of such internal reform our aid may merely mean throwing good money after bad.

SUCH PLAIN speaking as General Wedemeyer permitted himself in discussing his findings in China our statesmen and representatives have hitherto avoided in the case of Greece.

Yet by a curious coincidence, so many of the things which Wedemeyer said about the present situation of China and particularly about the present government of China apply equally well to the situation in Greece and the governments that have ruled Greece during recent years.

Since the Truman doctrine was first proclaimed last March, very little has been done by the Greek authorities to meet the basic needs of the situation confronting their harassed and war-torn land. The effort to restore order has failed. Corrupt, incompetent, greedy and reactionary individuals have continued to sit in the saddle and Greece's economic situation has gone from bad to worse.

To be sure by no means all of Greece's trouble is internal. A good deal of it is due to outside pressures, whose ill-concealed purpose is to saddle Greece with a regime similar to the Soviet-stooge governments that rule the lands to the north of Greece. But the threat from without might ease up considerably if a broad-gauged and enlightened government were set up in Greece. For that reason our stake in the political evolution of Greece is as great as our stake in Greek independence. Our statesmen must not be too squeamish about saying so.

Senate Units Plan 2 More Probes Abroad

Two separate subcommittee investigations of conditions in American occupied zones in both the Pacific and European theaters yesterday were announced by the Senate Armed Services Committee.

The announcement raised to eight the number of congressional groups slating either economic or military inspection trips abroad this fall.

Senate Armed Services Chairman Chan Gurney (R., S. Dak.) will direct the survey of the Pacific area. He will be accompanied by Senators Wayne Morse, (R., Oreg.) and Richard B. Russell (D., Ga.).

Senator Edward V. Robertson (R., Wyo.) will head the Armed Services Committee's European contingent. This subcommittee will include Senators Leverett Saltonstall (R., Mass.), Raymond E. Baldwin (R., Conn.), George A. Wilson (R., Iowa), Millard E. Tydings (D., Md.), Harry Flood Byrd (D., Va.), and Lister Hill (D., Ala.).

"While all major problems facing the armed services overseas today will be studied, particular attention will be paid to the efficiency of our military and naval installations, to the morale and health of our soldiers and sailors, to the conditions under which they are living, and to the general adequacy of our armed forces abroad," Gurney said.

A companion study is planned by the House Armed Services Committee. In addition, House and Senate Appropriations Committees, a special House Committee on European Problems, the House Foreign Affairs Committee, a joint House-Senate committee investigating the State Department's information program, and a Senate Judiciary Subcommittee studying the displaced persons problem, plan on-the-spot inspections.

GOP Forums Will Discuss Reds in U. S.

By the United Press

The Republican Open Forums announced last night that it will begin Nation-wide discussions September 1 on the subject of communism and its threat to American democracy.

Senators Edward Martin (R., Pa.) and Wayne L. Morse (R., Oreg.) helped launch the undertaking with articles in "Cross Section," the Forums' official publication. The discussions will continue until October 15.

Martin warned that "no one can be faithful to American ideals and accept the teachings of communism." Morse cautioned the Forums against playing into the hands of "genuine Communists" by engaging in "frantic witch hunting and blatant red baiting."

Clarence A. Peters, executive director of the Forums, said they will seek to determine the extent of communism in the United States, as well as its purposes, strength and potential power. He said it would include studies of Communist-dominated organizations and "fellow travelers."

Martin said that communism's real motives "are hidden under a cloak of false patriotism or social welfare, so-called liberalism or humanitarianism."

"Every one among us who embraces the philosophy of communism forfeits the right to call himself a loyal American," he said.

Morse said there is a "genuine need for a calm and judicious study of American communism," but he warned that "our failure to distinguish between the genuine Communist and the genuine liberal also contributes to the effectiveness of the Communist organization."

Delay Seen In Hannegan's Resignation

Post Reporter

Retirement of Robert E. Hannegan as chairman of the Democratic National Committee and announcement of a successor probably sometime next month was reliably indicated last night.

Hannegan, en route back to Washington from a Hawaiian vacation, will confer with the President within the next two or three days.

The two may agree then on the man who will run Mr. Truman's 1948 campaign, but an immediate announcement seemed unlikely.

Would Keep Cabinet Post

It was pointed out that the new chairman, although hand-picked by the President as a matter of custom, must be formally elected by the National Committee. Pending Hannegan's expected decision to resign, no meeting of the committee has been called.

Hannegan, who underwent an operation last spring for hypertension, has shown some improvement in recent months but apparently already has made up his mind not to continue his heavy dual duties as both National chairman and Postmaster General. He would retain only the Cabinet post. Brig. Gen. Wallace Graham, the President's physician, will give him a complete physical checkup before any formal announcement, however.

Anderson Seen First Choice

Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson is still reputed to be the President's first choice for the post if he wants it but, like Hannegan, has not been in top physical form. If he accepts the appointment, he may step down as Secretary of Agriculture. Vacationing together in the Hawaiian islands, Anderson and Hannegan had a chance to talk over the alternatives.

Others receiving serious consideration for the post include Gael Sullivan, who may stay on as executive director if Anderson is appointed, Senator J. Howard McGrath (D., R. I.), Leslie Biffle, the President's Senate trouble-shooter and former Representative Joseph E. Casey of Massachusetts.

Bulgars Approve Peace Treaty, Call It Unjust

Sofia, Bulgaria, Aug. 25 (AP).—Bulgaria's peace treaty with the Allies, although termed "hard and unjust" by government supporters and opposition speakers, was approved unanimously by Parliament today.

Speakers preceding the vote claimed the treaty was unfair in not recognizing Bulgaria as a "cobelligerant" against Germany, in imposing heavy reparations and in failing to recognize Bulgaria's claim to western Thrace and an outlet to the Aegean Sea.

Earlier, reliable sources said the National Fatherland Front, the Communist-dominated coalition controlling the government, planned to ban Kikola Petkov's Agrarian Party, chief opposition, from parliament.

Agrarian sources said the front's executive committee had called upon the government to make the Agrarians an illegal party.

The Agrarian leader, Petkov, last week was convicted of plotting against the government and was sentenced to death.

The President's Calling List . . .

11 a. m.—Mrs. Jewell W. Swofford, Federal Security Agency.

Noon—Henrik de Kauffmann, Ambassador of Denmark.

12:15 p. m.—Horace B. Deal of St. Louis.

Forecasts of U. S. Depression Just Propaganda, Meyer Says

Reports abroad that the United States is facing an economic depression are false propaganda being spread by enemies of European recovery, so declares Eugene Meyer, first president of the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, known as the World Bank, in the following article from Paris. He also warns that European nations to receive aid under the Marshall Plan must cooperate wholeheartedly among themselves. Mr. Meyer, the chairman of the Board of The Washington Post, currently is making a first-hand study of social and ecenomic conditions in Europe.

By Eugene Meyer

Paris, Aug. 25 (INS).—The United States is intelligently and sympathetically interested in the welfare of our European friends and neighbors.

This is neither entirely selfish nor unselfish. It is both. It is what used to be called altriusm, a word now in discard. It used to mean intelligent self-interest in the welfare of others.

The Marshall Plan actually is a request by the United States for Europe to formulate a plan for its economic reconstruction.

It assumes that the cooperative effort of Europe is essential for effective results and that Europe can form better plans than could be thought out in Washington.

America is full of good will for Europe, but is is not, in my opinion, willing to undertake large-scale reconstruction of Europe without Europe's using its best efforts individually and collectively.

Secretary Marshall has said Europe must do its part. The American people say the same. It is not a question of generosity. It simply is that anything America could do—if it would—that was not met with cooperative effort on the part of European peoples to help themselves would be doomed to disastrous failure.

America would regard it as not in the interest of Europe to participate in plans which did not promise to be a success by measures agreed upon and actions performed by nations on this side of the Atlantic.

Some enemies of European recovery are spreading propaganda that America is facing a great depression. In fact some of our economists lent color to that idea in 1945.

The facts are that what is going to Europe from America is, to a considerable extent, through curtailment of supplies to the American consumer.

Certainly this is true in most manufactured goods.

A similar situation is true with respe to agricultural products.

A very great expansion in the production of wheat and other farm products has been made for the purpose of feeding Europe. It is true that with good crops in Europe this will make necessary a marked readjustment of American farm operations.

But this will not be followed, as it was after World War I, with the same disastrous price decline, because the United States has learned from the last experience how to stop it by using emergency measures such as Government purchases in the market, for storage of surpluses which may be needed later.

All surpluses carried in the depression have been liquidated by this time by the Government. Inventory stocks need to be restored by the first surpluses as stocks of cotton, wheat and other grains were at a minimum as of July 1 this year.

But there is also a guaranty of large industrial employment when related to consumer buying power and the vast need in America for construction.

This is for homes, business structures, manufacturing plants, hotels, apartments and utilities necessary for a population which has expanded many millions in the last eight years without corresponding construction.

The desire for a better life controls all people.

America wants profoundly to cooperate with the leaders of Europe to find a way to the better production and distribution that needs to be achieved.

America has found itself a world power—not by seeking the position, but by the force of circumstances and, above all, as the result of its people's hard work.

This involves obligations. America faces facts and proposes to do its duty in the face of a condition where so many people depend on the United States for help and support.

It always has responded to its obligations in the past. It proposes to do so now.

Opposition Leader Flees From Hungary

Budapest, Hungary, Aug. 25 (U.P.).—Deszo Sulyok, leader of the outstanding opposition Freedom Party, has left the country, it was announced officially today. Reports indicated he had been warned by the Communist Party to get out before next Sunday's election if he valued his liberty.

Thus the leftists, dominated by Communists, were left to run the election without the presence of one of the last big opposition leaders.

The Socialist newspaper Vilagossag said Sulyok had gone to Austria. The Liberal Vilag reported he might be in Switzerland.

Amnesty in Paraguay

Legal Fight Begun For $5000 in Fur Coat Stored in '45

New York, Aug. 25 (AP).—Finding of $5000 in new $100 bills tucked inside the lining of a fur coat left at the B. Altman & Co. department store for storage in 1945 has started a three-day court fight for possession of the cash, it was disclosed today.

Those seeking title to the money, now held by the police property clerk are Marjorie Beebe of Albany, N. Y., and Mrs. Elizabeth Adams Gould of Hamilton County, Ohio, who found the money; Mrs. H. Ullman of New York, owner of the coat, and the company.

The two former employes contend the legal period prescribed by law had elapsed without a lawful claimant and that they were entitled to the $5000.

Looking at Hollywood

Skelton and Wynn to Team Up As Comics in 'The Red Mill'

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 25.—When "The Red Mill" is screened, it will have Red Skelton and Keenan Wynn as the comics, and in it you at least will be able to hear our own California singer, John Raitt. . . . Eleanor Powell opens at the Last Frontier Hotel in Las Vegas the end of this month for two weeks, after which she'll return here for two weeks with her family—Glenn Ford and their 2½-year-old son, Peter. Then Eleanor hikes out for two months of night club engagements starting in Boston. The stories that there's trouble in that family are a lot of eye wash. They've bought a beautiful home, and Eleanor's tour will help pay for it quickly. . . .

Why couldn't we have a motion picture hall of fame similar to the one which honors baseball's greats? While thinking of the late William S. Hart, this idea popped into my head. Bill undoubtedly would be honored. So would Will Rogers, Marie Dressler, Douglas Fairbanks, Irving Thalberg, and Rudolph Valentino. The sports writers of America vote baseball players into their hall of fame. Who would do it for our industry? The critics could vote, and newspapers might help by taking polls of their readers. It's an idea. How about it?

Ah, Red Letter Day

Mark September 2 on your calendar for Town Meeting of the Air. The subject will be: "Is there really a communistic threat in Hollywood?" Howard Emmett Rogers and I will take the affirmative, and Emmet Lavery and Albert Dekker, the negative. It promises to be hotter than a firecracker. . . .

Bob Ryan writes from Germany, where he's making "Berlin Express," that he hopes to do the impossible when he gets to London—interview George Bernard Shaw. Now what would those two mugs have to talk about? . . .

Joe E. Lewis dropped in on his wife, Martha Stewart, long enough to drape a blue mink coat around her shoulders on her birthday. . . . Joan Crawford probably will sizzle when she learns that her former flame, Greg Bautzer, really is taking Greer Garson places—and in his car, too. . . . Dan Duryea, who played the young cad in "The Little Foxes," will do the part of the older cad in "Another Part of the Forest."

Those Were Wise Words

On the set of "Sign of the Ram," Phyllis Thaxter showed me a script of a play she did with Laurette Taylor 10 years ago in Ogunquit, Me. Laurette had written the play, which was titled "At the Theater." She autographed Phyllis' copy with this advice: "Don't accept that Hollywood offer you've got now. You're not ready. Wait until you are." Phyllis waited and says she'll always be grateful to a woman who knew the score. . . .

Ida Lupino and Henry Fonda are wanted for "Rain Before Seven," the story Casey Robinson is writing. "Miracle in the Rain," which Lupino was to do with Ben Bogeaus, has been postponed indefinitely. Ida tells me she did "The Ghost Camera" in England 16 years ago, and a few weeks ago at a party she heard a clipped British voice behind her say, "How would you like to remake 'The Ghost Camera'?" She turned around, and there stood Johnny Mills, the star of the picture. Ida didn't even know he was in town. . . . Noel Coward isn't coming to our town. He'll see Cape Cod with Kit Cornell, visit John Wilson, and also visit the Lunts at their Wisconsin farm.

TRAPPED With a Billowing Skirt, or, Thar She Blows might be adequate titling for this picture. After all, it's pretty warm these days. The lady is Adele Jergens of Columbia

Powell Dickers For Helicopter

Hollywood—Dick Powell is dickering for a helicopter to supplement his private cabin plane. He became sold on the 'copter when he hovered over Los Angeles recently in connection with the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund drive.

If Powell can get delivery on the "flying windmill," he intends to use it for transportation between headquarters and location sites in Arizona, where he and Jane Greer are costarring in RKO Radio's "Stations West."

Junie Told 'Em

Hollywood.—Director George Stevens wasn't satisfied with the costumes supplied Irene Dunne and Barbara Bel Geddes for their roles in "I Remember Mama." The garments weren't worn and soiled enough. But he was pleased with the appearance of 10-year-old June Hedin. The juvenile explained it thusly:

"Miss Dunne and the others don't play much. I've been out behind the stage shooting marbles."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Labor Circles Watch Coming AFL Parley

(Editor's Note—While Drew Pearson is on a brief vacation, the Washington Merry-Go-Round is being written by his old partner, Robert S. Allen.)

Inner labor circles are watching with keen curiosity what the AFL does on inviting Labor Secretary Lewis Schwellenbach to address the forthcoming AFL convention in San Francisco.

Schwellenbach

Last year he was pointedly omitted from the guest-speaker list.

A life-long liberal and steadfast labor friend, the big Westerner incurred the ire of AFL moguls because of failure to make an AFL man one of his assistant secretaries. So they publicly "spanked" Schwellenbach by not inviting him to their convention.

This year, however, the situation is very different.

Phil Hannah, able Ohio AFL leader, is an Assistant Secretary of Labor. And Schwellenbach gave the AFL exclusive U. S. representation on the increasingly important International Labor Organization. Also, he militantly carried labor's ball both within the Administration and on Capitol Hill against the Taft-Hartley bill.

While certain other Administration leaders counseled pussyfooting this measure Schwellenbach fought it tooth and nail and was chiefly responsible for the President's veto.

On all counts, Schwellenbach should be welcomed with open arms at the San Francisco convention. It remains to be seen whether he will get an invitation.

Note: Schwellenbach's prestige and influence in the President's councils is at high peak. If Truman decides to have a Westerner as his running mate, Schwellenbach is a more likely choice than any of the others mentioned so far.

Sensitive Admiral

Vice Admiral George F. Hussey, jr., retiring Chief of Naval Ordnance, gave strict orders that this story be kept out of the papers.

"It is the admiral's wish," snapped his secretary, blonde Miss Bernice Winter, who is usually accommodating. "No, the admiral will not talk to you about it. He doesn't want to discuss it. He's out of the office."

During this icy rebuff, the admiral's office could be heard over the phone coaching his secretary.

This is the momentous story the admiral wanted shushed.

He was squiring a 4-year-old West Coast guest around the Capital. The little fellow took in the sights with wide eyes. When he suddenly spied the stately Washington Monument shaft, he exclaimed: "Oh, look, there is the Washington Post!"

An Englishman Talks

Unhappiest newsmen in Washington are the British correspondents who covered the negotiations over the easing of the U. S. loan. The Englishmen took the proceedings very hard; as if they were an indignity on them personally.

Illustrative of their viewpoint was the outburst one gave vent to following Treasury Secretary John Snyder's press conference, in which he explained the U. S. plan to bail Britain out of its latest fiscal difficulty. Snyder was tactful and courteous. But as the newsmen left his office, a British correspondent turned to an American and said bitterly:

"The more I learn about my country's plight, the more I wonder what we got out of victory in the war. The Germans at least enjoyed the plunder of all Europe before being defeated and now they are living off the fat of America and whatever we can scrape together to send them. The Japs are downright happy under MacArthur's solicitous ministrations, and the Italians are doing very well for themselves.

"But we are constantly getting it in the neck, with no end in sight. You know, I've been thinking that maybe England ought to take a try at being a conquered country. It might pay off. Perhaps we should declare war on the U. S. for 24 hours and then surrender, on condition that you occupy us. I'm sure we would be much better off that way than we are now—as a debt-ridden victory."

Shorts

If Postmaster General Bob Hannegan does decide to give up the Democratic National chairmanship, his successor will be young, dynamic, liberal Executive Director Gael Sullivan . . . Representative Lyndon Johnson will toss his hat into the ring after Labor Day against noisy Senator "Pappy" O'Daniel . . . As head of the Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers, former War Production Chief Donald M. Nelson receives $75,000 a year. But he still does most of his shopping via mail order from his prewar employers, Sears Roebuck. . . The late Senator Bilbo's six-member staff will continue to draw pay for six more months. Under the law, congressional clerks remain on the payroll half a year in the event of death of their employer. Although Bilbo was never sworn in by the last Congress, he was allowed $50,000 a year for office expenses.

Forget THOSE THERMOMETER Blues

Beat the heat in this old Retreat away by the Bay where August's bearable
COOL picnic groves invite you to relax, have fun, away from torrid August in the city . . . when the sun slants low there's a bracing glass and a menu taste-tuned to holiday appetites in the breeze-bathed Rod'n-Reel Restaurant—best on the Bay!
Slither right out of summer in the big, safe, cooling pool, let the kids romp under the eyes of trained and helpful guards. After dark—a "go" with fate in the big bingeterium, or just sit and let bay breezes brush away those theremeter blues.
It's an easy hour's drive to that VACATION-FOR-A-DAY
Chesapeake BEACH PARK
Come soon. Come tonight. Come Penn. Ave. S.E. to Alabama. Marboro Pike to Route 416 . . . the route to fun for all the family.

STORE OF NATIONALLY FAMOUS MERCHANDISE

C. P. Skouras Drew Highest Salary of '45

By The Associated Press

The heavyweight corporation salary of 1945 went to Theater Financier Charles P. Skouras, the Treasury Department reported last night. Betty Grable's $208,000 was the top figure among women.

Skouras received $568,143.60 to lead the list of more than 800 persons who took more than $75,000 in pay from corporations in 1945 or in business fiscal years ending in 1946.

He nosed out another California entry—Charles H. Strub, executive vice president of the Los Angeles Turf Club, Inc., who earned $541,412.12—by pocketing $438,143.60 from National Theaters Amusement Co., Inc., and the rest from Fox West Coast Agency Corp. Skouras is president of both firms.

Third money went to Thomas J. Watson, president of International Business Machines Corp., New York, $425,548.94.

The Southern Comfort Corp., St. Louis, a liquor firm, paid the fourth ranking salary to F. E. Fowler, jr., president, $375,616.92.

McCarey Stands Sixth

Hollywood was sparsely represented among the top money-winners by past years' standards, but Producer-Director Thomas Leo (Going My Way) McCarey was fifth on the list with $355,426.61 from Paramount. He was a scintillating first last year with earnings of $1,113,035.

Darryl F. Zanuck, production vice president of Twentieth Century-Fox, was sixth on the new list with $260,000.

Rounding out the top 10 were Charles E. Wilson, president of General Motors, $303,990.15; G. R. Fink, president of both Great Lakes Steel Corp. and National Steel Corp., which together paid him $275,400; Theodore Seltzer, president of Bengue, Inc., Union City, N. J., $261,250.92, and C. W. Deyo, president and chairman, F. W. Woolworth Co., $250,974.50.

Miss Grable's compensation from Twentieth Century-Fox didn't match last year's earnings of Actress Deanna Durbin, $310,728. However, the shapley Miss Grable's band-leading husband, Harry James, added $121,667.67 to the family income from the same payroll.

Crosby's Pay "Trifling"

Miss Durbin was not on the list this year, for her company, Universal, did not report its salary list in time. Neither did Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Warner Brothers, and numerous other of the country's top firms, including United States Steel Corp.

Olivia De Havilland collected $206,944 from Paramount, Maureen O Hara $190,666.67 and Gene Tierney $114,916.67 from Twentieth Century-Fox, Dorothy Lamour (Dorothy Howard to the Bureau of Internal Revenue) $112,372 from Paramount, and Ginger Rogers $117,159.44 from Vanguard Films, Inc.

Rita Hayworth was worth $117,000 to Columbia Pictures Corp., Barbara Stanwyck $140,000 to Paramount, and Betty Hutton (a taxpayer named Betty June Thornburg, on the BIR files) $102,583.33, also at Paramount.

MacMurray Falls Back

Bing Crosby turned up with a trifling $175,000 from Paramount, but this didn't cover any earnings from radio and baseball or losses from horses.

Ray Milland earned $185,833.33 from Paramount although his "Lost Weekend" was not released until November of 1945. Eddie Bracken made $134,041.66, Robert Cummings $110,000, Brian Donlevy $99,708.31 and Alan Ladd $107,000, all from Paramount.

Fred MacMurray, fourth money-maker in the country last year, was 24th on this year's list with $203,525.66; while Charles Boyer earned $135,000, Tyrone Power $110,400, all from Twentieth Century-Fox.

Thirty persons crowded into the circle of $200,000-plus earners, but they did not include Henry Ford II, president of Ford Motor Co., $104,004; Walter Winchell, Hearst columnist, $97,680.95, or L. M. Giannini, president of Bank of America, the country's biggest bank, $79,747.

The compensation figures do not include earnings from securities. They represent income before taxes, which cut deeply into the salary figures shown. "Compensation" includes bonuses, commissions and royalties.

Skouras' Brother 26th

General Motors placed five executives, including President C. E. Wilson, in the top 30. The others were Albert Bradley, executive vice president, $234,125; Ormond E. Hunt, executive vice president, $228,503.15; Alfred P. Sloan, jr., board chairman, $201,000, and Charles F. Kettering, vice president, $200,804.63.

William Randolph Hearst, publisher, was paid $200,000 in equal parts by Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., and Hearst Publications, Inc., Los Angeles. He heads both companies. Spyros P. Skouras, president of Twentieth Century-Fox and brother of the first ranking money earner, was twenty-sixth with $201,600.

Other big names in industry, entertainment and business were:

U. S. Army Cuts Forces In Reich Zone

Berlin, Aug. 25 (AP).—The United States, leading advocate of self-government for the Germans, has set the pace in reducing its military government and occupation army personnel in Germany.

The United States has by far the smallest military government staff composed of its own nationals. Next to the French, who have the smallest zone of occupation, the Americans also have the smallest occupation army and are trying to persuade the other occupying powers to agree to further reduction of their forces.

The Americans have reduced their military government personnel to 4000, military and civilian, representing a cut of 39 per cent in the last 13 months. This has been accomplished by delegating functional authority to the Germans under supervisory control, and placing Germans in secretarial and similar jobs which formerly were filled by Americans.

Against this, the British—with a zone only slightly larger in population to administer—have a military government force of 20,000. A new 25 per cent reduction has been projected.

The French, with the smallest of all the zones, have a force of 12,280, which includes 2380 administrative officers and 8900 French nationals classified as auxiliaries, including secretaries, clerks, chauffeurs and similar personnel.

The Russians never have disclosed their military personnel but American sources say that it is "certainly substantially greater than ours."

Rare Siamese Twins Born in Wyoming

Rock Springs, Wyo., Aug. 25 (AP). Rare Siamese twins were born in Wyoming General Hospital today to Mr. and Mrs. Harding Brown of Pinedale, Wyo.

The babies, both girls, weighed a total of 12 pounds, 4 ounces. Dr. Krueger said medical records show chances they will survive are "very very small," because "too large a portion of the bodies is connected."

Aerial Survey Plane Crashes, Killing Two

Burbank, Calif., Aug. 25 (AP).—A pilot and a mechanic were killed today when an aerial survey plane crashed in nearby rugged Verdugo hills, starting a brush fire that was controlled several hours later.

The men were identified as Harry D. Treadway, 40, the pilot and an aerial map-photographer, and Ivan Lee Angeloff, 25, the mechanic of Billings, Mont.

Two-Day Study on Housing To Precede Legion Convention

New York, Aug. 25 (AP).—Two-day pre-convention study of a problem besetting thousands of the nation's veterans — housing — was planned by merican Legion officials today as legionnaires began swarming into town for the organization's 29th annual convention.

Richard Cadwakllader of Baton Rouge, La., chairman of the Legion's National Housing Committee, said representatives of labor, the construction industry, financing agencies and government had been invited to attend a round-table discussion tomorrow.

Mrs. Norton H. Pearl of Detroit, Mich., president of the Legion Auxiliary, which boasts 950,000 members, today indorsed the recommendation of National Commander Paul H. Griffith that Congress meet in immediate special session and pass a universal military training law.

Brahany Renamed For 3-Year Term On Jobless Board

Thomas W. Brahany yesterday was reappointed a member of the District Unemployment Compensation Board for a term of three years by the District Commissioners.

Brahany, who represents employers on the board, was appointed last year to succeed the late George H. O'Connor.

A White House secretary during the administrations of Presidents Taft and Wilson, Brahany came to Washington 40 years ago as a correspondent for the Milwaukee Sentinel and later for the New York Post.

Before joining the White House staff, he was secretary of the Tariff Board. Later he became Washington representative for a New York brokerage firm.

Governor Won't Name Successor to Bilbo

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 25 (AP).—Gov. Fielding L. Wright said yesterday that unless a special session of Congress is convened before the November 4 general election he will not make an appointment to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator Theodore G. Bilbo.

It had previously been indicated that Governor Wright would not make an appointment, but this marks the first time he has publicly stated his position on the matter.

The Route of the Rockets, after ten years of "Planned Progress," has 22 streamlined trains!
While American business was still staggering under the impact of the Great Depression, when other roads were cautiously ordering one or two of the new streamliners, the Rock Island ordered six, which went in service just ten years ago.
The Rockets were followed by Rocket Freights—by drastic improvements in right-of-way—elimination of curves—reduction of grades—great new bridges—centralized traffic control—short wave radio linking dispatchers, engineers and conductors—new testing laboratories—new car shops—automatic car washing—improved roadbed.
In short, the Rock Island in 1947, with twenty-two Diesel-electric streamliners, is essentially a new railroad notwithstanding its ninety-five years of historic service.

Terminal Pay Bonds Can Be Cashed in Week

By The Associated Press

The Government starts cashing terminal pay bonds one week from yesterday.

Some 8,900,000 bonds worth about $1,800,000 already have been issued and five million-odd more veterans still are eligible to apply. They have one year and one week to do so.

Estimates of the number who will turn their bonds into immediate cash range upward from 50 per cent.

In passing the original Terminal Pay Act last year Congress decreed that the bonds could not be cashed until five years after date of discharge. In the closing weeks of the last session, however, the lawmakers relented and set September 1 as the date.

The Army Times estimated on the basis of a recent survey that fewer than 1 per cent will "squander" their bond cash for vacation or other nonessential purposes.

It said 25 per cent need the money to pay current debts, 18 per cent for payments on homes, 17 per cent for insurance premiums, 15 per cent for medical services, with a wide variety of purposes accounting for the remainder. The bonds carry 2½ per cent interest.

The Treasury, which has taken over the chore of cashing the bonds, said they may be redeemed at any institution authorized to cash war bonds. These include banks, savings and loan companies, building and loan companies and credit unions.

Acting Chief

C. H. Ward Sworn in U. S. Marshal Post

Charles H. Ward, jr., 41, yesterday was sworn in as acting chief deputy Unted States Marshal for the District replacing C. Michael Kearney, chief deputy who died last week.

Ward

Ward will take office as acting chief deputy in about 10 days, according to Chief Marshal W. Bruce Matthews before whom Ward took the oath.

The new acting chief deputy was born in Georgetown, son of Alice Ward and the late Charles H. Ward. He graduated from Gonzaga High School and attended George Washington University and Georgetown University Law School.

He entered the United States marshal's office May 1, 1934, and for five years was in charge of transportation and guarding prisoners. He was in charge of its warrant squad for three years. For the last five years he had been assistant to the chief deputy. He lives with his wife at 4611 Harlan lane, Bethesda, Md.

Sen. Downey Sympathetic to DP Admission

By The Associated Press

Senator Downey (D., Calif.) said yesterday the United States faced a "serious menace of race suicide."

Hence, the California lawmaker told a reporter, he is "very sympathetic" to President Truman's proposal to admit some 400,000 of Europe's displaced persons.

Senator Revercomb (R., W. Va.) declared in a separate interview, however, that efforts are under way to "break down" this country's immigration barriers and "this must not happen."

Revercomb is chairman of a special Senate committee which plans to investigate Mr. Truman's proposal and other immigration problems. He said his group would have specific recommendations ready for Congress after "we get all the facts" by means of public hearings and a visit to the occupied countries of Europe.

Three Safeguards Urged

In advance of his committee's report, Revercomb said he believes at least three safeguards should be written into any plan to admit additional immigrants:

1. They must not displace United States citizens in either jobs or housing.
2. They must go to locations where they are needed and "not just be dumped into our large cities."
3. All must be carefully screened "to see that they can fit into our scheme of government."

Communism a Factor

"There also is a political side to this. We are fighting communism as hard as we can outside the United States. We definitely want to stop any spread of it in America by admiting followers or sympathizers."

Downey said he agrees that immigrants should be barred if they show a "revolutionary tendency or want to overthrow our Government."

But, he added, good immigrants "will overcome our long-time trend toward a declining birth rate, which in two decades may reach a standstill."

$1000 Bail Frees Man in Shooting

Richard Herns, 18, Herndon, Va., was released by Fairfax County police under $1000 bond yesterday after being charged with felonious shooting of a Washington man Sunday.

Herns is accused of shooting Frederick Lucas, 40, of 1406 Belmont st. nw., after he allegedly attacked Robert Herns with a pocket knife at the latter's home in Herndon during a family argument.

16% of Russian Males Imprisoned, Dallin Says

New Haven, Conn., Aug. 25 (U.P.). Some 16 per cent of all adult Soviet males are now held captive in prisons and forced labor camps throughout Russia, Russian Exile David J. Dallin charged today.

Dallin estimated the "population" of the labor camps and prisons at between 8 and 12 million—of whom "all authorities agree 80 to 90 per cent" are males.

Pullman Asks Sleeping Car Rates Boost

By The Associated Press

The Pullman Co. yesterday asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to approve increased charges for sleeping car services throughout the country.

The company proposed a sliding scale of increases ranging from 1 per cent to 48.9 per cent, with short haul services taking the largest boosts. Pullman estimated the changes would yield an additional 13 million dollars annual revenue, and said they were required because of increased operating costs and declining travel.

The company proposed a flat minimum charge of $3.50 for a lower berth, which would wipe out present minimum standard lower berth rates of $2.35, $2.65 and $2.95, applied to short overnight trips in various parts of the country.

Thus, the present lower berth minimum of $2.35 would take the maximum 48.9 per cent increase. Progressively smaller increases would then be applied to other lower berth charges up to $17.35, on which the increase would be 1 per cent. Above that figure, no increase would be made.

Upper berth, room accommodations and tourist berth-rates would be increased by proportionate percentages.

Eastern railroads recently received authority to increase basic passenger fares in both Pullman cars and day coaches. A petition for similar increases by some Southern carriers is now pending before the commisison.

De Gaulle to Have His Candidates In October Voting

Paris, Aug. 25.—General Charles de Gaulle announced today that his personally organized Rally of the French People (RPF) would run candidates wherever possible in the October municipal elections.

The RPF "is not a party," the general said, but he specified that the Rally candidates, while they could belong to any party whatsoever, would have "to commit themselves to follow us."

Bums Beat Out Bucs, 11-10; 5th in Row

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

LARRY MacPHAIL and Baseball Commissioner Chandler are headed for another showdown, according to the Sporting News. Chandler wants to sell the television rights of the World Series, and MacPhail doesn't. It's a bout that Chandler should win.

POVICH

MacPhail is assuming, like everybody else who can read the standing of the clubs in the American League, that his Yankees will be in the World Series, and as boss of the Yankees he wants a voice in the sale of the television rights. And thus far his attitude is "no sale."

He is not the man to turn down an honest dollar, and he says he can get $100,000 for the television rights to the World Series, but MacPhail is now afflicted with a sudden outburst of pride. He wants a World Series sell-out at Yankee Stadium, something that has never happened before, and he fears that television will keep a capacity crowd away.

MacPhail stands against the National League, which is also a party to the series, and most of the other club presidents in the American League who have notified Chandler that they are in favor of televising the series. It's now Chandler's move.

UNDER THE BASEBALL RULES, administration of the World Series is Chandler's exclusive province. He alone can accept or reject a television contract. A World Series game can't start until the umpires get the nod from the commissioner. His authority is so broad that he can call a series game at the end of any inning and make it official. In Chicago one year, a ball game was held up nearly an hour because the late Judge Landis was caught in a traffic jam and wasn't at the park. No one else could give the go-ahead signal.

Chandler would like to sell the television rights to fatten the kitty of the commissioner's office, which has been somewhat stripped by the loss of revenue from the radio rights, which now goes into a fund that helps to pay for the players' pension plan. The commissioner's office, with squads of secret agents tailing the players and watching the gambling elements, is under new and heavy expense.

MacPhail's objections probably won't deter Chandler from selling the television rights. It's a new challenge to Chandler, anyway. His last showdown battle with MacPhail fizzled when no announcement of the outcome was made after the commissioner called the Yankees' president on the royal carpet at Cincinnati last May. The suspicion is that MacPhail won that one.

IF THE TELEVISION RIGHTS are sold, the next group Chandler will probably hear from is the players' committee, headed by Johnny Murphy of the Red Sox and Dixie Walker of the Dodgers. The players signed over their claim to the radio rights when the owners promised to divert that money toward the pension fund, but this television business is something new.

It costs a major league owner approximately $12,000 a year now to pay his share into the players' pension fund. He matches the contributions of the players, which range from $250 to $450 yearly, the last figure being the amount paid in by the 10-year men in the league. There may be tugging-and-hauling between the players and the club owners over the television revenue, with the owners wanting it to lighten the load of their pension fund obligations.

MacPhail visualizes the television sets in bars, taverns and homes as a threat to the sell-outs he cherishes. Particularly on the days when there might be bad weather, does he envision empty seats in the stands. His pride in the Yankees' ability to sell out the park this year is honest enough. MacPhail is a proud man. And he knows that baseball may never have as lush a season.

IT'S NO GREAT FINANCIAL sacrifice MacPhail would be making by rejecting the $100,000 from the television privileges. The money wouldn't accrue to the Yankees anyway, but would probably go toward payment of player pensions. He'd like to be the first president of a Yankee ball club to preside over a sell-out scene for a World Series.

The players wouldn't be long making demands, however, if Chandler upped and sold the television rights. The players' shares of World Series have not fattened at the same pace that salaries have, and are lagging far behind the swollen gate receipts the owners have been dragging in the past few years.

Players who didn't get into the World Series last year made more money than players who did. Bob Feller and his barnstorming troupe were paid off with bigger checks than many members of the Cardinals and Red Sox, who drew series shares of $3700 and $2100. They'll howl for some of the dough from the television rights, and they'll have a pretty good case.

Nats Lose 1-to-0 Duel To Browns

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 25.—The Browns defeated the Nats, 1-0, tonight as the Nats ended their final visit to Sportsman's Park for the 1947 season by losing the three-game series, two games to one.

The cellar-dwelling Brownies got their lone run off Righthander Ray Scarborough in the second inning, former Nat Billy Hitchcock singling another former-another Nat, Jeff Heath home from second. Heath had walked and advanced on an infield out.

Only 1218 people were in the stands for the game.

Browns Score in Second

The Nats were not only hitless after three innings, but they were also runless, trailing the Browns by one in this rather important department.

The first of the two Brownie hits off Ray Scarborough brought them a run. It came in the second when Jeff Heath walked and moved to second as Yost threw out Shortstop Stephens. Judnich popped up, but Billy Hitchcock singled to center, scoring Heath from second.

The Nat offense for the first three innings against Left-hander Sam Zoldak amounted to a walk to lead-off man Johnny Sullivan in the first and the same to Jerry Priddy in the second.

Priddy Gets First Hit

Priddy messed up Zoldak5s no-hitter with a lead-off double to center in the fifth, but could only get as far as third. Yost grounded out with no advance, Mancuso flied to deep center, Priddy taking third, but Scarborough ended the round with another fly to Lehner in center.

The Nats got their fourth man on base in the sixth when Buddy Lewis walked with one down, but a Stephens to Judnich double play erased Vernon and McBride.

Scarborough, meanwhile, held the Browns runless, yileding one more hit, a double to Judnich in the fourth of which nothing came. Stan Spence got the second Nat hit, a single off the screen to right, t oopen the seventh, but was rubbed out easily as he trotted down to second base trying to steal. Priddy wound up things that inning with a foul pop to Catcher Less Moss.

Marx Beaten At Johnstown

Johnstown, Pa., Aug. 25 (AP).—St. Aloysius High School from New Orleans, La., lambasted Marx Jewelry of Washington, D. C., 10-5, tonight to remain the sole undefeated team in the All-American junior amateur baseball tournament.

The Saints got all their 10 runs in one big inning—the sixth—on one hit, four errors and seven walks. The hit was a single by Shortstop Al Lichtenstein, which brought in one run. Houston Jones of Washington issued three of the walks and Bill Witzel, who succeeded him, gave up four.

Other important games were won by the Concord, N. H., Juniors and the Philadelphia Crusaders.

You're Right! We Don't Believe It

Defiance Ohio, Aug. 25 (AP).—You won't believe this one: Johnny and Louie Buchkols of Defiance are identical twins.

The only way fans of the city softball league can tell them apart when they play for a restaurant team is for Johnny to leave his head bare, Louie to wear a cap.

The league statistician today disclosed the twins wound up in fourth place in batting, each with .365 averages. Each was at bat 78 times, scored 27 runs each and rounded out 30 hits apiece.

Giants Hit 2 More Homers, Cubs Win, 9-7

New York, Aug. 25 (AP).—Billy Jurges hit his first homer of the year in the tenth inning off Reliefer Hooks Iott today to givve the Chicago Cubs a 9-7 vvictory over the New York Giants.

Besides Jurges' two-run payoff blow the Cubs smacked out three other homers to outmaster the Giants in their own specialty. Bob Scheffing, Andy Pafko and Phil Cavarretta socked the others.

The Giants, aiming for the New York Yankees' major league homer record of 182, collected Nos. 174 and 175 with Willard Marshall (31) and Bobby Thomson (24) doing the honors.

Claude Passeau, third Cub pitcher, was the winner, and Iott the loser.

Rinty Monaghan And Marino Meet for Title

London, Aug. 25 (AP).—Jack Solomons, London promoter, said today that Dado Marino of Honolulu, and Rinty Monaghan of Ireland, had been signed to fight for the vacant world flyweight boxing championship here on October 20.

Marino and his Irish rival were named as logical contenders for the title when Jackie Paterson of Scotland collapsed shortly before the weigh-in for his title bout with the Hawaiian on July 16.

Paterson was then relieved of the title by the British board in control of boxing and the commission designated the two as logical contenders.

When Paterson was unable to enter the ring last month, Monaghan took on Marino in a substitute, over-the-weight bout. The Hawaiian was far ahead on points when the referee disqualified the Irishman in the tenth round for holding.

Admiral Says 'We're Better Than They Are'

NEW YORK, Aug. 25 (AP).—The All-America Football Conference formally challenged the National Football League to a championship game with the entire proceeds going either to the winner or to charity.

Admiral Jonas H. Ingram, All-America commissioner, sent a telegram to Bert Bell, his opposite number in the older, rival league, and told newspapermen he believed the post-season game could net $250,000.

"We feel we have four teams better than anything they've got," said Ingram. He named Cleveland, the New York Yankees, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Cleveland won the conference championship in 1946. The first year the new professional league operated. The Chicago Bears won the NFL championship, last year.

"LAST Thursday at a meeting in Chicago of the owners of All-American Football Conference clubs, I was authorized to issue the following challenge through the commissioner of the National League to its owners.

"The 1947 championship team of the All-America Conference challenges the 1947 championship team of the National League to a game to determine the world's championship of major league football. The game to be played on the following basis:

"The entire net proceeds to be contributed to an outstanding national charity or outstanding national cause in the interest of the American people; or the entire net proceeds to go to the winner to be distributed as said winning ball club may decide.

"'should the All-America Conference win the game they have decided to contribute the entire net proceeds to an outstanding national charity or cause, the time, place and other minor details of the game to be mutually agreed upon.'"

THE National Football League up to now has failed to recognize existence of its young rival, but Ingram and his predecessor, "Sleepy Jim" Crowley, both have contended that a working agreement between the two leagues was inevitable.

"Every where I go people ask me: 'We've got world champions in all other sports, why not in professional football,'" said the admiral.

Bell Turns Deaf Ear to Proposal

Philadelphia, Aug. 25 (AP).—"Not interested, don't play post season games," said Bert Bell, commissioner of the National Football League today in commenting on the formal challenge issued by the rival All-America Conference for a championship game.

Prodded to elaborate on his statement, Bell coolly repeated his words emphasizing that he had no more to say.

Indians Beat Bosox, 10-8, On 3 Walks

Cleveland, Aug. 25 (AP).—The Cleveland Indians battled from behind three times today and finally edged the Boston Red Sox, 10 to 8, when two Sox hurlers lost their control with the bases loaded in the eighth inning and walked three runners across the plate.

Southpaw Edgar Smith, fifth of six Boston pitchers, walked Joe Gordon to force Manager Lou Boudreau in from third with the tying run and then gave up the winning tally by issuing a pass to Jim Hegan that forced Les Fleming across.

Another southpaw, Earl Johnson, relieved Smith and promptly walked Ed Klieman for a third gift run.

Jake Jones put Boston ahead, 8 to 7, when he belted his 14th round tripper of the season with two aboard in the seventh but Smith weakened in the eighth. Boudreau opened the inning with a double, Fleming walked and Keltner singled sharply to load the sacks and provide the setting for the series of walks.

Klieman, who relieved Bob Lemon in the eighth, recevied credit firt the win, while Smith was charged with the loss.

Fire Burns Club During Match

Inglewood, Calif., Aug. 25 (AP).—A fire at Inglewood Country Club was hotter than the golf displayed in an exhibition yesterday by Bobby Locke, the South African winner of seven out of 12 American tournaments.

Locke, who shot a 72, and his partner, Earl Martin, Inglewood pro, wound up a best-ball match all even with Olin Dutra and George Fazio, Los Angeles pros.

A fire of undetermined origin wreeked the Inglewood clubhouse locker rooms, grill and kitchen and burned through the roof. The blaze, however, didn't interfere with the Sunday golfers or with the exhibition.

Cards Keep Pace, Trim Braves, 5-2

Brooklyn, Aug. 25 (AP).—Brooklyn's injury-riddled Dodgers had their subs come through in fine style again today and the league leaders whipped the Pittsburgh Pirates, 11-10 on the strength of a seven-run second inning for their fifth straight victory.

The win retained the Brooks' margin of six games over the St. Louis Cards, who defeated the Braves, 5-2, in a night game in Boston.

Filling in for the injured keystone combination of Ed Stanky and Pee Wee Reese, Eddie Miksis and Stan Rojek batted in six runs between them with the latter scoring three with a base-clearing triple in the big second.

Higbe Chased

The first four markers in the second came off former Dodger Kirby Higbe who left the game with two on base. Pete Reiser promptly greeted Rip Sewell with his fourth four-bagger of the year.

Pittsburgh wasn't fazed, however, and the Pirates clubbed Clyde King for four homers to pull within three runs of the Dodgers in the seventh, 11-8.

Sewell and Billy Cox clouted two run homers in the third and sixth, respectively; and when Rip Russell and Ralph Kiner made three runs on their four-masters (Kiner's thirty-eighth) in the seventh, Fireman Hugh Casey relieved King.

The portly reliefer put down that uprising but almost blew the game in the ninth when the Pirates came within one run of a tie and had the equalizing runner on third with only one out.

Casey in Hot Water

Pinch-hitter Billy Salkeld struck out to start the ninth and the 20,166 fans eased towards the exits. But then Culley Rikard singled, Russell doubled for his fourth safety of the game to score Rikard and Frankie Gustine tripled to bring in Russell.

Boston, Aug. 25 (AP).—Curveballing George (Red) Munger limited the Boston Braves to five hits while pitching the St. Louis Cardinals to a 5-2 win tonight before a capacity 33,129 crowd.

Stan Musial's seventeenth homer, with Erv Dusak aboard, gave the Redbirds their first two tallies against Lefty Warren Spahn in the initial frame.

Camp Lee Wins In Wichita Play

Wichita, Kans., Aug. 25 (AP).—Camp Lee's Travellers were still in the running for the National semi-pro baseball title today, thanks to a close 7-6 victory over Kenosha, Wis.

The Travellers got seven-hit flinging from Johnson, who racked up his second victory of the tournament. However, it took a late-inning rally to turn the trick.

Trailing, 6-3, going into the eighth, Camp Lee tied it and went ahead for keeps with a single marker in the ninth when Wright doubled after Besley walked.

Pieretti Out For Season

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 25.—The 1947 season ended today for Pitcher Marino Pieretti of the Nats when he learned that he has a chipped elbow bone in his throwing arm.

Dr. Robert Hyland, St. Louis bone specialist, advised an immediate operation for Pieretti. The pitcher today was undecided whether to undergo the operation in St. Louis or return to the East for surgery at Johns Hopkins Hospital.

Meanwhile, Dr. Hyland dispelled fears of Pitcher Early Wynn that he was suffering from a chipped elbow bone. Wynn's trouble was diagnosed as a routine sore arm, and affliction that also has assailed Pitchers Tom Ferrick and Walter Masterson of the Nats and leaves Manager Ossie Bluege shorthanded in the pitching department.

Aaron Perry Gets Decision Over Cumming

As a prelude to Rock Graziano's first appearance in Washington since winning the world middleweight championship, Aaron Perry last night regained a little face in the eyes of local fight fans with an -eight-round decision over Philadelphia's Bobby Cummings at Griffith Stadium.

Graziano was scheduled to do four rounds, as an exhibition, against his sparring partner, Heavyweight Cliff Keorkle.

Perry did his share to entertain the 3600 spectators. From the first he was trying to line Cummings up for the kill but the Philadelphian had other ideas.

Cummings, as a matter of fact, stood toe to toe with the kinky-headed D. C. belter. He didn't give as much as he took but he was definitely in there and unafraid. Perry took all of the first five rounds easily but in the sixth Cummings got in his share.

From his wide open attack, Cummings landed several looping rights that reddened Perry's face and rocked him momentarily. He seemed to love the rough going and managed a frequent smile in the face of the dead serious Perry.

At the end both fighters were dog tired but still very willing.

In a five-rounder Jerry Mekler, 129, took the decision over Billy Untz, 131. Al Wright, light-heavyweight, scored a technical knockout over Kid Wolfe in the fifth round of a scheduled eight-rounder.

Maryland Pitcher Signed by Dodgers

He Wins Golf Title By 43 Stroke Margin

Bismarck, N. Dak., Aug. 25.—A silver cup, emblematic of the golf championship of the Fifth District of the North Dakota Veterans of Foreign Wars, today rested in the trophy case of Kenneth Wright—sports editor of the Bismarck Tribune, athletic officer for the VFW's Fifth District, and manager of the district's golf tournament here yesterday.

Wright toured nine holes in a score he declined to post but which he described as "roughly 43" and took the trophy home.

Boswell Lady Prairie Victor

Chicago, Aug. 25 (AP).—Norman W. Church's Boswell Lady won the $25,000 Prairie Stakes at Washington Park today after the Calumet Farm's unbeaten Bewitch and stablemate, Citation, were withdrawn following a downpour of rain.

The scratch from the rich stake race meant that Bewitch, unbeaten in eight starts, lost today's chance to become the ladinge 2-year-old money winner in history.

Free America of Calumet Farm placed second, and William Helis' Salmagundi third. Boswell Lady paid $12 to win and $2.60 to place. Free America paid $2.20. There was no show money paid in the five-horse race.

Bewitch's current earnings of $206,875 would have passed the $219,000 record established by Top Flight in 1931 if Bewitch had won today's race.

A downpour fell about 2:30 p. m., making a sloppy track, and a short time later Trainer Jimmy Jones announced withdrawal of Bewitch and Citation.

Lou Jac and Hilda were the also rans in the 6-furlong stake for 2-year-olds. Boswell Lady's time was 1:11 2/5.

Cobb's Motor Fails in Test

Bonneville Salt Flats, Utah, Aug. 25 (AP).—John Cobb of London sent his Railton Mobil Special speedster roaring over this saline course in another test today but the acceleration bug that cropped up last week appeared again, probably further delaying his assault on the land speed record.

One of the car's two 1300 horsepower motors sputtered at the takeoff and backfired considerably throughout the run. Despite the motor trouble, Cobb attained a speed of 226 miles per hour through the measured mile, the record for which is 368.9 established here by Cobb in 1939.

Eastern Shore Series Scheduled for Sept. 9

Cambridge, Md., Aug. 25 (AP).—Representatives of six teams in the Eastern Shore Baseball League met here today and decided to begin the postseason playoff September 9.

Cambridge, which clinched the pennant yesterday by defeating Dover, Del., 1-0, meets the third-place club and the second and fourth-place teams meet in the other series. Opening games will be in the first and second cities. The playoffs will be for the best four out of seven games.

3 'Skin Rookies Get Rough Test

Mont's Direction, Gray's Speed Noted

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 25.—Coach Turk Edwards initiated his three late arrivals—Joe Tereshinski, Bill Gray and Tommy Mont—into major league football today with a stiff scrimmage.

While the Redskins coaching staff didn't say so, the nature of the workout indicated that they didn't want these three members of the All-Star team that beat the Chicago Bears, 16-0, to get the idea there was anything easy about the National Football League competition.

That idea seems to have gotten around on the basis of what happened Friday night at Chicago, but Turk and his staff, all graduates of the school or hard knocks that is the National League, know better.

The 'Skins are counting strongly on this trio when they meet the Los Angeles Rams at the Coliseum here on September 5.

Tereshinski, former Georgia end, and a Rose Bowl veteran, played most of the All-Star game and was considered one of the two best ends on the field.

All Eligible For Big Race October 31

Baltimore, Aug. 25 (AP).—The horse race of the century, a meeting among the three top-money winners of all time—Stymie, Assault and Armed—today appeared a strong possibility for the Pimlico Special, October 31.

The Maryland Jockey Club announced a list of 15 stakes for the 13-day Pimlico fall meeting, beginning October 30, and immediate attention was focused on the $25,000 winner-take-all special in view of the fact that the $100,000 match race between Assault and Armed scheduled for Chicago, Saturday, has been canceled.

King Ranch's Assault, victor in the 1946 special, pulled up lame after a workout at Washington Park yesterday, and forced officials there to call off the "dream race." Trainer Max Hirsch said Assault, who never has been beaten at Pimlico, may not be in shape for a month.

Armed Expected

Henry A. Parr 3d, Pimlico president, said he had talked with Ben Jones, trainer of Calumet Farm, and that barring unforeseen developments Armed would be here for the mile and three sixteenths special. Armed won it in 1945.

"Naturally, we would be delighted to have the rivalry settled in the special," Parr said when advised that the Assault-Armed showdown in Chicago had fallen through.

Under conditions of the special, victors in certain major races at American tracks are automatically eligible, and already 15 horses have earned a spot in the starting lineup if their owners so desire. One of these, however, Yankee Valor, died since becoming eligible.

Stymie Also Due

Among the eligibles is Stymie, the world's leading money winner. Hirsch Jacobs, trainer of the former $1500 plater, told a Jockey Club official yesterday that Stymie would not be retired this year, but would be pointed for the special.

Stymie's luck has never stayed with him in the Pilmlico fall classic. Two years ago he finished third behind Armed, while last fall he was second to Assault.

Assault and Stymie are the only ones of the three that have met this year, and in this event—the $100,000 Gold Cup—Stymie came out on top to hand the King Ranch star his only 1947 defeat.

Others eligible include Coverup, the Hollywood Gold Cup winner; Olhaverry, the Santa Anita Handicap victor, and Rico Monte for wins in the Wihtney and Saratoga handicaps, among the older horses.

Other Stakes Listed

Three-year-old eligibles include Phalanx, Fervent, But Why Not, Jet Pilot, Faultless, On Trust, Young Peter and I Will.

Distance racing will feature the 13-day stake program, climaxed by the 2½-mile Pimlico Cup on closing day, November 13. The Futurity, Walden and Marguerite, all at a mile and a sixteenth, and the Sagamore, 6 furlongs, will give the 2-year-olds a chance to compete for sizable sums as they end their Eastern season.

Boys' Club Swim

Eastern Branch, Boys Club of Washington, will stage a pentathalon swimming meet at the club pool at 3 p. m. today.

Polynesian Sets Record At Camden

Garden State Park, Camden, N. J., Aug. 25 (AP).—Elmendorf Farm's mighty sprinter Polynesian, co-holder of the world's record for six furlongs at 1.09 1/5, today cracked the track standard at that distance in an easy five-lengths victory in the sixth running of the $10,000 Camden Handicap.

The consistent son of Unbreakable and Black Polly, under high weight of 129 pounds, conceded from six to twenty pounds in posting a time of 1:09 4/5, a fifth better than the old mark.

18,336 See Race

The 18,336 fans installed Polynesian a favorite 2 to 5. He returned a $2.80 mutuel in turning back Air Patrol, of Art Rooney's Shamrock Stable.

The later was a half-length better than Pentagon Stable's The Doge, winner of last year's Camden.

Wins in Stretch

Polynesian forsook his usual front-running as Jockey Willie Balzaretti rated him off the fast pace and set by Nowadays in the first quarter with The Doge pressing the pacemaker.

Polynesian was fifth at the half-mile pole when Balzaretti began moving between horses to go into second at head of the stretch.

The Doge faded as Polynesian took the lead and spreadeagled the field through the stretch. Air Patrol made up some ground through the homelane but could not get close to the Elmendorf colorbearer who was being eased up at the wire.

$1,515,744 Handle

Cain Hoy Stables Bellwether, with a poor New York record, showed marked improvement when he beat six routers, going one mile and a sixteenth in the seventh event. With Joe Sneller up, Bellwether was never headed.

He was ridden out throught the last sixteenth of a mile and beat Zax, the favorite, three lengths. Zax was two lengths ahead of Tacaro Briar. Bellwether, neglected in the betting, paid $41.60. He was timed in 1:44 3/5.

Dodgers May Use Negro Hurler Today

Brooklyn, Aug. 25 (AP).—Dan Bankhead, late of the Memphis Red Sox of the Negro American League and first pitcher of his race to crash the majors, probably will make his National League debut with the Brooklyn Dodgers either tomorrow or Wednesday.

In making the announcement, Manager Burt Shotton said: "We're in a tight fix for pitchers. If Bankhead is to help us, the best time to find out is right now.

"I don't know for sure whether I'll start him tomorrow or not," Shotton added. "I had intended to start Hank Behrman, but he was in the bullpen all afternoon today. I may still start Behrman and have Bankhead in the bullpen. If Dan is not needed tomorrow, I probably will pitch him against the Chicago Cubs Wednesday."

The 26-year-old Birmingham, Ala., native who had 3½ years pitching experience in the United States Marine Corps before joining the Memphis Club two years ago, was officially added to the Brooklyn roster this afternoon, following his purchase from the Negro Red Sox for an unannounced sum yesterday.

To make room for Bankhead, George Dockins, a little-used lefthander, was released on option to Fort Worth of the Texas League. Dockins' release was necessary in order to keep within the 25-player limit.

"There is no doubt in my mind that Bankhead will be a great pitcher some day," Rickey said. "he possesses everything a good pitcher ought to have. He is as fast as any pitcher in the National League, has a good curve ball and knows how to pitch.

"Physically, he has nothing to fear. The emotional stress and strain is the only thing that might worry him."

Rickey revealed that in purchasing Bankhead, he was departing from policy.

"I'd rather have handled it in the same manner I handled Robinson," Rickey said. "I don't think this is the best way, but I can't help myself. This is a situation where I'm grasping at a straw. We need pitchers and need them badly. It isn't fair to the kid to bring him up here so fast. I believe that a year in the minors would do him a world of good. But as I said, this is an emergency. I think Dan is up to it."

Concord, Phila., Win in Amateur

Johnstown, Pa., Aug. 25 (AP).—The Concord (N. H.) Juniors and the Philadelphia Crusaders won important games today in their quest for the championship of the All-American Junior amateur baseball tournament, due to be decided Wednesday.

Concord eliminated the Amsterdam (N. Y.) Municipal Athletic Club, 12-9, on a six-run rally in the sixth. Tom Hardiman, Concord first baseman, slammed the first homer of the tourney—a drive that sailed 350 feet over the fence.

The Philadelphia Crusaders won handily, eliminating the Pittsfield (Mass.) Brass Rails, 8-1.

Brewers Now Go to Harrisburg

By Roger Wolbarst
Post Reporter

Heurich's Brewers won the City championship yesterday, defeating the Fire Department, 6-4, in 10 innings on the South Ellipse.

The victory, gained before a record crowd of 5000 fans, earned the Brewers the right to play in the All-America Amateur Baseball tournament at Harrisburg, Pa., September 3-8.

It was Heurich's fourth straight City series triumph without a defeat and the Fire Department's second loss in five games.

Crouthamel Wins

Harry Crouthamel, third Heurich pitcher, held the Firemen to one hit in his 3 2/3 innings on the mound to gain credit for the victory.

Neither team was able to score in the ninth, and Heurich finally got to courageous Ernie Boggs, who hurled the entire game for the Firemen despite a painfully sore arm.

Knocky Thomas then singled to score Castro for the sixth Heurich tally and Crouthamel set the Fire Department down in order in the last of the tenth.

Three Unearned Runs

Until the Brewers ganged up on Boggs for the winning runs, the veteran righthander had pitched a fine game. The first three Heurich runs were unearned.

The Brewers collected a run in the first on a walk and two errors. They added two more tainted runs in the fourth.

Coe started the trouble with a single. After Frank Brewer struck out, Knecky Thomas hit an easy grounder to Barney Wallenstein at second. Wallenstein picked up the ball, and when Coe stopped half way to second, Wallenstein threw to first trying to get the batter.

His throw was late and First Baseman Bill Moore's return throw to second attempting to nip Coe went into center field. This put runners on second and third, Boggs struck out Frank Mahon for the second out, but then wild pitched Coe across the plate. Red Giegerich's single scored Thomas and Heurich led 3-0.

Jim Fitzgerald Wins Sherwood Golf Title

Sherwood Forest, Md., Aug. 25.—Jim Fitzgerald, Georgetown University medical student, won the Sheroow Forest Golf Tournament by defeating Ed Litzau, of Baltimore, 2 and 1. Fitzgerald was defending the title he won last year.

It Was a Hot, Hot Day...

GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY'S first motions toward its 1947 football season were made yesterday under the broiling sun on the Hilltop field and calesthenics filled much of the time. That bulky gent at the right is Jim O'Keefe, former Gonzaga High tackle, who has already melted off 26 pounds this summer and is working to take off a few more of his 240 pounds

Hoyas Field 'Deceptive' Squad Of 38 for Initial Workout

By Bill Burnett
Post Reporter

If deceiving the opposition is Georgetown University's football aim for 1947, yesterday's firsa practice was a screaming success.

Only 38 players showed up for a workout in the Hilltop heat. Comparent to the squads of 60-odd candidates for Hoya teams in the past, it was a woefully slim-looking turnout.

The catch was that most of the 38 were seasoned performers. And no freshmen were included, as during the war years.

Veteran Coach Jack Hagerty, even at this early date, knows almost exactly what material he'll have for the '47 campaign. Twenty lettermen are on his squad and many of the others have played with G. U., but not enough to earn a letter.

* * * *

AT THIS POINT Hagerty thinks center will be his weak spot. When Vic Bannonis failed to return to school, Hagerty was left with only Ralph Benso and Bob Kelly. Benso recently hurt his knee and is a doubtful quantity and thus Hagerty plans a switch to the pivot post for two linemen—Jim Nalls and Jim Ricca.

Oddly enough, the recent decision of Babe Baranowski, Reds Murphy and Paul Walsh, regular backs of 1946, not to perform with the Hoyas this year worries Hagerty not at all. He's still depending on Len Bonforte, Tom Graham, Jack O'Connor, Connie O'Doherty, Joe Sullivan and Lou Surman. Elmer Raba, triple-threater, whose stardom was cut short by a knee injury last year, is out again and a well-advertised newcomer is Herman Miskowicz, from Chicago.

Facing the Hoyas is one of the toughest schedules ever attempted on the Hilltop, featured by the out-of-town battle with Tulsa on October 18, but Hagerty and aides "Mush" Dubofsky and George Murtaugh, looked pretty optimistic yesterday.

That was only the first day of course.

British List Ryder Leaders

London, Aug. 25 (AP).—Ten British golf professionals, who among them have won 5 of the 12 major tournaments this season and placed second or third in the others, head the list of candidates for Britain's Ryder Cup team which will meet the Americans at Portland, Oreg., November 1 and 2.

They are Henry Cotton, Dai Rees, Dick Burton and Sam King, members of the British team which lost at Southport in 1937 when the international series was last held; Fred Daly, Charles Ward, Jimmy Adams, Reg Hornet, Ken Bousfield and Max Faulkner.

Britain's Ryder Cup committee, which makes the selections, based its nomination of an original list of 14 entirely on this season's medal play tournaments.

Miami, Fla., Aug. 25 (AP).—Outfielder Coleman Powell of the Florida International League St. Petersburg club, was suspended for five days and fined $25 for using profanity in yesterday's game with Tampa.

Worsham First Reading Entrant

Reading, Pa., Aug. 25 (AP).—Lew Worsham, National Open golf champion, is the first entrant for the first annual Reading Open at the Berkshire Country Club, October 2 to 5, Tournament Chairman John S. Giles announced today.

The 29-year-old ex-sailor, from Washington, D. C., who defeated Sammy Snead for the U. S. Open crown in June is pro at the Oakmont Country Club, Pittsburgh.

McLean's Fight To Show Horses Argued in Court

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 25 (AP).—Robert E. Hogan, counsel for Miss Jean McLean, Portsmouth, Va., horsewoman, told Circuit Court Judge Scott Miller today that barring of his client's entries from the 1947 Kentucky State Fair Horse Show would "kill open competition for grand championships in Kentucky."

Thus got under way Miss McLean's court battle to force fair officials to accept her entries, which they rejected several weeks ago.

Attorney John K. Skaggs, jr., representing the fair board and horse show officials, asserted Miss McLean is not a member in good standing of the American Horse Show Association.

Stanky Is Exception

Augie Galan Calls Bums 'Cry Babies . . . Can't Take It'

Philadelphia, Aug. 25 (AP).—The National League-leading Brooklyn Dodgers are "cry-babies," if you listen to little Augie Galan.

Galan said the reason Cincinnati Pitcher Ewell Blackwell is on the sidelines is because of a arm injured on a rough-up play at the plate in Brooklyn.

But when the Reds retaliated with the same kind of treatment in Saturday's game, there was a howl that could be heard all over Manhattan, Galan reported.

"If they can't take it they shouldn't play that way," Augie says. "The Dodgers' Eddie Stanky is an exception. When he's out there at second base he expects a runner to knock him ont of the way to break up a double play. When it's his turn, look out—he's playing for keeps."

Decorators Win

The Takoma Decorators defeated the Atlantic City Jesters, 3-0, yesterday at Atlantic City. The Decorators, District girls softball champs, collected nine hits, while Pitcher Jean Wood limited Atlantic City to two safeties and struck out 12.

First of Three-Day Play

Sam Parks, With 76, Leads District Public Links Qualifiers

Sam Parks, veteran bowling alley operator from Bethesda, survived the heat and East Potomac's lightning-like greens yesterday to score a medal-winning 76 as the D. C. Public Links Golf tournament opened three days of play.

Leading a field of 131 hopefuls, Parks took the medal by one stroke over three players—A. L. Coulson, Gil Willett and Bill Sayers. He achieved his score with 11 pars and two birdies, figuring in nine of 37 and 39 over the par-72 course.

Automatically qualified for the championship flight were former champions Andy Oliveri and Earl Marcey. Oliveri played a practice nine in two under par while Marcey was traveling back from a vacation in California to defend his title.

Players were divided into seven flights, the first match going off this morning at 8 a. m. Play will continue through tomorrow with finals scheduled for tomorrow afternoon.

Results and starting times:

Old Amazon Rail Builders To Swap Tales at Reunoin

The Washington Post

TO ATTEND REUNION—John H. Armitage of Presidential Gardens, Alexandria, is one of about 50 survivors of the 10,000 men who built the Madeira-Mamora Railway deep in the jungle of Brazil between 1907 and 1913. Above at left is Armitage in his working clothes in 1910. The group of 50 will hold a reunion September 5 in New York

Every few years at about this season, a dwindling group of men old enough to have helped build a railroad in the Amazon jungles between 1907 and 1913 get together and reminisce about the "green hell" of Motto Grosso.

On September 5 this year, about 50 survivors of the 10,000 men who worked on the 200-mile Madeira-Mamore Railway, nearly 2000 miles from the mouth of the Amazon, will get together at the Hotel McAlpin in New York.

John H. Armitage, assistant secretary of the jungle veterans' group, who lives at Presidential Gardens, Alexandria, Va., is now trying to round up the Washington area survivors for the reunion.

He's promising his erstwhile companions of the reptile-infested Matto Grosso a menu that will include papagayo (parrot), macaco (monkey), tamandua (turtle) piranha (a man-eating river fish), inguana lizard legs, and other routine dishes of jungle fare which, he admits, will tax the poise of even the sophisticated New York hotel chef.

Armitage, who traveled for six weeks to get to his chief clerk job onthe railroad project in 1910, when he was 19 years old, declares that 7000 of the 10,000 who helped build the railroad died there.

William M. McDermott, of 2 W. Blackthorn st., Chevy Chase, Md., another survivor who hopes to make the New York reunion, said yesterday that malaria drove him home from the jungle adventure, which he hated to leave.

ng dR,qrlHRDLUBFWYP ..LUU

While in the project hospital being treated, he remembered, he learned the patients there were suffering from 39 different diseases.

The history of the railroad project, one of the toughest in the hemisphere, began when Brazil defeated Bolivia in a war during the last century.

One attempt to build such a railway, by a French company, failed in the 1870's, due mostly to disease among the workers. Banking interests headed by Percival Farquhar of New York took over the project and construction was begun by May, Jekyll & Randolph, contractors, of Atlanta, Ga. in 1907. The railroad is running yet.

Among those who sweated on the jungle "Mad Mary" railway are Arthur E. Krum, 5407 N. Capitol st.; Dr. Martin Cooley, 1019 Woodside pkwy., Silver Spring; Allan S. Pitcher, retired Government auditor, formerly of 1811 Lamont st. nw.; F. M. Gibson, export agent, 6413 31st. pl.; Robert P. Waters, War Department, Arlington; John H. Ruff, realtor, Vienna, Va.; Malcolm Matheson, Remington Villa, Va.; and Dr. William Emrich, Hebron, Md.

Pacific Science Stations Planned As Memorials

New York, Aug. 25 (AP).—Archibald Roosevelt, president of Pacific War Memorial, Inc., said today the group planned a public subscription soon to finance installation of scientific research stations on Pacific islands where Americans fought in World War II, as a memorial to those who died.

The group hopes eventually to build up a $15,000,000 endowment fund, Roosevelt said.

U. S. Military Academy Loses Last Horses

West Point, Aug. 25 (U.P.).—For the first time in 150 years the stables of the United States military academy were empty today.

The academy gave way completely to mechanized equipment this afternoon when the War Assets Administration auctioned off the last of its horses, including the five which drew the caisson of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Ex-Inmate Vents Pedestrian Envy In Highway Salvo

Bangor, Me., Aug. 25 (AP).—A former mental hospital inmate who got a job at the institution after his release was back in solitary confinement today after firing at eight automobiles with a rifle and wounding five persons because he didn't have a car "and everybody else seemed to have one."

Arthur Henderson, 38, head porter at the Bangor State Hospital, stood in the middle of a heavily traveled road and sent more than a score of .22 caliber bullets crashing through windshields and windows. Police finally brought him down in a gun duel.

COME SEE AND DRIVE THE FRAZER MANHATTAN
—YOU'LL AGREE IT'S THE GREATEST NEW CAR VALUE!
The luxurious, new Frazer Manhattan was announced only last March. Since then, the tremendous appeal of these big, beautiful, ultra-modern automobiles has built such a demand that production at Willow Run was doubled — then doubled again! But, more and more and more were ordered! Now, the factory is scheduling production at a rate seven times what it was five months ago. And the cars are bought by eager customers as fast as they reach our sales rooms! Already, The Frazer Manhattan — America's newest fine car — has become America's largest selling fine car!
The reason for the phenomenal success of the Frazer Manhattan is simply that the American public appreciates motor car values! You and every other experienced motorist know very well when you are offered a lot for your money. That is why we urge you to come in and inspect America's newest fine car. You may think that "demonstrations" are a thing of the past — but they're not — we want you to drive this car before you buy any automobile at any price! Then you'll agree that it represents an overwhelming value for your new-car dollar. Here, in brief, is what you will find in the Manhattan:
A 100%-Postwar Fine Car—Like the Kaiser and the Frazer, the Frazer Manhattan is a 100%-postwar automobile—built in America's only 100%-postwar motor car plant. You will know better what this means to you in used car value if other manufacturers come out with postwar models next year!
Supreme Beauty and Luxury—that won the gold medal of the Fashion Academy of New York and the Grand Prix D'Honneur at both the Cannes and Monte Carlo Beauty Parades. Literally, no expense has been spared in making the Frazer Manhattan America's finest postwar luxury car. Functional beauty of line; new, two-tone body colors; interiors upholstered in specially dyed, face-finished broadcloth by Botany. Chromium window reveals; both seats more than five feet wide, roominess for six people — and their luggage; floor carpeted over deep padding.
A Ride You Have Never Known—Postwar engineering means a low center of gravity, a new weight distribution, and a horsepower-to-weight ratio that adds up to performance and ride you have never experienced. Overdrive gives you amazing gas mileage at highway speeds. Try the ride!
We are getting our share of the vastly increased production of Frazer Manhattans—and are delivering now!

FBI Report On Police Statistics Completed

Barrett to Send Results of Study To Commissioners; New Figures Ready

An FBI examination of methods used by Metropolitan Police in gathering crime statistics has been completed and Police Superintendent Robert J. Barrett said it would be sent to the District Commissioners soon.

Barrett declined to disclose what recommendations had been made by the FBI to give a more accurate picture of crime conditions here and efficiency of police in combatting criminals.

The examination was undertaken after The Washington Post disclosed that in 11 months only 761 robbery complaints had been recorded officially although more than 1350 actually were received.

Report Due This Week

Barrett said also that his annual report would be sent to the Commissioners this week. The report contains crime statistics of Washington. The figures are used by the FBI in a report of crime conditions throughout the Nation.

Barrett announced the police lineup would beheld at 8:45 a. m. instead of 7 p. m. each day, when the First Precinct is moved to the Municipal Center Building.

It will be done, he said, for increased efficiency. All detectives will be ordered to attend to become acquainted with suspects.

Nothing to Do With Law

Barrett said the change had nothing to do with the 1940 law requiring police to arraign arrested persons before the proper court "immediately and without delay."

"Every effort will be made to get prisoners to court as soon as they are arrested," he said. "We hold prisoners only long enough to complete an investigation."

Construction of First Precinct quarters is to be completed within 10 days, he said. Construction by policemen was stopped on the complaint of the Washington Building Trades Congress. A private construction firm is to finish the job.

Pilot, Crewman Killed as Navy Bomber Crashes

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 25 (AP).—A Navy torpedo bomber crashed at 9:10 a. m. today in Currituck Sound, N. C. 6 miles southeast of the Wright Memorial Bridge, killing its two occupants, the pilot and a crewman.

The victims, whose names were withheld temporarily, were attached to the aircraft carrier Mindoro, but their squadron was based temporarily at the Oceana, Va., naval auxiliary air station.

The plane took off from Oceana with six other aircraft at 8:30 a. m. for a bombing hop, Fifth Naval District headquarters reported. Coast Guard planes and vessels were dispatched to the crash scene.

Civil Service Tests Are Open to Nurses

Civil Service Commission has announced examinations for the positions of general staff nurse and head nurse, at salaries ranging from $2644 to $3397. Applications will be accepted until October 21, 1947.

To qualify for the examination, all competitors must pass a written test and must have completed a three-year course of study in an approved school of nursing. Positions are to be filled throughout the United States, and in the Panama Canal Zone and Alaska. Applications may be obtained at first and second class post offices, from regional Civil Service offices, or from the Civil Service Commission in Washington.

Southern Colleges May Ease Admission Credits

Natural Bridge, Va., Aug. 25 (AP).—It may take fewer credits to gain admission into Southern colleges and secondary schools in the future.

A central reviewing committee of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, meeting here in convention over the weekend, adjourned today after recommending that standards of accreditation be modified because of changing conditions brought on by the war.

National Training School Program Tonigh

The Bureau of Rehabilitation of the Council of Social Agencies will present a program at the National Training School for Boys tonight at 7. On the program will be the O'Dwyer Kiddie Review, a song and dance team from Hollywood, and a number of local entertainers.

$49 Loss Reported

Charles Lombardy, 616 Maryland ave. sw., a gas station attendant at 825 Bladensburg rd. ne., reported to police yesterday evening that between 8 a. m. and 5 p. m. yesterday his leather billfold containing $49 disappeared from his street pants left hanging inside the station.

3 Montgomery Police Resign, Describing Pay as 'Inadequate'

Resignation of three Montgomery County police officers for salary reasons was disclosed yesterday as a drive by the county police association for pay increases was intensified.

Police Chief Charles M. Orme in disclosing the resignations described them as "normal turnover." He said they had not yet been acted upon by the county commissioners.

The three officers, who declared they were quitting because of "inadequate" salaries are Corpl. Woodwine M. Waddell, 33, of the Takoma Park police station; Pvt. Robert Lee Phillips, 41, and Joseph W. Saunders, 25, both of the Bethesda station. Combined service of the men totals 14 years.

Sauter "Impressed"

The disclosure came as a three-man committee of the police association conferred with Chief Orme and Police Commissioner Wesley I. Sauter about higher salaries.

Commissioner Sauter said after the meeting the committee had "presented a very logical and intelligent argument as to police salary needs." He added that he was "very impressed with their spirit of cooperation."

In addition to Chief Orme and Sauter, others who attended the meeting were Joseph B. Nolte, president of the policemen's association who is also captain of the Silver Spring police station; Capt. James S. McCauliffe of Bethesda station; Det. Corp. William Whalen of Bethesda; Pvt. John Higdon of Silver Spring and Pvt. Kenneth Miller of Rockville.

McNayr Opposed

County Supervisor Irving G. McNayr, principal opponent of a police pay increase larger than the 10 per cent cost of living increase granted all county employes this year, reiterated his opposition yesterday. He also pointed to a 2½ per cent reduction in the police salary deduction which goes into the retirement fund. With the county now paying that 2½ per cent, he said, police in effect, have received a 12½ per cent salary increase.

He also cited a $300 dry cleaning and laundry allowance in effect, as well as the complete uniform and equipment allowances which, he said, are not given by nearby police forces.

Present starting salary for a Montgomery police private is $2300. Of 52 applicants slated to take examinations for jobs as policemen on Saturday, only 23 appeared, officials said.

Taxable Realty Here Increases $14,136,429

Taxable real estate in Washington increased $14,136,429 in assessed value during the fiscal year 1947, a report of District Assessor Edward A. Dent revealed yesterday.

The report showed total taxable real estate values of $1,396,017,481 at the end of June. Values included $506,461,468 on land and $889,556,013 on improvements.

The increase does not reflect the 20 per cent increase in assessments on improvements to homes, apartment buildings and business houses ordered last January by the District Board of Assessors to go into effect July 1.

Only 49.1 per cent of the District is taxable area, Dent's report showed. Of the remaining land, 41.9 per cent is controlled by the United States, 3.4 per cent by the District of Columbia, and 5.6 per cent is tax-exempt because it is church property or property of foreign nations.

Total value of land held by the United States was assessed for the year at $711,916,747; that by the District at $91,955,060, and other tax exempt properties at $123,894,091.

The real estate tax on taxable property in the District netted $24,430,539 for the year, at a rate of $1.75 per $100. The tax rate for the present fiscal year has been set at $2 per $100.

As a result of hearings held by the Committee on Special Assessment Appeals, a total of $273,166.98 worth of taxes and special assessments were canceled during the year. At the end of the year, the committee had cases involving taxes and costs estimated at $256,184.48 awaiting final settlement.

Employment Law On Children Cited

Employers hiring children on either a full or part-time basis were cautioned yesterday by the Department of Labor to abide by Federal regulations concerning employment of minors.

Under the Fair Labor Standards Act the minimum age for general employment is 16 years, while 14- and 15-year-olders may be employed only outside school hours, and a maximum of 18 hours during weeks when school is in session and 40 hours during vacation.

The 14- and 15-year-olders may not be employed in occupations declared hazardous for minors 16 and 17 years old. They include: most occupations conected with explosive plants, motor vehicle drivers and helpers, operation of wood-cutting machines and operation of power-driven hoisting apparatus.

City Invites Tourists Here On Labor Day

Washington invites, nay urges, tourists to come here over the Labor Day weekend, promising them accommodaitons at the dial of a telephone.

The invitation was extended yesterday by the Greater National Capital Committee of the Washington Board of Trade. And it is backed up with a telephone number (Republic 2600), the committee's rooming director.

"Ample housing accommodations are available to suit the taste of every traveler," says the invitation to Mr. and Mrs. America. It adds that it is always advisable to make reservations in advance.

A quick check of some of the city's larger hotels shows that, the Statler excepted, rooms are waiting for guests who haven't signed up in advance. The Statler says that besides the usual reason why good hotels are blocked solid it gets 50 per cent of its advance reservations from hotel members of its chain.

The GNCC of the WBT offers the city's main lures to visitors, the places natives generally know less about than their visiting cousins. Such as the United States Capitol, Supreme Court Building, Library of Congress, Folger Shakespeare Library, United States Botanical Gardens.

Or Pennsylvania ave. between the Capitol and the White House; the Federal Building Triangle, made up of the Federal Trade Commission, National Archives, Department of Justice, Bureau of Internal Revenue, Postoffice Department, Interstate Commerce Commission, Department of Labor and Department of Commerce.

27 Applicants For Teacher Jobs Swelter in Tests

Twenty-seven applicants for teaching positions in the white elementary schools sweltered through the first day of a three day examination yesterday with no assurance that even if they passed they would get appointments.

Acting Superintendent of Schools Norman J. Nelson said that the schools now have more than enough applicants to fill any vacancies. He said that he was very pleased with the quality of the candidates and their educational background.

Chief factor in bringing teachers back into the profession is the new salary scale ranging from $2500 to $4000 for a teacher with a bachelor's degree and from $3000 to $4500 for a teacher with a master's degree, school officials believe.

Commissioners To Confer on GSI Permits

District Commissioners will confer Thursday with officials of Government Services, Inc., on the corporation's pending applications for licenses for Government cafeterias.

Last May, the District License Bureau refused to grant licenses to 40 GSI cafeterias because Health Department inspectors objected to loose soundproof ceilings, lack of refrigeration and other structural difficulties.

Since that time, about half of the unlicensed cafeterias have complied with Health Department regulations. Public Buildings Administration officials, whose request for $200,000 for cafeteria repairs was turned down by the House Appropriations Committee, said some improvements in the cafeterias were being made with regular operating funds.

Maj. Gen. U. S. Grant 3d, president of the GSI board, and Capt. Frank W. Hoover, general manager of GSI, are expected to attend Thursday's session.

4 Die in Riots At New Delhi; Sikhs Raging

New Delhi, Aug. 25 (AP).—Four persons were stabbed to death today in the first communal rioting in New Delhi since spring, while Hindu-Sikh and Moslem groups continued their bloody warfare in the Indian and Pakistan areas of the Punjab.

In the clash here, between Hindu and Moslem workers, all the fatalities were Moslems. A curfew was imposed immediately.

There was speculation that the border guerilla warfare, stemming from dissatisfaction with the new boundary which left religious minorities in both east and west Punjab, might continue for months or even years.

Further complicating the picture was the latest demand from the Sikhs that both new dominions agree on a homeland for them.

Repeated attacks in Pakistan and India on such trains still running in the trouble area, and slaughter of passengers belonging to opposing religious communities were reported.

Refugees on both sides of the border accused the dominant majorities of murder, rape, arson and train holdups.

The Liberator, weekly magazine which calls itself the "spokesman for the Sihk people," complained bitterly that the division left in Pakistan Sikhs shrines and canal colonies it claimed were developed chiefly by Sikhs, and declared that unless Sikh demands were satisfied, "we shall make the existence of Pakistan impossible, whatever the cost."

Gen. Handy Decorated With Oak Leaf Cluster

Gen. Thomas T. Handy, former deputy chief of staff, was decorated today by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Chief of Staff, with an Oak Leaf Cluster to his Distinguished Service Medal. General Handy assumes command of the Fourth Army at San Antonio, Tex., on September 1.

Secretary of War Royall, Mrs. Eisenhower, Mrs. Handy, Miss Mary Handy and high ranking Army officers attended the ceremony.

New York Packers Helping Dispose of Md. Tomato Crop

Prospects of disposing of Maryland's tomato surplus appeared brighter yesterday with advent of New York buyers on the market.

The New York canners had been informed of the glut by the University of Maryland marketing service, according to Dr. Howard L. Stier, head of the service. The out-of-State canners started buying yesterday and boosted the price of tomatoes from last week's 20 cents a basket to between 35 and 50 cents.

Dr. Stier was informed in a survey report yesterday that local canners are able to move more of the record crop because of the improved quality of the tomatoes. Also canners figured they could move 15 to 20 per cent more tomatoes because good weather had resulted in fewer green shoulders and sunburn spots.

Maryland's 220,000-ton crop now is expected to bring approximately $4,500,00 0to the tomato growers.

New York's tomato crop is very short this year, and the canners from that State welcome the opportunity to purchase on the Maryland market to keep their canneries operating, Dr. Stier said.

Last year's crop was only 139,000 tons, due to the blight. Tomato growers had feared earlier that they were about to lose again because the first crop had been spoiled

Cleaners Due To Resume Work Soon

United Association Union Members to Get Proposal Today

Early settlement of the four-day work stoppage at the United Retail Cleaners and Tailors Association plant, 619 Neal pl. nw., was indicated yesterday by both union and management spokesmen after contract talks.

Reuben Bonnett, counsel for the management, announced a new proposal had been submitted to the union, Cleaners and Laundry Workers Local 457 (CIO), but declined to divulge the contents.

"We made a lot of progress," he reported.

Jack Kutner, union business agent, said he would submit the proposal to employes at 8:30 a. m. today for action. He said he would probably meet with company negotiators at 9:30 a. m.

Union demands are for two weeks' vacation after five years, in addition to the current one week with pay after one year's employment, and time and a half for overtime after eight hours in any one day. Currently, time and a half pay is given for work after 44 hours in a week for women and 48 hours for men.

Wages are not an issue.

The workers, 27 in all, left work late Thursday afternoon after negotiations had collapsed. Workers have attempted to return since then, but the plant's doors have been shut, leading union leaders to term the action a "lockout."

Norfolk Is Rated Again as One of Safest U. S. Cities

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 25 (AP).—Norfolk continues to be among the safest cities in the country, according to statistics released by the National Safety Council for cities with populations of more than 200,000.

Tabulating the cities by number of deaths and total population, Norfolk won its safety title with a 4.3 rating for the first six months of 1947.

In statistics based on number of deaths and number of cars registered, the Safety Council rated Norfolk the Nation's third safest city with a percentage of 2.8.

Five Norfolkians died of automobile accident injuries during the first half of 1947, the Safety Council figures showed. In the same report, Richmond had a 5.6 death rate per 10,000 cars and a rating of 12.5 per 100,000 population, placing the Capital among the more dangerous of its class, the council said.

Road Gang Escape Maintains Weekly Va. Camp Average

Another escaped prisoner yesterday kept up the average of one escape a week at Virignia State Workcamp No. 30 in Fairfax County.

Camp officials said that Daley O. Childrey, 22, a native of Richmond, escaped at about 2 p.m. from a road gang on Columbia Pike between Annandale and Bailey's Crossroads. He was serving a 7-year term for theft, for carrying a concealed weapon, and a previous escape.

Lenwood Fitzgerald, another prisoner at the camp who escaped last Friday by jumping from a moving truck, was recaptured yesterday at his home in Lynchburg.

Meanwhile, bloodhounds were put on the trail last night of two other prisoners who escaped yesterday from Workcamp No. 27 near Church Road, Va. Authorities said the men were Oscar McCall, 25, robber, and Samuel Fleming, housebreaker, both of Suffolk, Va.

Tobacco Sales At Record Low

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 25 (AP).—Wilson, largest of the flue-cured tobacco markets in the Eastern belt, reported early opening sales as the smallest break in two or three decades, with unofficial price averages running about 40 cents a pound.

Sales of one row of 81 baskets in one warehouse averaged 41.75 a pound, while sales in another warehouse of two rows of 158 baskets averaged 43.98. Wilson reported the quality of offering as fair, and prices ranged from $3.50 for nondescript best thin to 59 cents for choice smoking leaf. Wendell, the largest market in Wake County, reported average sales of 48 cents.

PBA Hobby Show Includes Collections and Handicraft

The Washington Post

HORTICULTURIST—Eula Dansey of Vienna, Va., employed in the building management division of the Public Works Administration, shows a red dahlia grown by Percy F. Fulton and judged best of the show in the PBA flower and hobby show

Because Ruth C. Hammer of 900 19th st. nw. gave way to a childhood travel yen, hundreds of Federal clerks had a visual treat yesterday.

Enclosed in a glass case in the auditorium of the Federal Works Agency, they saw more than a dozen rare spoons she gathered in such faraway places as Korea, Smyrna in Asia Minor, Java and China.

There were, in addition, engraved spoons from Russia, an Edward VIII "coronation" spoon and a pair of authentic chopsticks.

Miss Hammer, a clerk-stenographer, was one of more than 70 Public Buildings Administration employes participating in a one-day garden and hobby exhibit.

Another enthusiastic exhibitor was Mrs. Morie Finkel of 2515 K st. nw.

A racing fan since her childhood, Mrs. Finkel spends many an extracurricular hour shaping necklaces and pins from horseshoes. Among other things, she showed a necklace training plate reputedly once worn by Assault and a necklace shoe taken from Man O' War.

A payroll clerk, Mis Finkel confided that "my job is a race every day."

Hundreds of other items were exhibited, including a hand-made violin and banjo fashioned by a Government carpenter, B. H. Hammond, of 1132 8th st. nw., and dozens of varieties of flowers and vegetables.

Winners in the garden exhibits were Percy Fulton, foreman carpenter, of 3805 Taylor st., Brentwood, Md., and A. R. Eno, assistant chief engineer, of 3230 Wheeler rd. se.

The recreation council of PBA sponsored the display in the belief that "people are happier working when they have something else besides work." Many of the crafts were learned in clubs held under the agency's auspices.

Alcoholic Clinic Start Is Postponed

The District Commissioners yesterday agreed to postpone action on establishment of an alcoholic clinic for Washington until Health Department Director Dr. George C. Ruhland returns from his vacation.

Dr. Ruhland is due to return September 2. Decision to postpone setting up of the clinic was made on motion of Commissioner Guy Mason. There has been general agreement the clinic should be under Health Department jurisdiction.

Under a bill signed early this month by President Truman, $75,000 was authorized to operate clinics for the treatment of chronic alcoholics, financed by a 10 per cent increase in liquor license fees. The funds will not be available until licenses are renewed next January 31.

At the time the clinics were under Congressional consideration, Commissioner Mason expressed fear that establishing a special tax for their operation set a dangerous precedent in municipal finance. One special tax might be followed by others, for school, welfare or similar purposes, he suggested.

The Commissioner affirmed the stand that all taxes should go into the District general fund, and be appropriated out of that fund by Congress for whatever purpose it deemed necessary.

Need for alcoholic clinics here was pointed up in testimony before Congress by Donald Clemmer, District Corrections director, who said that in a 12-year period ended last year, nearly 138,000 commitments had been made to Distirct jails on charges of drunkeness.

During a recent period, Clemmer pointed out, there were 539 persons in jail for drunkeness, of whom 5 per cent had been jailed 100 times or more, and 64 per cent had been jailed 10 times or more.

Chief Justice Turns Down Jordan's Plea

Chief Justice Vinson yesterday refused to hear the case of Thomas Jordon, 41, who is serving life for killing Mrs. Lizzie Jaynes, a cashier, in the Garden T Shoppe robbery here 16 years ago.

Jordon asked the Supreme Court for a hearing on a writ of habeas corpus. Mr. Vinson said he was leaving the way open for Jordon to try to get some other justice to act.

Mrs. Jaynes, who was 61 years old, was shot down by one of two men who held her up in the restaurant the night of Good Friday, April 3, 1931. Jordon was arrested but was sturned loose. Several years later, after he wrote prosecutors here to ask whether he was in the clear, he was picked up in New York State. He was found guilty and sentenced to die. President Roosevelt cut the penalty down to life in prison in 1937.

From time to time, for 10 years, Jordon has tried to get his case reopened. The District Court, the United States Court of Appeals here and congressional committees have heard him. Each time he has lost.

Jordon's plea to the Supreme Court made the same claims as his previous bids for freedom. They were:

1. He was not able to get competent counsel.
2. Vital evidence in the case was suppressed.
3. The witnesses against him lied.
4. A deputy marshal tampered with the jury that condemned him, by giving them a copy of the United States Code to read.

William R. Sima Is Transferred; May Go Free Soon

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 25 (AP).—William R. Sima, former Naval Academy bandleader convicted of misconduct after a sensational court-martial last summer, has been transferred to the Portsmouth, N. H., Disciplinary Barracks to complete his sentence, a Navy spokesman said today.

The spokesman added that Sima may be eligible for release in less than a month. By early September he will have served two-thirds of the sentence the Navy imposed on him for misconduct and violating Navy regulations.

Some of the charges against the 55-year-old veteran arose from an all-night party in the North Severn Officers' Club.

Navy procedure allows one-third reduction of a sentence for good behavior. Sima already has been dismissed as a naval officer.

Ex-Official Sued By Airlines in Alleged Stock Deal

Pennsylvania Central Airlines filed suit in District Court yesterday to recover $15,000 in profits it alleges one of its former vice presidents made in sale of the airlines' stock.

The suit was entered against Jerome J. O'Donovan, 3700 Massachusetts ave. nw., now an aviation consultant. It alleges that O'Donovan, while vice president of the airlines, bought 750 shares of the airlines' common stock on August 27, 1945, at $14.12½ a share.

The transaction totalled $10,593.75, the suit avers. O'Donovan sold the stock for a 150 per cent profit, or a profit of $15,071.93, the suit charged. It asked this profit be returned to the airlines.

4th Church Robbed Here In a Week; $41 Is Taken

Burglars Ransack Augustana Lutheran After Gaining Entry By Door to Study

Burglars have ransacked another District church, police reported yesterday, making it the fourth in the past week.

This time it was Augustana Lutheran Church, New Hampshire ave. and V st. nw. About $41 was taken late Sunday.

The Rev. Clarence Nelson, pastor, told police the burglars apparently entered by a door leading to his study. Desks and files were plundered.

About $25 was stolen from parishioners' contribution envelopes in a desk, he said, and $16 more from a cash box in the study.

Other Churches Looted

The rector's study of Christ's Episcopal Church, 3108 O st. nw., was entered Sunday night, August 17, and the Sunday collection of $115 and $20 in addition taken.

Two nights later, Central Presbyterian Church, 15th and Irving sts. nw., was entered. Wall panels were smashed apparently in search of a built-in safe and $21 taken from a file cabinet.

Early last Saturday burglars broke the glass in a basement door at Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church, 900 Massachusetts ave. nw., and took $300 from a safe in the parish house.

Reports Safe Missing

In another police report, Edward McRorie, 24, of 726 Hamilton st. nw., manager of Bowie Vincent Service Station, 5013 Georgia ave. nw., said the station was entered between 6 p.m. Sunday and 7:20 a.m. yesterday. Its 24-inch-high safe, containing $125 and charge tickets, was found missing, he said.

Leon Tepper, owner of Tepper Restaurant, 107 D st. ne., reported burglars had entered the restaurant Sunday night through a small screened window under a larger display window. He said $100 was taken from a metal cash box under a counter.

Malcolm Fowl, Elyria, Ohio, reported clothing valued at $117 taken Sunday from his automobile while it was parked overnight downtown. The missing items, he said, included men's suits, two women's coats and a woman's suit.

Women Report Thefts

Bess Mae Johns, 338 G st. ne., told police $300 in cash disappeared from a dresser drawer in her first-floor apartment over the weekend. She said she had left the room door unlocked.

Another woman, Mollie McFarland, 50, of 2232 13th st. nw., told police a man, about 22, stepped from a parked car as she walked along 13th st., north of U st., put a pistol to her back and took $61 from her pocketbook.

He then told her, she related, to "keep walking."

Texas Storm Knifes Inland With 1 Dead

Galveston, Tex., Aug. 25 (AP).—A tropical storm, at times of hurricane force, knifed inland 100 miles today, as Galveston, Texas City and Houston cleared up debris in its wake.

The Weather Bureau said the storm, blamed for one death, many injuries and heavy damage, would blow itself out in rain squalls.

It struck between Virginia Point and Alvin, the wind was estimated at about 85 miles an hour.

Joseph M. Taber of Galveston was killed by an electric wire. Many were injured by flying debris. A 46-foot fishing boat which sailed Friday with a three-man crew has not been seen since.

Near Houston, 41 Negroes sawed their way to freedom from a prison farm at the height of the storm, and disappeared in a torrential rain whipped almost horizontal by howling winds. Only five were caught.

Overell Defense To Spring Surprise

Santa Ana, Calif., Aug. 24 (U.P.).—Heiress Beulah Louise Overell, 18, today expressed confidence of acquittal as the defense promised to produce a "mystery witness" who would absolve her and her fiance of charges they murdered her parents.

The defense, in the fourteenth week of the trial, tomorrow will open its case to deny the State's claim that Miss Overell and George (Bud) Gollum, 21, bludgeoned her parents, financier and Mrs. Walter Overell, to death, then dynamited the Overell yacht.

Treated Sand Blast Eliminates Oil Slicks

Portsmouth, Va., Aug. 25 (AP).—A new scientific wrinkle which erases those troublesome oil slicks dangerous to ships and a nuisance to beach bathers has been developed by chemists at the Norfolk naval shipyard.

The substance is simply ordinary sea sand treated with crude creosote or ashaltic oils, and heated to about 800 degrees Fahrenheit. The treatment leaves each grain covered with an absorbent coating of carbon.

The sand, sprayed on floating oil by a sand blasting air pressure drum, soaks up the oil and sinks to the bottom—permanently.

County's 5th Polio Case

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 25 (AP).—The fifth case of poliomyelitis within two weeks was reported in Allegany County today, and Health Officer Dr. Winter R. Frantz said the disease had reached a prevalence unequaled for 10 years.

The latest victim was a 5-year-old boy who was taken to Sydenham Hospital in Baltimore today. A 12-year-old girl was admitted to the hospital with the affliction yesterday.

Frantz said the five cases recorded during the past fortnight constituted the county's total for 1947. He also reported an increase in the county diphtheria rate, saying 11 cases had been registered for the first eight months of the year.

FBI Aid Sought

Hagerstown, Md., Aug. 25 (AP).—Detective Wayne Sellman reported today the FBI was being called upon to assist in an investigation of 10 forged payroll checks discovered here.

Sellman said the checks, ranging from $30 to $40, were marked "payroll," and were drawn against the Danzer Metal Works. The detective said the firm does not pay employes by check.

VA Redisignates Offices

Richmond, Va., Aug. 25 (AP).—The Veterans Administration announced today that its Richmond subregional office, which has been supervising VA activities in 29 Virginia counties, will be redesignated as a purely local office on September 1.

The VA said the supervisory duties of the Richmond office wil be transferred to the regional office at Roanoke. After September 1, officials said, the Richmond office will give direct service only to veterans living in and around Richmond.

60 Take Safety Course

Richmond, Va., Aug. 25 (AP).—More than 60 men who supervise the drivers of heavy trucks and buses in Virginia today enrolled in a school here—a school established to teach ways of preventing accidents on the State's highways.

The course will last five days and will be taught by highway safety men. The supervisors will learn the fundamentals of selecting, training and supervising drivers, and methods of establishing accident prevention programs.

Memorial Planned

Boonsboro, Md., Aug. 25 (AP).—The Boonsboro Community Memorial Association announced today a granite shaft bearing the names of veterans of both World Wars will be erected here early next year.

4-H Tour Planned

Young farmers and older boys in Maryland's 4-H clubs will make a three-day tour of New York City beginning October 19. The trip sponsored by the University of Maryland extension service and the traffic department of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, will include a visit to the United Nations headquarters at Lake Success, Long Island.

Delayed Action

New Castle, Va., Aug. 25 (AP).—Bob Abbott, young New Castle resident, will know better next time than to pick up the same hitchhiker twice.

Abbott gave a lift to a stranger last night on his way to nearby Craig Healing Springs. The man asked to get out after five miles of uneventful riding. An hour later Abbott headed back for New Castle, found the same hitchhiker thumbing a ride in the opposite direction and picked him up again.

After a few miles the man whipped out a gun, forced Abbott to drive to a secluded spot, and robbed him of $14 in cash and his 1935 Ford.

15 Yearlings—$121,300

Berryville, Va., Aug. 25.—Fifteen yearlings brought a total of $121,300 to four Clarke County thoroughbred breeders when auctioned recently at Saratoga Springs. Top sale was from the estate of Kenneth Gilpin, a chestnut filly by War Admiral, purchased for $44,000 by W-L Ranch. The estate sold nine yearlings for an average of about $12,000 each. Three yearlings sold by A. S. Hewitt brought $5100, two auctioned by Mrs. George Greenhalgh brought $5900 and a bay colt sold by J. B. Lindsay brought $2700.

100 At Pastor's School

Westminster, Md., Aug. 25 (AP).—Approximately 100 ministers registered today for the thirty-sixth annual Westminster pastors school which will be held through Friday at the Westminster Theological Seminary.

Attending were representatives of the Baltimore, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Penninsular conferences of Methodist churches. Among speakers who will deliver five lectures each are the Rev. Dr. M. J. Shoryer of Westminster Theological Seminary; the Rev. Dr. William R. Cannon of Emory University, Ga., and the Rev. Dr. Haven G. Werner of Drew University, Madison, N. J.

Slonaker Is Principal

Romney, W. Va., Aug. 25.—Gordon Slonaker has been named principal of the high school here, effective the coming term, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of C. P. Wells who will become Webster County superintendent, it is learned.

Verdict: 'Preposterous'

Salisbury, Md., Aug. 25 (AP).—Wicomico County's first women jurors have greeted the sheriff's summons to court next month with mixed reactions.

"Did you ever hear anything so prep sterous?" remarked Mrs. Thomas H. White, jr., of Fruitland. "I don't even know where to sit."

"I feel kind of proud to be picked first," said Mrs. William S. Melson of Delmar.

Mrs. C. H. Chipman, first Negro woman ever picked in the county, said, "I shall certainly serve as best I can."

Kerosene Blast Fatal

Dundalk, Md., Aug. 25 (AP).—Police said today the use of kerosene in building a fire caused the death of Mrs. Ethel Mitchell, 35.

Pouring kerosene into a kitchen range at her home here on Friday, Mrs. Mitchell was fatally burned when the stove exploded, police said. She died yesterday in a hospital.

School Bell Ends DST

Romney, W. Va., Aug. 25.—Daylight Saving Time in this Hampshire County seat will end September 6 under order of City Council. The county has had Standard Time this summer, and as the schools, which will open next week, will use Standard Time, municipal authorities have decreed to end DST at midnight September 6.

5 Teaching Posts Open

Winchester, Va., Aug. 25.—With only four high school and one primary teaching position still open, County Superintendent Leslie D. Kline was confident today that all 110 county teacher posts would be filled by the time school opens September 8. There are eight applicants for the high school vacancies at Middletown, Stephens City, Gore and Stonewall High Schools, he reported.

Phone Cables Laid

Salisbury, Md., Aug. 25 (AP).—Installation of $500,000 worth of new toll cables on the Eastern Shore will be completed this fall, J. O. Miller, Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. manager here, said today.

The project now underway includes 80 miles of aerial cable, a mile of underground cable, a mile of submarine cable and about 450 poles. Average toll calls per day here last week hit an all-time peak of 3376 calls a day, Miller said.

War Veteran Drowns

Perryville, Md., Aug. 25 (AP).—A 25-year-old war veteran from Baltimore drowned today in the Susquehanna River during a recreation period, officials of the Perry Point Hospital reported.

Identity of the veteran was not disclosed pending notification of next of kin. Officials said the victim had been a patient of the Veterans Hospital since January.

'Cane for a Midget'

Man Drowned in River

Havre De Grace, Md., Aug. 25 (AP).—Fire Chief G. Robert Pennington said firemen and police were dragging the Susquehanna River today for the body of Cecil Zeigler, 21, of Philadelphia, who was drowned yesterday.

Witnesses said Zeigler was being towed by four companions in a rowboat at Penns Beach when he lost his grasp and sank. He was reported to be an employe of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Veteran Electrocuted

Baltimore, Aug. 25 (AP).—Frank Pacunas, 28-year-old Navy veteran, was electrocuted yesterday at the Port Covington power generating station of the Gas & Electric Co., when he touched a wire carrying 13,000 volts of electricity.

Fellow workers said Pacunas was working at a switch on which the current had been cut off when his left arm brushed a "live" switch nearby.

Fosbrink Heads Railroad

Winchester, Va., Aug. 25.—John G. Fosbrink has been elected president of the Winchester & Western Railroad Co. succeeding the late David Sencindiver. A veteran of World War I, Fosbrink came to this city as agent for the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad in 1929.

1300 Montgomery Cows Bred By Test Tube in Four Months

Last May county dairy farmers organized a unit of the Maryland Artificial Breeding Cooperative and since then 1300 cows have been bred from 30 prize bulls quartered at the University of Maryland.

By so doing, these farmers have saved themselves the cost of purchasing bulls at prices ranging from $1000 to $15,000 and the maintenance of them, and have assured their cows of sires with A-1 pedigrees, according to Ray B. Roberts, chairman of the board of governors of the Montgomery unit.

The artificial breeding supporters have been faced with a difficult program of education to overcome existing superstitions and beliefs on breeding, according to County Agent O. W. Anderson.

Farmers believe they can maintain a bull for less money than having their cows injected. He pointed out, however, that the fee for members of the unit is $5 per cow and $6 per cow for non-members.

Harry Irvine, breeding technician who has been in dairy work for 14 years, said the new method has a record of 73 per cent results here, as compared to the 62 per cent averaged by the natural way.

Thus far, 82 farmers have joined the Montgomery circuit and Irvine, who performs the injection, has been receiving many calls for his services. Nine Maryland counties have organized units and 23 states have formed similar State-wide groups.

The first calf resulting from the artificial breeding arrived on the Paul Martin farm near Damascus. Martin, who has 88 head of cattle, said he liked the method "very much."

Grocery Beer Permit Studied After Church Groups Protest

Petitions protesting issuance of the license were presented for the Fourth Church of Christ Scientist, and St. Stephens and the Incarnation Episcopal Church, of which the Rev. R. P. Currie is curate.

The applicant is Mrs. Sadie D. Gilber, who conducts a grocery at 3508 Center st. nw., who told the board she planned to carry wines and beer merely as a customer convenience.

The hearing was continued from August 14 in order to hear Mrs. Gilber's side of the question. At the initial hearing, 50 witnesses appeared before the board to protest the granting of the Class D liquor license to Mrs. Gilber.

Honey Thief Sought

Winchester, Va., Aug. 25.—Authorities at Charles Town have requested city police to be on the lookout for a local man wanted for questioning in connection with the theeft of honey from the Jefferson orchard in West Virginia. According to the police there, 800 pounds of honey belonging to Clareence Engle of Route 2, Kearneysville, has been stolen during the last 10 days.

Dog Show Slated

Berryville, Va., Aug. 25.—The Clarke County Wildlife Association will hold its third annual dog show at 5 p.m. next Monday at the Rosemont Ball Park here. Classes will be provided for all breeds, with silver trophies, rosettes and ribbons to be awarded winners. Judges include Benton Snider and Leslie D. Kline, of Winchester.

Sunday School Picnic

Herndon, Va., Aug. 25.—Herndon Congregational Church will hold its annual Sunday School picnic Wednesday at 4 p.m. at the Young home on Monroe st. A picnic supper will be served at 6 p.m. Mrs. E. J. Hegler is in charge of arrangements.

League Meets Tomorrow In Arlington

The Arlington Better Government League will meet at 8 tomorrow night at the Lyon Park community house to plan a campaign for the candidates it has indorsed for the County Board.

The league-sponsored candidates, Mrs. Florence Cannon and T. Oscar Smith, will speak.

In announcing the meeting, Harley M. Williams, chairman, urged independent voters to support Mrs. Cannon and Smith in the November 5 elections to unseat incumbents F. Freeland Chew and Harry W. Cuppett, who are running for re-election.

Williams deplored the entry of five additional candidates in the race after three other independents had withdrawn in favor of those indorsed by the league. Their entry "will materially aid the incumbents without at the same time providing any real opportunity for the election of themselves," he declared.

This situation makes very possible the election of candidates who do not poll a majority of the votes and might cause a split in the independent vote, he stated.

2 Harrisburg Papers Bring $2,500,000

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 25 (AP).—Sale of the Harrisburg Patriot and Evening News, morning and evening newspapers, to Edwin F. Russell of Far Hills, N. J., former associate publisher of the Newark, N. J., Star Ledger, was announced today by Mrs. Vance C. McCormick, widow of the publisher.

A statement said the two papers, with a combined circulation of 84,000, were sold for a "reported $2,500,000."

New Reserve Office

Staunton, Va., Aug. 25 (AP).—A new field office of the Organized Reserve headquarters, Virginia Military District, was opened here today under the command of Maj. Byron G. C. Belote of Norfolk.

Col. A. J. Knight, senior State instructor of the Organized Reserves, said the new office brings to eight the number of field offices now in operation in Virginia. The offices are being set up to bring the reserve program nearer to its members and potential members.

National Weather Summary

REG. PAT'S PEND. COPR. 1947 EDW. L. A. WAGNER. ALL RIGHTS RESERVED.

24-HOUR SUMMARY—The heat wave in the corn belt is temporarily broken. Cool air which has been building up in central Canada will flow into the Lakes region and the central Plains. (See fotocast.) This visiting Canadian air is merely a preview of the air flow which will dominate the fotocast during the fall. Since this visiting air is traveling far from its source the refreshing coolness will be of short duration.

Maximum temperatures will be in the 80s in the central Plains, the far West and along the east slopes of the Rockies. East and south of the front from Maine to Texas a southerly flow off the Gulf of Mexico will continue to wilt weary Easterners with hot sultry blasts. The mercury will again climb to 90 degrees or higher from the Gulf States to Pennsylvania. Scattered thunderstorms developing in partly cloudy skies will bring little relief from the sticky air in this area.

Some widely scattered thundershowers are pictured over the central Plains, but will bring little relief to the parched soil which has baked under 90-degree temperatures and deficient rainfall since July 4. Fotocast fans know fronts and affected or stormy areas move eastward on the fotocast from day to day. Looking ahead these amateur forecasters can readily see cool, dry northerly winds will be flowing into the corn belt and the Plains States for several days and gradually moving eastward behind the front from Maine to Texas. By following this air flow trend the outlook for midweek is continued dry weather in the corn belt and cooler temperatures in the Northeast.

Highest temperatures expected this afternoon include Memphis, 94; New York, St. Louis and Tulsa, 88; Philadelphia, 93; Washington, 92; Atlanta, 90; Kansas City, 87; Pittsburgh, 84; Hartford, Boston and Chicago, 82; Detroit, 81; Albany and Milwaukee, 80; Cleveland, 77, and Buffalo, 74.

Robert Brown, Prince Georges Farmer, Dies

For the Flowers

Said President to Mr. Somosa: Thank You!

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

EVERY FEW weeks, so it seems, a new revolution pops out in Latin America. Today it's Ecuador, yesterday it was Nicaragua. Some of the behind scenes contretemps pulled by pistol-packing Latinos are ludicrously entertaining.

Latest in a rosary of comic events was staged by likable Senor Dr. Don Guillermo Sevilla Sacasa, son-in-law of Nicaraguan dictator Somosa and, until a recent series of political upheavals, ambassador from this agitated Central American republic. Sacasa ceased to represent his country less than a year ago when a new president, independent of Somosa tutelage, was elected down in Managua.

Before long, however, the new incumbent was ousted and replaced by a Somosan relative. The United States refused recognition of this second, summary regime and at the Inter-American Conference, now rolling in Rio, Nicaragua was left out in the cold.

Sacasa, however, was most anxious to attend the Rio Conference as recognized representative of his country. He drew blanks wherever he turned. One day, the Pan American Union queried the State Department. Sacasa was in their office with a White House envelope addressed to him as Ambassador from Nicaragua. It inclosed, he claimed, a letter from President Truman addressing him as Ambassador, therefore he could demand full rights at Rio.

Thanks for the Flowers

THE STATE DEPARTMENT telephoned one of the Truman secretaries. No, no White House communication had been sent Sacasa. But the Pan American Union insisted Sacasa had the envelope, though he refused to show its contents. The bewildered State Department, sensing something very queer, called the White House again. The puzzled secretary asked for the letter's date, then, a few seconds later, contacted his State Department pal.

Yes, indeed, Mr. Truman had written to Sacasa on that date. It was purely personal. When the President's mother had broken her hip last winter, the Nicaraguan had sent flowers. There had been so much to attend to that thank you notes were dispatched after Mrs. Truman's death. Unwittingly, a secretary, bogged down by protocol, had scrambled titles!

When this ingenious fuse fizzled, the Senor Dr. Don flew to Brazil on his own. Nicaragua is still barred from the conference and though Dr. Sacasa's in Rio, he's 40 miles away from the Petropolis Hotel where his former confreres are billeted.

The Sacasas, incidentally, have recently bought a large Virginia estate. The house is sufficiently capacious to shelter a sizable group should another revolution shake Somosa relatives out of Nicaragua.

And, speaking of revolutions, friends of Galo Plaza, Ecuador's last but one Ambassador, are wondering what his political fate will be. Supposedly Galo threw in his Ambassadorship to gun for Ecuador's presidency. If he nabs some high office there'll be a trek of visitors from Washington to Quito, for Galo, who was schooled in this country, is as popular as he's good looking.

No Jeeveses in Akron

TO CITIZENS in lesser income brackets a really good English butler is invariably comic. But to those with astronomical incomes a British manservant sometimes stands as snobbish symbol of success. This spring, just before the tire-tycoon Firestone girl married a Ford boy, Harvey Firestone, jr., toured Europe with his bride-to-be daughter.

Visiting a number of British ancestral mansions, he was so overcome with the efficiency and dignified mien of his hosts' butlers that he cabled home, asked to have one engaged to announce the guests at the impending nuptials.

There were no Jeeveses in Akron, so a Miss Fix-It from neighboring Cleveland was consulted. Cleveland proved equally bare of British butlers, but refusing to be stymied, Miss Fix-It telephoned the director of the Cleveland Play House. Unfortunately their star butler was engaged as lead in a Shaw play.

Accommodating Actor

MISS FIX-IT next called the director of the Western Reserve University Theater Group. Here she hit pay dirt. An accommodating young man was suitably made up with gray hair, and in well trained, sonorous British accents announced the several thousand plus Firestone-Ford guests as they went down receiving line.

So far no one is sure whether or not Harvey, jr., got wise to the hoax. Years ago, however, Charley Dawes, our irrepressible envoy to Great Britain, pulled the same stunt knowingly but in reverse.

As a gag he hired Leon Errol to buttle at one of his more austere dinners. Without hesitation the gimpy, limpy Errol dashed about the table, scaring everyone, and ended by dripping some soup down the immaculate back of one of the stuffier guests.

Miss Garvey To Be Bride

The engagement of their daughter, Miss Mary Catherine Garvey, to Paul Raymond Connolly, jr., of Baltimore, has been announced by Mr. and Mrs. Martin L. Garvey of Chevy Chase. Mr. Connolly is the son of Paul R. Connolly and the late Mrs. Connolly of Baltimore.

The bride-elect was graduated from the Academy of the Holy Cross and attended Trinity College. This fall she will enter her senior year at the Parsons School of Design in New York City.

Mr. Connolly was graduated from Loyola College, and during the war served in the Navy as a communicatons officer aboard a destroyer in the Pacific. He will enter his senior year in Georgetown Law School this fall.

Siamese Envoy Feted At Surprise Party

Princess Wan Waithayakon and members of the Siamese Embassy staff gave a surprise party at the embassy last evening for the Ambassador. The occasion was the birthday of His Royal Highness, and about 70 members of the Siamese colony took part in the fete.

Wives of staff members prepared Siamese dishes, and children gave a program of entertainment with native songs and dances. Highlight of the evening's festivities was a new song composed especially for the Ambassador.

Engaged

ANNOUNCEMENT has been made of the engagement of Mrs. Betty Squire of the Australian Embassy to R. J. A. Massie of Sydney, Australia, and London, England. Mrs. Squire is the widow of Earl Christopher Squire of the State Department.

Son to Coopers

A son was born to Col. and Mrs. Richard F. Cooper of Laramie, Wyo., last Sunday.

Mrs. Cooper is the former Miss Jane Souby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Souby of this city.

First Lady Lowers Hemlines For Latin-American Trip

By Ruth Brigham

Mrs. Harry S. Truman was all set today for her first Latin-American trip—armed with a knowledge of Spanish and a lowered hemline.

The First Lady, who will accompany President Truman to Rio de Janeiro later this week, confessed that she has yielded to fashion's latest decree and lengthened her dresses. She didn't say exactly how much—only a little.

Mrs. Truman is modest about her Spanish and wouldn't like it put too much to the test—but Ramon Ramos, her teacher once a week for the past two years, proclaims her an excellent student. At least, Mrs. Truman will never find it necessary to go hungry in a Spanish-speaking country, for she can order practically anything in Spanish. Her Spanish class luncheons—where English was forbidden—saw to that.

Margaret Coming Too—

In Portuguese-speaking Brazil, the First Lady wouldn't be expected to use much Spanish, but she will no doubt fall back on it when talking to Latin-American diplomats and their wives attending the Inter-American defense conference.

Mrs. Truman said she is looking forward to the trip and there are many things she wants to see in Brazil and other places where the presidential party will stop. Margaret Truman, fresh from a singing engagement in the Hollywood Bowl, will accompany her parents on the trip.

The Woman Next Door

Looking just like a woman ought to look who's been married for 25 years.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Girl, 17, Wants to Marry Widower, 49; Her Family and Friends, Including Man's Daughter, Think She Is Out of Her Mind

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a girl 17, in love with a widower, 49, who is my girl friend's father. I know this is real love, even though my family and friends think I am out of my mind.

I am very mature for my age, and the man I love has retained his youthful attitude toward life. I am aware of all the difficulties that might be anticipated in such a union, but I am ready and eager to accept the risk.

My family has forbidden me to see him under any circumstances, but I manage to see him frequently when they think I am asleep,—because I feel that nothing and no one can stand in the way of true love.

Nobody Favors Their Romance

MY GIRL friend is aware of our devotion and disapproves completely. She is 22, and she says the thought of having a stepmother 17 is too fantastic. This makes it necessary for her father to resort to the subterfuge of slipping out to see me when she thinks he's asleep.

On the whole, it seems there is nobody on our side. We can't understand why they feel this way, when anyone who has spent any time with us couldn't help seeing that we are compatible in every respect. We share common interests, beliefs and tastes. I have never felt so completely peaceful as I do when in his company.

If you don't think we are entirely wrong, could you offer suggestions for persuading our family and friends to see things our way, so that we can make plans for our wedding? Sincerely,

E. S.

Is Girl Mature As She Thinks?

DEAR E. S.: For the time being, there is a spark here that might pass for the divine afflatus, I have no doubt. But the strong pull of mutual attraction has nothing to do with maturity of mind, spirit or character.

You write a polished letter and by conventional reckoning may be a socially precocious teen-ager; but this doesn't necessarily mean that you are psychologically mature beyond your years.

Indeed it may signify just the reverse, namely, the possibility that due to exceptionally pampered rearing, you early acquired an unconscious ingrained aversion to ungloved competition with other kids—such as makes for gradual and rugged normal character development—and took face-saving refuge in an assumed predilection for the company, interests, beliefs and tastes of older individuals, who beamed approval on an ingratiating youngster with a flattering approach.

In other words, maybe in all your social relationships you are unconsciously playing the role of precocious little girl captivating her elders, more or less—for the unconscious purpose of collecting lots of indulgent affection, high favoritism, etc., without making any growth-type efforts to deserve a popularity-rating, either with them or persons your own age.

Dating Policy Discredits Man

I'M NOT saying positively that this is so, but it is a possibility to be weighed at this crossroad, as it might have a tricky bearing on your strange attachment to the much-older widower.

Also, I'm interested in your comment that you've "never felt so peaceful" as when in his company. This hints at vague uneasy maladjustment to life, as if unconsciously you might feel lost in the midst of contemporaries, anxiously in need of a parent-protector and advocate to make you feel "special" and loved. Maybe the widower appeals as a substitute father-sweetheart.

However, I doubt that he'd fill even that role realistically. It's an understatement to say he has retained his youthful attitude toward life. His flighty and/or disreputable late-night sneak dating of you puts him in the juvenile delinquent class—and suggests indeed that it isn't marriage but rather a fling he's after here. I think "wedding plans" are your private pipe-dream—and my advice is to steer clear of him.

It's Dad's Responsibility, Too, To Stay Home With Children

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

Has any husband a right to reduce his wife to the status of a servant? Shall he be the only one who is privileged to enjoy recreation outside the home, while his wife is saddled constantly with the care of the children?

Any right-minded person would say "no" to both questions. Yet there are fathers who in daily living demand and get such privileges and give no consideration to the unhappy estate of the wives.

Mrs. G. B. says that she is only 24 years of age and has three children, 5½ and 3 years old and a baby 6 months old. She writes: "I would appreciate any help you could give me with the following problemes:

What's the Answer?

"What is a father's share in rearing a family? I get very little help. Right after supper my husband goes fishing with other men and I stay at home, or take the children wherever I go.

"Other young couples I know go out places together or stay home together. Perhaps my husband was a bachelor too long—he is 35 now and he won't sacrifice even one night for me or the children. He hasn't any patience with them.

"What about the silly words a 3-year-old uses? While they do no harm, they don't sound nice. The neighbors make a fuss, and the more they complain the more the children say these words and laugh.

"Is a 13-year-old too old to play with my children? This one makes a lot of trouble, and once when I told her off she told me to go and beat my brains out."

Man's Obligations

A man assumes certain obligations when he marries and brings children into the world, and one of them is to share the burdens of all the family cares. Obviously, you need both companionship and recreation or else you are no better than an unpaid housekeeper. Get some reliable person to stay in the house with the children when your husband goes fishing, and you go to a movie or to visit some friends. Make plans for both of you to go out some place on a Saturday or Sunday night. If you manage this, he may be agreeable. He is taking the easy way, and he thinks you have no complaint because he is with men. He should be made to see your viewpoint and the injustice he does you.

If this "silly" talk is profanity, then give some mild penalty, such as putting the child in another room. But if it is just silly words, ignore them. You admit that attention is what the child wants.

Of course this 13-year-old is not a good companion. One wonders why she would be interested. Let her play if she behaves; send her home when she doesn't.

How Much Poise Have You?

Instructions are so simple when you know how, so uncomfortable when you don't. Be sure of the rules and you'll be perfectly at ease whether called on to introduce two celebrities, or your current beau to your mother.

Etiquette-Wise Know How To Introduce

The rules are based on common sense. You introduce a man to a woman, a younger person to an older person of the same sex. Thus, it's "Mother, this is John Grey," and "Mrs. Lyons, do you know Miss Lee?"

Notice that a poised person avoids such crude phrases as, "Let me make you acquainted with," and "Shake hands with." It's good policy, too, to save a somewhat pompous phrase like "May I present" for introductions to high-ranking persons.

People judge you by your etiquette; be sure of every point. Our Reader Service booklet No. 45 answers many of your questions about introductions, table manners, letter writing. Also etiquette at dances, in restaurants, at the movies, in business. Special tips to teens, covering dates, good-night kisses, other day-to-day problems.

Send 25c (coin) for "New Book of Everyday Etiquette" to The Washington Post, Reader Service, 243 West 17th st., New York 11, N. Y. Print name, address, booklet title and No. 45.

How to Banish Nerve Fatigue

Tension and the inability to relax are always results, never causes, of psychic fatigue, says Dr. Louis E. Bisch writing in Your Life magazine. If your muscles ache, if there is a pulling on your neck and the small of your back, if it feels as though there was a tight band around your head and your throat hurts, find out why. Ten to one the cause is purely mental. Remove that cause, get another point of view, and you won't be tense any more, nor will you feel as though you were going to collapse from sheer fatigue.

If a desire for change, or the need for a vacation, a new dress, a round of tennis or golf, or whatever it may be that makes you restless, keeps nagging and nagging, the chances are that your mind is giving you a valuable hint that should be heeded. Do something about it. If the mind is making a reasonable request to better its state of well-being, don't be stubborn or do a martyr stunt. Let go for a bit, take a rest and habe a good time.

MRS. DONALD JAMES BOWE
. . . To reside in Washington

Bowe—Klatt

In St. Gabriel's Catholic Church yesterday, Miss Patricia Dean Klatt and Donald James Bowe were married at 10 a. m., the Rev. Louis W. Albert officiating. A reception followed at Hotel 2400.

Daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frederick G. Klatt of Washington, the bride was escorted by her uncle, Charles W. Daley. She wore a gown of white marquisette with bouffant skirt and a fingertip veil held by a coronet of orange blossoms. Her flowers were a bouquet of stephanotis and gardenias.

Miss Maryon Pitt was maid of honor, and Mrs. Angelo Trivelli and Miss Ann-Katrine Shaw were bridesmaids.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Bowe of Washington. He is a graduate of Notre Dame Academy.

After a honeymoon in Atlantic City, the couple will make their home in Washington.

MRS. LEONARD F. RUBRIGHT
. . . Falls Church Bride

Rubright—Coffelt

Miss Betty Ruth Coffelt and Leonard Frank Rubright were married yesterday in Columbus Baptist Church, Falls Church, Va., the Rev. Cecil H. Franks officiating. Mrs. Rubright is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Harold Coffelt of Falls Church and her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wilson Rubright of Dunn Loring, Va.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore white satin embroidered with seed pearls. Her finger-tip veil of illusion fell from a band of orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of small white roses on a white Bible.

Miss Georgelyn Coffelt, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and Mrs. Marion Rubright, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid. Harold E. Rubright, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man. Ernest M. Rubright, another brother, and Donald P. Coffelt, brother of the bride, were ushers.

After a wedding trip through Virginia and West Virginia, Mr. and Mrs. Rubright will make their home in Dunn Loring, Va.

Dingley Daughter To Be Christened

The small daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Edward Nelson Dingley, jr., will be christened Linda Bell on Thursday afternoon at St. Mary's Episcopal Church, Arlington. The Rev. Brown Serman will officiate and a reception for family and neighbors will follow.

Mrs. Dingley is the former Miss Celene du Puy, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Atherton du Puy of Washington. The baby is the great-grandchild of the late Senator and Mrs. Nelson Dingley of Maine.

Maj. and Mrs. Robert Earle Gambrill will act as godparents.

RICE . . . prominent on the shortage list not many months ago . . . is now back in almost prewar quantity and interesting variety. Brown rice, white rice, wild rice, long-grained rice . . . they're all there on the shelves, and a couple of newcomers besides—"minute" rice and "converted" rice. "Minute" rice is precooked. All you need to do is heat it to the boiling point . . . then let it stand in a warm place to dry out about 10 minutes. "Converted" rice is treated so that every grain stands apart after cooking (22 minutes) . . . It's easier to prepare, freer of waste, and fluffier than plain rice.

There are many choices now in canned juices for cooling summer punches and tangy cocktails . . . everything from black cherry juice to pomegranate nectar on sale. One store has 26 kinds this week . . . including fig juice, apricot nectar (with dextrose and water added), liquid apple, papaya, lime, and blackberry juices, tomato cocktail (with beef and iron added), all kinds of lemon mixtures.

PRICES GOING UP: Reflecting poor corn crop prospects, wholesale prices on corn starch and corn syrup have risen about 10 per cent in recent weeks. No rise yet in corn cereal prices, but it probably won't be long.

On With the New!

By Lucia Brown

CROWD-STOPPERS in the stores these days are new types of small electrical appliances — bright, clever devices that make running a home quicker, easier and smoother.

One of these is a new automatic coffee maker, which puts timing the coffee into the same class with keeping the woodbox filled and turning the spit. Once you've placed coffee and water in this appliance and flicked the switch, you can forget it until you're ready to drink the coffee. The coffee maker brews your java, and when it's done, the high heat turns off automatically and a low heat turns on. The coffee is drawn back into the serving decanter, where it's maintained at correct serving temperature for hours on end.

A conversation piece as well as a timepiece is the new glass electric clock. You can see right through this clock, which is made of four glass disks mounted on a metal band. A small base incloses the "works." The clock face is painted on one glass disk. The minute hand is on another, and the hour hand on still another. The last two revolve and tell the time of day.

Something for the coffee connoisseur is the new electric coffee grinder. The coffee—just the amount you want for the next meal—is put in at the top. A turn of the switch and the ground coffee pours out at the side—fresh, and full of flavor.

Brand, spanking new is the "tip-toe" iron. Clever feature is a hinged sole plate so that the tip can be used alone to iron such hard-to-get-at places as yokes, smocking, gathers, ruffles, set-in collars, and sleeve bands.

A new technique in bacon broiling is introduced by the high-domed aluminum bacon grill. A perforated aluminum cover holds the bacon flat. While it broils, grease is drained off into a deep grease well around the grill dome.

Your Questions On Homemaking

I have three large pillows filled with goose feathers which I would like to use on my Hollywood bed to make it look like a studio couch. Is it possible to box these pillows at home? If so, how should it be done?

To convert these pillows into the box type usually used on studio couches, it will be necessary to make new ticks and transfer the feathers. Be sure first you have enough feathers, for studio couch pillows should be stuffed tighter than bed pillows. To make the ticks, cut two rectangular pieces of ticking for each pillow and a strip about 3 inches wide to go around the edge. Double-stitch the pieces together on the sewing machine. Leave an opening about 6 inches long in one end of the tick. Make a similar opening in the old pillow and baste opening in the new tick over it. You can then shake the feathers from one tick to the other without starting a feather storm. It's a good idea to do the transferring in a dry bathtub, where any feathers that fly out will be easy to retrieve. Whip the opening firmly closed after the feathers have been changed.

If all this sounds like too much trouble, remember that big square sofa pillows look very nice on a studio couch, too. You could make them from your large bed pillow by shaking the feathers down into one end of each pillow and sewing across it 6 inches or so from the end. The empty end could be folded back and tacked. Or you could cut it off, turn under the raw edges and whip them together.

Will you tell me where I can find an electric ice cream freezer for home use? C. H. W.

To Add to String Saving

When the wash cloths become old and faded, fold them over and cover with a casing of cretonne. You have a splendid pot holder for your kitchen.

No matter how clean the fresh fruits and vegetables look, they have been handled and require washing before eating. Create in the children the habit of washing all fruit before they eat it.

A MOTHER with a figure like this?

And Why Not . . .

Splendid results are obtained through our exclusive methods by young mothers desirous of restoring their youthful figures after childbirth. Lax muscles are toned, obesity is overcome and pelvis bones and internal organs are encouraged to resume their normal positions. While the extra weight of pregnancy is disappearing, spot reducing is successful in reducing ankles, large calves and heavy thighs as well as the hips, stomach, and waistline.

Woman's Party to Celebrate Suffrage Anniversary Today

The twenty-seventh anniversary of ratification of the women's suffrage amendment to the Constitution will be celebrated by representatives of National Woman's Party chapters from 31 States this evening at a garden party and reception at the Alva Belmont House, 144 B st. ne.

Dramatization of the trial of Susan B. Anthony—arrested for voting in the Presidential election of 1872—will be the feature entertainment. Mrs. Robert H. Walker of Baltimore wrote the script and will portray the woman suffrage leader. The prologue and epilogue will be recited by Mrs. Leon Freedom, also of Baltimore.

Chapter representatives of the National Woman's Party will present flowers and donations to the memory of Miss Anthony and two other woman's rights pioneers, Lucretia Mott and Elizabeth Cady Stanton.

Miss Alice Paul, chairman of the World Woman's Party and a founder of the National Woman's Party, will give the address of the evening, and music will be furnished by Abrasha Robofsky, baritone, and the Little Symphony of the Army Air Forces Band.

The committee on arrangements includes Mary Murray, chairman of the industrial council of the party; Cecil Norton Broy, chairman of the Viriginia State branch; Lucia Hanna Hadley of Indiana, and Mrs. Mabel Van Dyke Baer, chairman of the D. C. branch.

Mrs. Baulsir Wed To Maj. Woodbury In Quantico Chapel

In Post Chapel, Quantico, August 23, Mrs. Mary Jane Smith Baulsir and Maj. Herbert Woodbury, USMC, of Providence, R. I., were married. Mrs. Woodbury is the daughter of Hugh F. Smith of Washington and Pittsburgh, Pa., and the late Mrs. Smith and she is the granddaughter of Addison T. Smith, former Representative of Idaho.

Miss Carolyn Woodbury, sister of the bridegroom, was the bride's only attendant. Col. Harry Woodbury, USA, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man. The ushers were Maj. Regan Fuller, USMC; Capt. R. J. Morrisey, USMC; Maj. Arthur Hanson, USMCR, and Lieut. Col. Charles Boyer, USMC.

After a small reception at Fort Belvoir, the couple left on a two-week honeymoon in the mountains of New Hampshire. On their return they will reside at Quantico.

Pepco's Swap Offer to Expire This Afternoon

By S. Oliver Goodman

Brokerage offices reported lively business yesterday on exchange of Potomac Electric Power Co. 5½ and 6 per cent preferred stock for the new 3.60 per cent stock. The swap offer expires today at 3 p. m. Thereafter, holders of the old stock will receive the redemption price of $107 a share.

At the close of business yesterday, it was estimated unofficially that about 40 per cent of Pepco's outstanding preferred stock had been deposited under the exchange offer. Some brokers, it was learned, have been letting the certificates pile up and will turn them in today. An avalanche of such accumulations is expected today.

All new shares not exchanged by the deadline today will be purchased by the underwriters and offered to the public at $51.75 a share. Less than 28,000 shares will be available for public offering, it was estimated.

Pepco's old stock may be turned in at local brokerage offices or at the main office of American Security & Trust Co. Exchanges are being made on this basis: two shares of the new $50-par preferred plus $2.90 for each share of the old $100-par preferred stock.

Issuance of the new stock is part of a refinancing plan which aims at simplification of Pepco's capital structure and annual savings of about $143,000 in dividend requirements. No new funds accrue to the company.

WRECO RIGHTS — Washington Railway & Electric Co. stockholders of record September 8 will be issued rights to purchase Capital Transit Co. capital stock, it was announced yesterday following a meeting of Wreco directors. The rights will expire October 13. Wreco stockholders will have the right to purchase two shares of Capital Transit stock at $20 a share for each Wreco share held. North American Co., parent of Wreco and owner of 50,197 of its common shares, will be issued rights to purchase 90,394 shares of the transit stock, as well as any shares not purchased by other stockholders. Yesterday's market value of Capital Transit stock was $22 bid and $23 asked. Wreco must dispose of its holdings of Capital Transit stock under a Securities and Exchange Commission order which requires Wreco's dissolution.

WARNING ISSUED—C. Wilson Harder, president of the National Federation of Small Business, said yesterday "too great emphasis" on prices may cause the Department of Justice "antitrust effort to boomerang." Harder wrote Attorney General Tom Clark that "We must not forget the recent unfortunate experience of the Senate War Investigating Committee. There, secondary matters were permitted to overshadow matters of primary importance to the point that the entire committee was discredited and primary objectives lost." The federation members, he added, are greatly concerned over high prices but "in our present economy prices can be managed with ease. Witness the drop in scrap steel prices following announcement of the Federal Trade Commission action in the steel industry."

ODD LOTS: Rubber Industry consumed 571,774 long tons of crude rubber in first half of 1947 in addition to 147,593 tons or reclaim rubber . . . Worthington Pump & Machinery Corp. has concluded 15-million-dollar loan with Guaranty Trust of N. Y. and other banks to complete acquisition of Government facilities and to supply additional working capital . . . Canada's 1947 wheat crop, estimated between 340 and 360 million, far under last year's record 418 million bushels . . . Henry H. Green of Missouri named president-elect of the Grain and Feed Dealers Association . . . Jewel Tea sales totaled $75,201,395 for 32 weeks, up 56.6 per cent over same 1946 period . . . Magazine Steel estimates steelmaking rate this week dropped 1 per cent to 93 per cent of capacity . . . Florida Power & Light Co. plans offering of 10 million par preferred stock to help finance expansion program . . . Missouri Pacific Railroad authorized by court to spend $5,217,392 for heavier rails on main line . . . Du Pont de Nemours & Co. to build Buffalo plant for research on and development of cellophane.

DEPRESSION ECHO: Government investments in share capital of savings and loan associations have been paid back by nearly 97 per cent as of July 31. The total investment of $273,156,000, made mostly in 1935 to 1937, has been reduced to $9,282,000, Harold Lee, governor of Federal Home Loan Bank System, reported yesterday. The Government netted a tidy 55 million dollars in dividends on its money, in addition to enabling about 1450 institutions more quickly to resume normal lending for construction, purchase and reconditioning of homes during a depression period.

BUILDING INDEX—Production of construction materials fell off in June, the Commerce Department reported. Thirteen of the 19 building materials covered by the department's composite index registered production losses, sending the index down half a point. The index for June was 137.4, using 1939 as 100. Production of lumber and cast iron products dropped, but a substantial rise in cement output offset the decreases in other items.

The index as a whole is 8 points above that for June, 1946. However, floor materials, lumber, structural clay tile, automatic stokers and range boilers were below the production of a year ago. Increases from May were shown in brick, cement, gypsum products, concrete reinforcing steel, steel conduit and mechanical stokers.

MINDING YOUR BUSINESS

Truman Loses Prize Exhibit

PRESIDENT TRUMAN may well say, "Et tu, Henry."

For on Monday came the "most unkindest" price boost of all. Henry Ford 2d, reversed his policy of last January. Then Ford cut prices $15 to $55 amid a fanfare of publicity and presidential compliment.

Now Ford prices go up $20 to $97, or 4.2 per cent. The company has yielded to the slow but steady rise in "the cost of things we buy;" also to the rise in wages.

Livingston

And so the President and the Council of Economic Advisers have lost their prize exhibit. When Ford cut, followed by International Harvester, the President was able to cite both for economic statesmanship. He was able to imply that others ought to see the Ford light. Then came the Newburyport Plan. Small retailers were doing it too. Both the big and the little were capable of exercising industrial statesmanship.

The President has been quite explicit on what industrial statesmanship means: "Business should reduce prices whenever possible to bring about the necessary increase in purchasing power to bolster markets." He was far less explicit on the meaning of labor statesmanship:" Labor should refrain from excessive demands that would require price increases or would prevent price reductions that are necessary to sell capacity output.

FOR FORD, the price cut was strategic. The President had set the stage with his Economic Report to Congress on January 8. Why not capitalize on that before the headlines died down? The cut paid off in front-page publicity and yards of editorials. And it fitted Ford's declared purpose to regain first place in the low price market: to outsell Chevrolet. By cutting prices — with headlines — Ford could steal a comparative march in the public mind.

There was perhaps a second factor. The 1947 contract with United Auto Workers was due to come up for renewal. By cutting prices in advance of negotiations—by seeming to adhere to the CIO line—Ford could well argue that we've cut prices, therefore we can't raise wages. As events turned out, the UAW won a 15-cent-an-hour wage package from General Motors and, of course, that became the pattern for the industry.

As for the merchants of Newburyport, they had their post-Easter clearance problem. Trade had been slow. They wanted to move goods. They, too, used the presidential plea for a stage. And so off the Newburyport merchants were in a blaze of newspaper space and photographs such as the town had not known since the days of Bossy Gillis.

Yet prices continued to rise. The cost of living index is up to another high, or thereabouts. Corn, because of the short crop, is selling on a parity with wheat. Farm marketings—in dollars—are higher than ever. The price of steel has just risen—following the 31-cent-an-hour wage boost to the coal miners. Thus economic statesmanship—or should it be called jambone?—has come to nought, or nearly nought. Price advances may have been deterred. They were not prevented.

THIS SUGGESTS that pricing is not a matter of individual or corporation choice. The President acknowledged this in respect to farm prices in his midyear report, when he said: "Most farmers cannot voluntarily reduce their prices because they do not make price decisions." Presumably, here the market—supply and demand—is the determining factor.

By now, it ought to be clear to the President and his advisers that complex pressures work on buyers and sellers alike at all times—on producers of raw materials and manufactured goods, on wholesalers and retailers. At any one instant, Ford may resist the upward pressure; so may the merchants of Newburyport; so may International Harvester. But such resistance cannot be long-lasting when the Nation's money supply is three times what it was in 1939; when wages are rising; when raw materials prices are rising, and when new buyers spring up to take the place of those whose wants are met.

If labor, if raw materials producers, if manufacturers all exercise restraint, then prices would not go up. But when a labor union here, a manufacturer there, a wholesaler in still another place decide to exploit the market when goods are scarce, then gradually prices go up. If Ford, General Motors, and Chrysler don't raise their prices, then somebody else gets the profit anyway.

As Charles E. Wilson of General Motors pointed out, G. M. cars are like "$10 bills selling for $8, so it isn't surprising that some of the purchasers use them (the cars) for tens"—by selling in the gray market. That's what's raising the price level: Not enough goods to go around when people have money. It's not a question of profits, but who's going to take the profits. After all, the profits are there—in the insistent, I-won't-take-no-for-an-answer demand for goods.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, Aug. 25 (AP).—Rains brought relief to mid-western corn today and washed away eight cents a bushel from values on the Board of Trade. Oats developed pronounced weakness in sympathy with corn. Wheat eased after early steadiness.

At the close all corn contracts were down the eight-cent limit with unsatisfied orders to sell in the pit. Several times during the day corn touched the bottom and then rallied a few cents. But th rallies lacked strength and the undertone at the close was decidedly weak.

Wheat closed 1¾ to 2⅛ lower, September 1.06⅜ to 1.06½. After a steady start lard turned reactionary and ended 30 to 73 cents a hundred pounds lower, September 17.50.

States in the corn belt from Indiana to Nebraska received rain, either over the weekend or today. The moistur varid, BKT rports indicated it was heavy in eastern Nebraska, a good corn producing territory, and in Iowa. Illinois obtained only localized showers which were not considered of much benefit.

1993 Middies Ending Cruise, To Get Leave

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 25 (AP).—Their 11-week cruise within a few hours of ending, midshipmen and reservists were packing sea bags tonight on a squadron of warships moving up Chesapeake Bay.

Originally slated to enter Annapolis Roads this afternoon, the training fleet later was ordered to wait until after dark.

The 1993 middies, with mates from Naval Reserve Officer Training Corps colleges and additional reservists from civilian life, started out under the command of Rear Admiral John Perry, chief of Carrier Division 6. Their cruise took them as far north as the Scandinavian Peninsula and south to the Caribbean.

They made the last leg of the cruise from the Virginia Capes under the flag of Combat Division 1, headed by Rear Admiral Heber H. McLean.

For the last two weeks second classmen staged mock amphibious attacks on Bloodworth Island. Cadets from West Point collaborated in what the services dubbed Operation Camid 2.

None of the middies will lose time in Annapolis after coming ashore tomorrow morning. The academy staff is set to take in their gear, pay them off and furnish tickets for leave trips all over the country. The future admirals are free for a month, awaiting the start of a new academic year September 29.

Marine Believed Drowned

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 25 (AP).—Search was being continued today for the body of a Marine missing and presumed drowned during the last phase of Operation Camid 2 on Saturday.

The name of the Camp Lejuene Marine, who was taking part in the landing at Camp Pendleton was withheld.

It was not learned until muster was called aboard the USS Cambria several miles offshore that one man was missing. The Marine was in a small boat that was struck by the propeller of another landing craft.

Power Company Dissolution Granted

Richmond, Va., Aug. 25 (AP).—The Great Falls Power Co., a public service corporation, chartered by the General Assembly in 1894, was dissolved by an order of the State Corporation Commission today at the request of the owners.

Assets were transferred to the Washington Railway & Electric Co. The commission's order noted that the 53-year-old company had "never engaged in the performance of any public service."

C. of C. Groups Urged to Back Spending Foes

Williamsburg, Va., Aug. 25 (AP).—"Management under the Taft-Hartley law" came in for discussion tonight at a dinner session of the National Association of State Chambers of Commerce.

Two State chamber presidents were leaders: Lacy I. Rice of West Virginia and Glenn Gardiner of New Jersey.

The dinner followed a full day for the officials from 31 State organizations. Beginning with a breakfast at 8:30, at which President W. J. Petersen of Wisconsin gave his report, the visitors took part in committee meetings and discussions. After the dinner, "Movies of Historyland" were shown in the ballrom of Williamsburg Lodge.

At an early session, E. M. Elkin of Pittsburgh, Pa., chairman of the committee on Federal finances of the association, appealed to the various State chambers to support Congressmen seeking a reduction in Federal expenditures.

"For the first time in many years," he said, "a Congress has reduced a presidential budget instead of increasing it."

He declared that there was evidence that a "good part" of the "vast publicity machinery" of the Federal Government had been "turned loose on a propaganda campaign to convince the public and Congress of the need for vigorous Federal spending.

"Apparently the President and the Government are determined "to maintain the present high levels of peacetime Federal spending indefinitely," he said, adding "this grim prospect serves to emphasize our oft-repeated claim that the only effective way to reduce Federal expenditures is to reduce taxes first."

Mitchell Group Head Will Visit State Schools

Fredericksburg, Va., Aug. 25 (AP).—Mrs. O. F. Northington, jr., chairman of the Mitchell Commission subcommittee studying juvenile delinquency, said today she plans to visit the four State industrial schools this week to secure information for the report which her group is preparing.

Mrs. Northington of Fredericksburg said she would visit Bon Air, Beaumont and Hanover on Tuesday and Wednesday, and her findings will be incorporated in a report she is to present at a public hearing of the Mitchell Commission at Richmond on September 5.

In commenting on the work of her group, Mrs. Northington pointed out that it was hampered by lack of time and hence it would not do much more than "give a cursory glance" at the over-all situation.

Educators Urge Stress on Ideas

Richmond, Va., Aug. 25 (AP).—Education should place the emphasis on "great ideas" rather than on "dry details," the committee on increasing "spiritual values" in education told the study conference of school and college personnel at the University of Richmond today.

Dr. John Page Williams, headmaster of St. Christopher's School in Richmond and chairman of the committee, said that English teachers, in particular, have great opportunity to teach the hopes and aspirations of mankind, and the value of the common man, particularly as told by Milton and the mid-Victorian poets.

He lamented, however, that too often the teaching creed seems to be: "All knowledge and no wisdom."

Judge Again Orders W. Va. Miner Hanged

Keyster, W. Va., Aug. 25 (AP).—Described by the court as "a criminal from youth up," Mark Roy McCauley, 35-year-old strip miner, was sentenced today to be hanged December 10 at West Virginia State Prison for the slaying of a State trooper last September.

McCauley, pale and unshaven, was shackled hand and foot as he was brought here under heavy guard from the State Penitentiary at Moundsville for the special court session.

It was the second time that Judge Earnest A. See had sentenced McCauley to be hanged. Last November 18, he sentenced McCauley to be executed January 17, but the defense gained a review before the State Supreme Court on the grounds of "insanity and new evidence." The high court rejected the appeal.

McCauley was convicted of slaying Sergt. Joseph Horne who was attempting to arrest the Davis, W. Va., miner on a truck theft charge. McCauley also shot and killed Sheriff O. Gay Hovatter of Tucker County during the gun battle last September 9, and wounded the sheriff's son.

In the appeal, McCauley's counsel claimed he had been confined from May to November, 1944, in the State Hospital at Stockton, Calif., as a "raving maniac." An investigation disclosed later that McCauley had been employed at the California institution, but was not admitted as a patient.

Judge See disclosed that he had received 55 anonymous letters in connection with the case, "some begging, some threatening and others blackmailing" him.

Groups Discuss Va. Teacher Pay

Richmond, Va., Aug. 25 (AP).—Subcommittees of two legislative study groups on school problems held a joint meeting at the Capitol today to consider minimum salary proposals for school teachers.

After the meeting, a spokesman said the subcommittees had nothing to report, but that the findings of the groups would be submitted to their main study groups—the Moses Commission and the McCue Committee of the Virginia Advisory Legislative Council.

Among the educational leaders who appeared before the groups today were G. Tyler Miller, State superintendent of public instruction; Dowell J. Howard, assistant State superintendent, and Robert F. Williams, executive secretary of the Virginia Education Association.

Va. Highway Contracts Let For $751,241

Richmond, Va., Aug. 25 (AP).—Awards totaling $751,241 for highway and bridge construction work were made today by the State Highway Commission. The bids were received August 5.

Largest of the contracts was for $399,272 and went to the A. B. Burton Co., Inc., of Lynchburg, for work on Route 130 in Amherst County. This work will include construction of 4.2 miles of 22-foot macadam road and two bridges to extend Route 130 west to within 1 mile of Route 501 at Snowden.

Work on Route 29 in Pittsylvania County to eliminate the only "bottleneck" in a three-lane highway between Chatham and Danville. To be constructed are a bridge across the Banister River and 1.16 miles of divided highway. The contract went to Harvey H. Stewart of Charlotte, N. C., for $171,507.

Ames & Webb of Norfolk was awarded a contract on a bid of $155,468 for construction of 1.3 miles of reinforced concrete on Route 674 in Norfolk County near Colonial Heights.

A contract went to F. J. Gannaway & Co., Norfolk, on a bid of $14,742 for construction of two bridges over Falling Creek on Route 678, in Chesterfield County.

G. P. Clay, Richmond, was awarded a contract for $10,252 for work on Route 152 at Hilton Village which calls for construction of one-half mile of concrete curb and gutter from Route 60 to the intersection of Route 168.

Md. Colleges Expect 28,000 Enrollments

Baltimore, Aug. 25 (AP).—The number of students expected to enter Maryland colleges this fall will reach an all-time high of more than 28,000, or an increase of 4000 over last year's total, a survey showed today.

In addition, school officials said that about only half of the prospective students who applied could be admitted because of limitation facilities.

The University of Maryland heads the prospective list with an enrollment of more than 15,000. Twenty-five per cent of the new tudents will be women, and one-third are veterans.

G. W.Fogg, assistant to the president, said the university had turned down "at least as many as the 3500 new students accepted."

Loyola College, 1000 (816); St. Johns College, 270 (253); Morgan State College, 1300 (1278); Western Maryland College, 870; Mount St. Mary's College, 625 (527); Towson State Teachers College, 650 (500).

Johns Hopkins University said the new enrollment would be "only slightly higher" than the 6463 students in 1946, but "about 5000 applications were refused."

Carilloneurs Guild Opens Luray Session

Luray, Va., Aug. 25 (Spl.).—The Guild of Carillonneurs in North America opened its three-day session today in this town, home of the Luray Singing Tower.

C. T. Chapman, local carillonneur and host, and Kamiel Lefevre, guild president, who directs the world's largest carillon, in Riverside Church, New York, played a welcoming recital tonight on the 47 bells of the Singing Tower.

Entertainment will include a trip through Luray Caverns tomorrow, with a luncheon at the Mimslyn Hotel to be given by the Luray Park Association, convention sponsors. E. W. Lauck of the State Conservation Commission, will welcome the group.

A trip over the Skyline Drive will take place Wednesday afternoon, with a luncheon at Big Meadows Lodge and a talk by Major Nornabell, director of the Bok Singing Tower in Lake Wales, Fla. The final recital will be played by Prof. Percival Price, carillonneur at the University of Michigan and vice president of the guild.

Formal recitals will be given each morning from 7:30 to 10, to which the public is invited free of charge.

Gardner Plans Va. Unlicensed Driver Check

Richmond, Va., Aug. 25 (AP).—Delegate James E. Gardner, one of Richmond's three Democratic nominees for the State Senate said today that he would take steps to devise a system under which a "complete check" can be made on unlicensed drivers in Virginia.

Gardner, a member of the House Committee Militia and Police for five sessions, said a personal investigation had convinced him that driving by unlicensed persons was so widespread in the State that action is necessary.

The Richmond Delegate said figures made available to him by State Police Superintendent C. W. Woodson showed 4827 arrests were made for driving without a license in Virginia in the fiscal year ending in 1946. He said 1947 figures were likely to be "considerably" higher.

"I think Colonel Woodson and his men are doing a splendid job in patrolling our highways and helping keep them safe," Gardner said. "However, I believe a thorough check of drivers' licenses is essential in Virginia. . . . I intend to consult with Colonel Woodson and see if some way can't be devised to correct this condition."

Son-in-Law Held In Woman's Death

Keyser, W. Va., Aug. 25 (AP).—Edward Buracker, 23, is being held in Mineral County Jail in connection with the shotgun shooting of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Hazel Smith Bosley, 61, State Police Corporal R. R. Karickhoff said today.

Wounded when a shotgun blast struck her in the hip and abdomen, Mrs. Bosley died yesterday in Potomac Valley Hospital.

Karickhoff said she was shot in a scuffle at her home in Antioch, W. Va., after she and her husband, Luke Wilbur Bosley, 65, had returned home from a strip to Keyser with Buracker and his wife.

Va. Ice Cream Output Down 28% in July

Richmond, Va., Aug. 25 (AP).—The Virginia Cooperative Crop Reporting Service had its own hot weather item today.

Ice cream production, the service reported, declined 28 per cent during the past month compared with July, 1946. In July, 1947, 1,180,000 gallons of ice cream were produced in Virginia compared with 1,641,000 gallons in the same month last year.

Delicatessen Artist Gay Amid Salami

New York, (U.P.)—Walter Phillips, a sad-eyed waiter in the Fifty-eighth Street Delicatessen, neatly aligned the mustard pot and salt and pepper shakers on the cracked marble-topped table and looked up at the paintings on the wall.

Those paintings were Phillips' first art show and even though the salami and bologna in the delicatessen did not provide as impressive an atmosphere as perhaps would have prevailed in a dealer's gallery, Phillips was proud of the display.

Phillips, a former actor and vaudevillian, looked at the fourteen paintings, brilliant circus clowns and skyline scenes of Manhattan, and said he felt he had achieved his artistic goal.

For two years, he explained, he had painted moody pictures. A year ago he switched to the gay clowns and soon began to feel he had struck the medium best suited for him.

"No, we have no limburger sandwiches," Phillips said gently to a customer, then returned to his favorite topic. "It came out of nowhere, almost overnight, this urge to paint gaiety . . ."

Oxygen Tank Offered As Hangover Cure

Houston, Tex., (U.P.) — Anyone with a mean hangover and $6 might see J. F. Hury. He's got the "perfect cure."

Hury, division manager of the Houston Oxygen Co., said his side line of aiding the over-indulgent had its birth when fliers discovered during the war that oxygen would clear the head and drive alcohol out of the bloodstream. The company prepares oxygen for medical purposes.

Hury said the handy 40-cubic-foot "pocket size" tank is ideal for week-ending. The large "economy" size which holds 122 cubic feet is recommended for those with really brutal hangovers.

"All you have to do, is relax lying down, open the valve and sniff for a couple of hours," Hury said.

Modern Violin Gets Nod Over $22,000 Strad

Philadelphia, (U.P.).—A modern master of the violin maker's art, William Moenning, listened with satisfaction when music experts voted his 1947 instrument as having a "sweeter tone" than that of the 247-year-old Stradivarius pitted against it.

Eighty-seven of the critics voted the $1000 Moenning as "sweeter" while 43 chose the $22,000 Stradivarius.

Pistol Toter in Bank Just Wanted Change

Seattle, (U.P.).—Officials at a local bank were puzzled.

Little Boiler, Much Steam

Warner, N. H. (U.P.).—A 75-pound locomotive capable of pulling three adults in a flatcar on a special track has been built by Elmer Lockwood, a retired manufacturing engineer now living here for his health. The four-foot hand-made job can generate 120 pounds of steam in its little boiler.

'Gator Goes Inland

Seymour, Tex. (U.P.).—Cowboys and alligators don't mix somehow, especially in this comparatively dry section of Texas, as one alligator found out the other day. Hands on the ranch of Mrs. E. W. Hunt spotted the "varmint" in a stock tank, roped it and killed it after they got it out on dry land. Just what the 6-foot specimen was doing so far inland still is a mystery.

FOR BEST SERVICE PLACE YOUR ADS EARLY

The steadily growing volume of classified ads in The Post, combined with the practice of many advertisers who phone late in the day, is making it difficult to devote the time and assistance to these late callers which is needed to prepare the most effective possible copy.

To assure receiving this help from your ad-taker, please try to call during the morning or early afternoon.

THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

Does Slick Paint Job Change Woman's Looks?,

The other day we ran an item about A. C. S. wanting to know why "men invariably judge women by their looks (over which they have no control) rather than by their accomplishments."

Bill Foster of 3730 North Glebe rd., Arlington, Va., replies with an explosive:

You have a point, Bill—but does a slick paint job actually change a woman's looks?

WHAT? IN AURGUST?

K. L. Steinmetz, of 1809 S. Fern st., Arlington, Va., pitches me a curve:

"The last time you were asked to use an item about a lawn party you said the only reason you were doing it was to see if the printers would omit an 'r' from the contributor's name.

"The Fort Scott Post of the American Legion is holding a lawn party on the grounds of the Nellie Custis School (23d and Grant sts., Arlington) on the afternoon and evening of September 6. Object: To raise funds for a Legion meeting place.

Oh, R-ite—just this once. After all, the "r" months are practically here again.

HOW TRUE, COMRADE

B. M. House, of 1867 Park rd. nw., submits the pun of the week.

He says that in view of all those Russian vetoes, the Soviet diplomatic headquarters here should be renamed "The Russian Negation."

PROBABLY WORTH MORE THAN IT WAS NEW

You can stop wondering. It's a 1929 Buick, and still runs fine, according to the driver.

STREET SCENE

I saw him put a nickel in one parking meter, and then walk a few steps and put one in another.

"Pardon my curiosity," I said, "but how can one man park two cars?"

"See that policeman writing out tickets down there?" he asked. "Well, I don't have any cars parked here, but I've paid my share of tickets, so I'm just beating the District out of 10 bucks. What's more, I wish I had some more nickels."

OVERHEARD ON A BUS

"Yeah—I saw something about that. But how can we lend them money if Congress isn't in session?"

"Aren't we the World Bank?"

"Well whadda ya know."

QUESTION AND ANSWER

"Dear Bill: This is about the item you ran concerning 'pretty Shirley Wolfson' and the radio program incident.

"In case the boys have any ideas about calling her up for a date, this is to advise that she and I are going to be married next month.

"Your story was very accurate. How come you missed the phone number?"

Leonard R. Ansell.

Dear Len: Congratulations on the marriage and what makes you think I missed the phone number? Do you think I blab everything I know? Bill.

All Roosevelts to Sign 'Letters'

New York.—Duell, Sloan & Pearce, in publishing the first volume of the letters of Franklin D. Roosevelt—from the time he began to write until the day when he was graduated from Harvard—will have a foreword bearing the signatures of Mrs. Roosevelt and all the children. There will be no dissension in the family about this project . . . Eddie Cantor will make a trip to Palestine . . . Josephine Baker finally has signed an agreement to return to America. She will appear at the Latin Quarter in Chicago, starting November 13. Miss Baker demanded $4000 a week exclusive of income taxes, but relented and agreed to pay the taxes.

Pan American officials have been called into conference by Juan Trippe to work out a new formula for the Chosen-Instrument plan which Truman rejected. Judge Sam Rosenman may be called in to assist them . . . In the Balkans a Fascist beast is described as one who cannot tell the Palace of the Soviet from a hole in the ground—which it is . . . The fact that no rival mob has suffered any casualties since the murder of Bugsy Siegel is being pointed to as an indication that the shooting was done by one of his confederates. If this had been part of a gang war, Siegel's men would have taken counter-measures by now.

Maurice Maeterlinck, the poet-playwright, is devoting his time to realistic fiction. Maeterlinck had booked passage to Europe for his wife and her aged parents. Her father died on the eve of the sailing. The widow was told that her husband had become ill and was in the ship's infirmary. Throughout the trip Maeterlinck had to persuade her that her husband was too ill to receive any visitors—and when the boat docked he told her that the patient had to remain aboard. Now, in their home in the south of France, Maeterlinck concocts a daily report about her husband's condition—complete with letters from the dead man.

This fall, for the first time in his career, Frank Sinatra will work at the New York Capitol instead of at the Paramount. Sinatra's contract with MGM gave the studio first call on his personal appearances and the studio exercised the option in favor of the Capitol . . . Paul Porter, the former special Ambassador to Greece, has written his first magazine piece about his mission. It will be published by Collier's, September 12 and is called "Wanted in Greece—A Miracle." Porter presented the check for this article to the Americans for Democratic Action.

The Veterans Hospital in Huntington, W. Va., has been conducting a novel experiment in surgery. Three weeks before a patient is scheduled to be operated on—if the operation is one which requires only a local anesthetic—the patient is asked for a list of his favorite music pieces. Then, on the day of the operation, when the local anesthetic has been administered and the operation is about to begin, earphones are placed on the patient's ears. The earphones connect with a record-playing device in another room. And while the surgeons operate the patient listens to his favorite melodies . . . Louis Johnson is being groomed for a senatorial race in West Virginia . . . Milton Berle will receive $17,500 a week for his appearance at the Roxy Theater in New York.

I Dream and Write

I light my cozy lamp at home . . . And there I read and write . . . While stars of silver mingle with . . . The shadows of the night . . . And there I dream in solitude . . . Of places far away . . . Where happiness and friendship fill . . . The hours of the day . . . I wander in a valley where . . . The grass is always green . . . And everything is beautiful . . . And sunny and serene . . . Where children play and flowers grow . . . And life is young and free . . . And all the people of the town . . . Are kind and neighborly . . . I gaze upon the silver stars . . . Beyond my cozy light . . . And in the comfort of my dream . . . I take my pen and write.
